HOUSE REJECTS O'CONNOR-HULL BEER MEASURE

Bill Is Indirectly Defeated by 228-to-169 Vote on Motion.

REFERENDUM BACKED BY SENATOR JOHNSON

Snell Predicts Republicans Will Adopt Liberal Plank on Prohibition.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Wet sentiment was in another ferment at the Capitol yesterday, but it did not reach the real beer stage.

The House of Representatives, by a vote of 228 to 169, indirectly defeated the O'Connor-Hull bill to legalize the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer.

Meantime there were these other developments in the prohibition controversy:

Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), California, long an ardent dry, came out for resubmission of the eighteenth amendment to the States, saying that "practically all agree upon a referendum now."

Borah to Be Absent.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, who wrote the dry plank in the Republican platform of 1928, indicated that he was not going to the Republican convention in June even if Congress is through by then. This was a blow to the drys, who have been counting on him to oppose a wet or moist plank in the 1932 platform.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, Republican leader of the House and scheduled to be the permanent chairman of the Republican national convention, predicted that a liberal prohibition plank would be adopted. He has always voted dry.

It became known that a group of prominent Republicans had shaped a plank which, while opposing repeal, would permit slow modification of the prohibition laws.

Dinwiddie Opposes Move.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, secretary of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, said the Republicans had consulted him about such a plank but that he had turned thumbs down on it.

Commenting on the written statement of Deets Pickett, of the Methodist Board of Prohibition Temperance and Morals, that Franklin D. Roosevelt's election as President would not be a repudiation of prohibition, Dr. Dinwiddie said that he could not see how anybody could cling "to the notion that Roosevelt is dry when he himself says he is wet."

The 228 to 169 vote against beer yesterday was the nearest thing to a real wet and dry vote the House has had since passage of the Volstead enforcement act in 1919. Actually the vote was on a motion to discharge the ways and means committee from further consideration of the O'Connor-Hull bill, the commitee having declined to report out this measure.

Majority Vote Required.

A majority vote—the same as would have been needed for passage of the bill—was required to discharge the commitee and bring the bill up for direct action.

The number voting yesterday was 397. Thus, with 169 voting "aye" and 228 "no," a shift of 30 votes would have given the wets a majority.

The division on the vote by parties was as follows:

Against—Republicans, 116; Democrats, 112.

Representative Clague (Republican), of Minnesota, evidently had not made up his mind, so he simply voted "present." Speaker Garner, who was presiding, also witheld his vote. Eighteen members were paired so that their votes did not count.

"Mercy Slayer" Gets Three Months in Prison

Copenhagen, Denmark, May 23 (A.P.).—Mrs. Else Wille Bang, defendant in Denmark's famous "mercy slaying," was convicted today on a modified charge of assisting her mother to commit suicide by administering an overdose of medicine to her. She was sentenced to three months in prison. The conviction closed the case, which was a subject of widespread controversy in which the "right to kill" was discussed.

Mrs. Bang's mother, Baroness von Dueben, died late in November. Her daughter was charged with murder on her own confession that she administered narcotics to end her mother's sufferings from an incurable disease.

Mrs. Putnam Flew Sea for Glory of Sex

London, May 23 (A.P.).—Amelia Earhart Putnam shopped today for clothes to augment her flying togs, was toasted by British journalists and gained one of the points of her solo flight across the Atlantic—an admission by a man that women could do something valuable.

The slim, blonde flier, whose tousled hair and frank smile have captured the fancy of the British public, said feminine resentment at all the "catty things" men say about women drivers and women pilots was the driving urge behind her ocean flight.

"Where there's a traffic jam on Fifth avenue, men always comment, 'Oh, it's a woman driving,'" she explained.

"I have gone up with a mechanic who doesn't know the controls from the altimeter and when I've come down I have heard people say he probably did most of the flying.

"So I determined to show them. And outside of demonstrating that a woman can fly the Atlantic alone, I don't see that I've added anything to aviation, science or anything else."

BISHOP E. H. HUGHES GIVEN CAPITAL POST

Is Named by Methodists at Atlantic City Meeting to Succeed McDowell.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 23 (A.P.).—The General Methodist Conference tonight approved orders assigning eleven domestic bishops to new posts and returning one to the missionary field.

The shifts caused a general rearrangement of presiding bishops in the United States.

All existing general conference missionary bishops were returned to their present posts.

Heading the transfers in importance was that of Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, of Chicago, to Washington, D. C., most important post in the church.

Bishop Hughes will succeed Bishop William F. McDowell, senior bishop of the church, who retired at the present conference.

The two Eastern episcopal areas of New York and Philadelphia had their present bishops, Francis J. McConnell and Ernest G. Richardson, returned to them.

Five other episcopates also obtained reappointment of their existing bishops. Bishop Frederick T. Keeney returned to Atlanta, Bishop Titus Lowe to Portland, Oreg.; Bishop Robert E. Jones to New Orleans, Bishop Frederick D. Leete, to Omaha, and Bishop Matthew W. Clair to Covington, Ky.

The Chicago episcopal area now will be administered by Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf, formerly of Kansas City. The Kansas City post was assigned to Bishop Charles L. Mead of Denver.

Bishop Ralph S. Cushman, one of

New Belgian Ministry Is Formed by Renkin

Brussels, Belgium, May 23 (A.P.).—Niles Renkin, who resigned as Premier Wednesday and was asked by King Albert the following day to constitute a new ministry, succeeded in doing so today.

M. Renkin took the finance portfolio in addition to the premiership. Foreign affairs remain in the hands of Paul Hymans. The cabinet crisis came as a result of a controversy over recognition to be accorded languages used by minority groups.

$25,000 KIDNAP REWARD VOTED IN NEW JERSEY

Legislature Passes Bill to Induce Betrayal of Baby's Slayers.

GOVERNOR CONFIRMS OFFER FROM CAPONE

Boston Police Chief Offers Name of Person Linked to "Jafsie" Payment.

Boston, May 23 (A.P.).—Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley said tonight he had furnished authorities with the name of a person believed to have been involved in the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby and the collection of $50,000 ransom paid by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Crowley refused to go into details. He said he had been pledged to secrecy, and that publicity might injure authorities in their search for the suspects.

He did say, however, that the person suspected was believed to have arranged the negotiations with Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie," who paid the $50,000 ransom.

Big Reward Voted.

Hopewell, N. J., May 23 (A.P.).—A $25,000 reward loomed ahead of the man hunters engaged in pursuing the Lindbergh baby killers tonight as they opened up new channels of inquiry by mail.

At nearby Trenton, the State Legislature, which reconvened during the day, passed a bill empowering Gov. A. Harry Moore to order the reward.

The bill was introduced in the Republican State Senate by Emerson L. Richards, majority leader, and speedily approved by a vote of 12 to 0 and sent to the Assembly for consideration.

Promptly the Assembly passed the bill, 54 to 1.

Opponent Explains Vote.

The lone opposition vote by Assemblyman McCampbell, of Monmouth, was explained thusly by him:

"The Federal Government has 25,000 men hunting for these kidnapers. New Jersey has its entire police force out. It (the reward) is perfectly ridiculous. It's a publicity stunt. We can't even provide for the dole."

Gov. Moore, to whom the bill now will be sent, approved of it in advance and probably will act tomorrow to put the ransom offer in effect.

"We think," said the governor, "and hope the reward may cause someone who knows something to squeal."

While he pointed out the State of New Jersey could not make a grant of immunity, he said the measure authorizing the reward would have "more latitude" regarding its payment than the statute limiting routine rewards to $1,000.

Circulars Sent Out.

Reviewing the wide-flung search in progress and commenting on the reward, the governor said:

"Then we will have done every-

Japanese Commander Still Lives, Officials Say

Shanghai (Tuesday), May 24 (U.P.).—After officially announcing the death of Gen. Shirakawa, Japanese authorities here today issued a later statement that he still was living. The first statement said the general had died at 1:10 p. m. yesterday.

Gen. Shirakawa, commander in chief of Japanese armed forces at Shanghai, was injured by a bomb thrown by K. Hokichi, a Korean, at a Japanese celebration April 29. Dr. Deiui Kawabata, 59, a physician, was killed by the blast.

Norton-Blanton Feud Kills 24 District Bills

Texan's Bitter Fight on Bowman Securities Measure Causes Impasse; House is Charged With Lack of Interest in Capital.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The smouldering feud between Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House District committee and her Democratic colleague, Tom Blanton, of Texas, burst into flame yesterday. Twenty-four District bills were lost in the conflagration.

The break, which may cost the District its last day in the House, came on the Bowman securities bill, bitterly opposed by the Texan. He charged it allows convicted defrauders to resume their illegal practices.

Personalities, thinly veiled at past District sessions, were indulged in openly and at length after Mr. Blanton met a move to cut short opposition speeches by raising a point of no quorum.

Mrs. Norton waited until the roll was called, asked for five minutes to address the House, then entered the well of the chamber, facing Mr. Blanton. She concluded a speech on committee difficulties with the statement:

"I find the gentleman from Texas is opposed to everything that comes before the House. In matters of District legislation he doesn't come to me as man to man and tell me what his objections are.

"Instead he has come to me smiling and has offered his help. I will tell the gentleman now to his face he has never given me any help. Last District day he alone consumed two hours of the District's time."

When Representative Wright Patman (Democrat), Texas, who had spoken against the Bowman bill, asked Mrs. Norton to yield, she replied:

"Mr. Blanton is the gentleman from Texas I refer to."

Mr. Blanton followed her into the well.

"No catty remarks can prevent me from doing my duty," he said. "This bill gives all power to the superintendent of insurance in regulating securities. That is too much authority to place in one office. Before Mrs. Norton came here I forced an investigation of the superintendent of

BLACKMER TO PAY TEAPOT DOME FINE

"Missing Witness" of Oil Inquiry to Give Over $60,000 Today.

Harry Blackmer, famous as the missing witness in the Teapot Dome oil inquiry, yesterday served notice through his attorney, George Gordon Battle, of New York, that today he will pay the fine of $60,000 levied upon him because of his failure to return to this country from Paris and testify in the inquiry.

Blackmer fled to Paris as the inquiry into the oil deals got under way. A special act of Congress was passed to make him amendable to the law here, and under that $100,000 worth of Liberty bonds were seized by United States Marshal Edgar Snyder. They are on deposit at the National Savings & Trust Co.

In order to prevent the bonds from being sold on the market to meet the fine, Blackmer has made arrangements to pay his fine in cash. The bonds will then be returned to him.

Mr. Battle, when interviewed in New York last night, declared he believed the action would permit Blackmer to return to this country freely. He was unable to say what developments might come from any other cases pending against the Denver oil magnate in this country.

It was pointed out that the Government imposed penalties of between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000 on the Blackmer estate for failure to make proper income tax returns. He was also indicted in Denver by a Federal court on a charge of conspiring to violate the income tax laws.

Two Months' Tunneling Into Bank Proves Futile

Cincinnati, May 23 (A.P.).—Seven men who spent two months chiseling through walls in the manner of a Sherlock Holmes thriller, failed in an attempted robbery of the Western Bank and Trust Co. early today.

The seven rented a second-story flat adjoining the bank March 20, and patiently bored their way through the two brick walls between them and the banking room next door. Last night their shaft was completed and they crawled through. The night watchman was bound and gagged and forced to tell them how to make his regular half-hour calls while they went to work on the vault with drills and acetylene torches. The five-ply steel defeated them, however, and at 3:30 a. m. they fled.

Earl of Inchcape Dies on His Yacht

Father of Sea Flier Who Perished Was Noted Benefactor.

Monte Carlo, May 23 (A.P.).—The Earl of Inchape, one of the great shipping magnates of the world and father of the Hon. Elsie Mackay, who perished in an attempt to fly the Atlantic in 1928, died today of a heart attack on his yacht Rover off Monte Carlo. He was 79 years old.

The earl, who was chairman of the Peninsular & Oriental Steamship Line, frequently gave of his services and his fortune to the British nation.

After the disappearance of their daughter and her pilot, Capt. Walter G. R. Hinchcliffe, on the ocean flight, Lord and Lady Inchape gave $2,500,000 to the British treasury to accumulate for 50 years at compound interest and then be used to reduce the national debt.

NAZIS TO BE BARRED FROM REICH REGIME

Bruening Plans to Establish More Dictatorial Rule Against Hitler.

Berlin, May 23 (U.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening was understood tonight to have decided to keep Adolph Hitler's Fascist party out of the Government by establishing a stronger and more dictatorial regime in Germany.

Contrary to the expectations of foreign diplomats, the chances of immediate entry of the Hitlerites into the Cabinet appeared to be fading rapidly, as Chancellor Bruening arranged to fill gaps caused by resignations during the recent governmental crisis.

The Chancellor, it was indicated, intends to rest the strength of his regime more than ever on the authority of President Paul Von Hindenburg and the leaders of the army.

Several ambassadors previously had advised their governments that the Fascists were likely to wield an important share in the Government within a month. This seemed to be strengthened by the fact that the Fascists are the strongest party in the Prussian Diet, which convenes tomorrow to select a new Premier.

But developments appear to be taking a turn which will keep out the Hitlerites for the present at least. The fate of the Reich is still obscure, but it appears that the Fascists, themselves, are content for the present to act as the opposition to the cabinet and devote their talents to increasing their strength to a clear majority.

By this method they will avoid the necessity of joining with less nationalistic factions to gain partial control of the government.

Wakatsuki to Join New Tokyo Cabinet

Admiral Saito Also Seeks Members From House of Peers.

Tokyo, May 23 (A.P.).—Admiral Makoto Saito, Nonpartisan Liberal commissioned by Emperor Hirohito to head a new government, began the task today of forming a national emergency cabinet to succeed that of the slain premier, Suyoshi Inukai.

Former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki, who headed the Minseito party cabinet that fell last December, when Mr. Inukai came to power at the head of a Seiyukai government, was invited by the admiral to join his cabinet. Outstanding leaders of the Seiyukai party and of the House of Peers also were expected to be invited into the new ministry.

After his interview with Admiral Saito, Baron Wakatsuki consulted Baron Tatsuo Yamamoto, adviser of the Minseito party, whom he expected to recommend for a portfolio. Selection of the cabinet is likely to take several days.

Ford Automobile Plants Put Hundreds to Work

Seattle, May 23 (A.P.).—The new Ford assembly plant here opened today with 600 men employed at an average monthly pay roll of $100,000.

Denver, May 23 (A.P.).—Seven hundred men went back to work here today as the Ford Motor Company resumed production at its Denver assembly plant, shut down January 1. Factory officials said 500 to 700 more workers will be on the pay roll within 30 days.

FRANCO-REICH PARLEY LOOMS ON REPARATION

CONFERENCE IS HELD LIKELY NEXT WEEK

European Nations Awaiting Settlement Before Resuming Payments.

Berlin, May 23 (A.P.).—Nationalist spokesmen reported today that industrial and political leaders of Germany plan to meet certain friends of Edouard Herriot, dominant figure in French politics, and certain French financiers at Luxembourg next week to try to devise some intermediate solution of the reparations problem.

The Deutscher Schnelldienst agency of the German Nationalist party, published the report as originating in Luxembourg, where it said the prospective conferees wished to attempt a solution of the issue on neutral soil.

M. Herriot, because of the strength his radical Socialist party has in the new French Chamber of Deputies, is expected to be the principal member of a new French government, either as premier or foreign minister.

Serious Condition Prevails.

He said in a signed article last week in the newspaper Le Democrate, at Lyons, where he is mayor, that France seldom had been in such a serious condition internally and externally as it was now, but that "the difficulties we have encountered have not prevented us from hearing the address in the Reichstag of Chancellor Bruening."

His reference was to a declaration by the German chancellor that complete cancellation of political debts was the most important requisite to economic recovery of the world. The chancellor reiterated his assertion that Germany would be unable to resume reparations payments at the end of the Hoover moratorium, which expires in June.

Conference in Lausanne.

An international conference on reparations and war debts, probably including discussion of all the financial ills of the world and their solution, is tentatively scheduled to meet at Lausanne, Switzerland, on June 16.

Meanwhile, the nations of Europe are waiting for some settlement of the problem before resuming the payment of their international debts, including those to the United States.

Haitian Cabinet Quits After Year in Power

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, May 19 (By Mail) (A.P.).—The Haitian cabinet, which had been in office for exactly a year, has resigned, and a new one formed under the leadership of Abel N. Leger, secretary of state and foreign affairs.

Leger was the only member of the old cabinet to be reappointed by President Vincent. The government's version of the shift was that the cabinet resigned "at its own convenience for personal reasons."

Prof. Piccard Planning New Stratosphere Trip

Brussels, Belgium, May 23 (A.P.).—Having obtained the consent of his wife, Prof. Emile Piccard, who made a flight into the stratosphere last May in a sealed sphere attached to a free balloon, will do it over again next month. He will pilot himself.

CONGRESS SEEKING RELIEF COMPROMISE

(Associated Press.)

How best to deal with the needy unemployed was pondered in the three cardinal points of the legislative compass yesterday as a compromise was sought between the relief plans of the President and those that have been presented by Democrats in the two Houses of Congress.

President Hoover's rejection of proposals for a gigantic public works bond issue drew sharp attack in the Senate. Two relief proposals were brought forward there, one calling for a $5,000,000,000 bond issue for public works.

In the House, independents planned a meeting for Thursday night to devise a plan to "give immediate help in the form of public works and direct relief to the homeless and starving."

Contending that President Hoover was leaving the unemployed "no alternative except starvation and revolt," Senator Cutting (Republican), New Mexico, introduced a bill calling for a $5,000,000,000 public works program.

In addition, Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, offered a new plan for economic recovery, proposing revision of war debts on the basis of present-day prices and payment of the intergovernmental obligations in commodities.

Senator Barbour (Republican), New Jersey, introduced a bill to increase

Board Refuses to Bar Party-Shifting Candidate

Oklahoma City, May 23 (A.P.).—The State election board refused today an application of U. S. Stone, former representative in Congress, asking that Wirt Franklin, head of the Independent Oil Producers Association, be barred from running for United States senator on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Stone, also a Republican candidate for the Senate, charged Mr. Franklin was registered as a Democrat at his home in Ardmore. The board held its duties were ministerial, not judicial.

TYDINGS LOSES RATES BATTLE

Phosphate Rock Denied Protection; Farm Relief Looms.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Opposition to the Senate finance committee tariffs in the billion dollar tax bill, advocated to balance the budget, collapsed last night with the suddenness of a pricked toy balloon and the upper House approved the last two of the four committee tariff proposals.

The committee proposal to impose an embargo tariff of $3 per 1,000 feet on lumber was approved by a vote of 36 to 24. The embargo tariff of 4 cents a pound on copper was approved by a vote of 42 to 25, despite protests from South America that a retaliatory duty would be imposed to bar American goods. Last week the duties on oil and coal had been approved by equally decisive votes.

Apparent collapse of the antitariff fight advanced the prospective date of passage of the tax bill but did not mean its legislative path was an entirely smooth one from now on.

Other Fights Looming.

Emboldened by the official and unofficial criticism of the fighting Senate for its failure to accept without question whatever bill was put before it, advocates of other measures are planning to take advantage of the desire of Senate leaders to pass a budget-balancing tax bill and make the bill the vehicle to carry to enactment measures they could not otherwise write on the statute books.

Having done with the tariff fight, Chairman Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, who suddenly gave up his 500-amendment fight without warning last night, returns to the futile attack, the Senate now is faced with an attack from the representatives of the beloved farmers.

Senator Gerald P. Nye (Republican), of North Dakota proposed the relief program sponsored by the professional farm organizations as an amendment to the tax bill. At the time, of course, the tariff fight was holding the tax bill up, seemingly indefinitely. There was fear that even the tax bill to balance the budget—which the bill will not—might not be passed before the time came for the national political conventions.

Norris to Champion the Farmer.

Senator George W. Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, was reported last night ready to take the floor today in support of the farm relief amendment. The farm representatives argued the bill afforded relief for many, but not the farmer and admitted they were trying to make it the vehicle to carry to enactment legislation which otherwise would not have a chance. Collapse of the tariff fight, however, is expected to act as a deterrent on proposals of others that the tax bill shall be the gravy-boat on which their especial measures shall ride to law.

Senator James E. Watson (Republican), of Indiana), majority leader of the Senate, heaved a sigh of relief over the tariff votes, and said they meant an appreciable advance in the passage of the bill.

Senator Watson, incidentally, has been one of the major factors in advancing the bill. Why he is the leader of his party in the Senate, incidentally, was shown yesterday when

DO-X Barely Averts Crash On Ending Hop to England

Southampton, England, May 23 (A.P.).—The German flying boat DO-X narrowly escaped disaster on arriving here this evening after an uneventful flight of 630 miles from Vigo, Spain, in six and a half hours.

The giant plane alighted perfectly on Southampton water and was taken in tow by the royal air force ship Pinnacle, which was to bring her to her moorings. When she was in a position to be moored and the tow-rope had been cast off, one of her navigating officers leaning over the bows to grasp the moorings, fell into the water.

With all engines shut off the plane was caught in the grip of a fast-flowing tide and carried toward the Calshot air station jetty.

The DO-X mechanics, standing on the wings, strove frantically to get some of her twelve engines working. First one, then another, stuttered and failed.

Finally, when only a few feet lay between the DO-X and shipwreck, an engine sprang into life and the huge ship was slowly taxied out of danger.

Meanwhile the officer who had fallen into the water was promptly rescued by a royal air force dinghy.

Tonight, an hour or so after her arrival at 7:15 p. m. (1:15 p. m. E. S. T.), the plane lay opposite the air station in the glare of searchlights. Some 3,000 gallons of fuel were put aboard her so she can resume her flight toward her base at Lake Constance tomorrow.

Troops Called as Veterans Soap Rails and Seize Train

Springfield, Ill., May 23 (A.P.).—Adjt. Gen. Carlos E. Black, of the Illinois National Guard, announced tonight he would send troops within a few hours to East St. Louis, Ill., where 300 war veterans marching to Washington, D. C., were reported to have seized a freight train. Gen. Black said he had decided to call out the troops after a long distance conversation with Acting Gov. Fred E. Sterling at his home in Rockford.

Caseyville, Ill., May 23 (U.P.).—With the aid of some soap and strategy that would have done credit to a World War general, World War veterans captured another freight train here today on their "no-ticket" journey to Washington.

The soap went upon the rails to cause the locomotive driving wheels to spin and thus slowed up a Baltimore & Ohio freight train.

The strategy confounded railroad police, who thought the 310 veterans had disbanded. In reality they were waiting for another freight, after three days of opera bouffe commandeering of trains in the vicinity of St. Louis.

The veterans are en route to Washington from Portland, Oreg., under command of W. W. Waters, to lobby for passage of the soldiers' bonus bill. Waters had announced that the caravan had given up in disgust. He left East St. Louis in a bus.

Most of the former soldiers, who had been camping on top of a freight

Dinwiddie Is Puzzled by Deduction That Roosevelt Is Not Really Wet.

(Associated Press.)

Prominent Republicans are endeavoring to shape a moist plank which would conserve the party's dry support, but so far they have run up against opposition from dry organization leaders who have been consulted.

This was disclosed yesterday as the House defeated another effort to legalize and tax 2.75 per cent beer and as two prohibition organization principals clashed over whether Franklin D. Roosevelt was really wet at heart or a repealer for political gain only.

Coincident with the revelation that one of the many Republican planks being considered would oppose repeal but permit slow modification of the existing laws, Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, secretary of the national prohibition board of strategy, said he had been consulted by many Republicans but had turned a deaf ear to all suggestions.

"We are against any extraconstitutional method of making repeal of the eighteenth amendment easy," Dr. Dinwiddie said. "We've got our orders from our people and we will oppose any proposition that would be letting down on enforcement."

Trying to Help Party.

"The drys who are working on this," he added, "are trying to conserve the cause and help the party. We are drys and we are in an irrepressible conflict with the wets who want to repeal prohibition. As it is now it is up to the men in Congress to represent their own districts and States and their own convictions on prohibition. Any plank which would attempt to bind them to a party attitude would be corraling votes for the opposition."

All Republican plank proposals considered thus far have been tentative. Representative Snell, of New York, the House leader, who is in line for permanent chairman of the national convention, predicted yesterday the platform would contain a liberal plank on prohibition, but no one could tell what the details would be.

"It is pretty hard," said Mr. Snell, who has always voted dry, "to take a position that the people can not express their sentiments on a vitally important economic and social problem."

Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, started the argument over Gov. Roosevelt's prohibition views with publication of an article in the April 5 issue of the Voice, a board organ.

Puzzled by Deduction.

The article said if Roosevelt is nominated and elected the drys "will have no reason to feel that prohibition has been repudiated."

Mr. Pickett added that Mr. Roosevelt's antiprohibition statements were merely a "sop to the wets" to "hold his New York support" in the national convention, and it would be a "mistake to consider him to be what is ordinarily known as a 'soaking wet.'"

Dr. Dinwiddie was puzzled by the Pickett deduction.

"I can't get it!" he exclaimed. "I can not see how any considerable number of drys could call this a correct statement of Mr. Roosevelt's prohibition position, in view of what Mr. Roosevelt himself has said. I can not see them clinging to the notion that Mr. Roosevelt is dry when he himself says he is wet."

Meanwhile, speculation in both parties began with the disclosure that Senator Borah, of Idaho, would not attend the Republican convention and the advocacy by Roosevelt in an Atlanta speech of a redistribution of the national wealth.

Borah, while making no statement himself, is understood to have expressed his determination to remain away from the Chicago conclave in response to a direct inquiry from President Hoover. While the Idahoan helped to frame the 1928 platform and took a leading role in the ensuing presidential campaign he has been in disagreement with Mr. Hoover on every major issue since.

Little Comment on Speech.

Little comment was forthcoming on the Roosevelt speech, which Senator Long (Democrat), Louisiana, inserted in the Congressional Record after reading in the Senate that part touching on a "wiser" distribution of the Nation's wealth.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, a supporter of Alfred E. Smith, said the public would be "greatly interested" in whatever specific plan the New Yorker has to offer.

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, a Roosevelt advocate, said he was chiefly interested in what Gov. Roosevelt said about the need of the spirit of youth in experimenting with relief measures.

Delegation From Idaho Will Be Chosen June 10

Boise, Idaho, May 23 (A.P.).—Withdrawal of Senator Borah from his expected place on the Idaho delegation to the Republican national convention leaves the group from his home State without the leadership it has had in a number of previous presidential years.

At the last national convention the Idaho delegation was instructed for Borah for President, but he declined to make any use of the pledge, holding himself strictly to shaping the party platform.

The delegation will be chosen at the State convention June 10, the delegates to which will be named at tomorrow's primary election.

Borah's withdrawal aroused speculation as to whether Senator Thomas also would withdraw from a place on the delegation usually held by the junior senator. There has been some sentiment among Idaho Republicans against the senators taking a place on the delegation.

Dollar Stabilizing Bill In Senate Group Today

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Norbeck, of the Senate banking committee, yesterday called a meeting of the group for today to take up in executive session the Goldsborough bill to stabilize the dollar.

Norbeck said he hoped a vote would be had.

HOUSE STRIKES BLOW TO BEER IN O'CONNOR-HULL BILL DEFEAT

and sixteen were absent. There are now two vacancies in the House.

The O'Connor-Hull bill would legalize the manufacture and sale of beer containing 2.75 per cent of alcohol by weight or 3.46 per cent by volume—about seven times the ½ of 1 per cent allowed by the Volstead act.

The bill would tax beer at the rate of 3 cents a pint, and, according to its proponents, would yield an annual revenue for the Federal Treasury of $500,000,000. Also, its authors argued, it would give employment to at least 2,000,000 persons.

Wets Expected Defeat.

The wets knew that the bill would be rejected, just as they knew last March that the Beck-Linthicum resolution for resubmission of the 18th amendment to the States would be defeated. Their sole purpose was to make the members go on record and then face the wrath or approbation of the voters in the next election.

The vote on the Beck-Linthicum resolution was 227 to 187, as against 228 to 169 on the O'Connor-Hull bill. The difference is explained, first, by the fact that there were fewer members present yesterday.

Votes Cast for Beer.

On the other hand, seven who voted against the Beck-Linthicum resolution voted yesterday in favor of beer.

In the first group were such members as Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, who, in voting for the Beck-Linthicum resolution, insisted that he was still a dry, but was in favor of allowing the people a chance to pass on the eighteenth amendment again.

In the second group, composed of those who voted dry in March and for beer yesterday, were Representatives Kvale, a Farmer-Laborite, of Minnesota; Overton and Kemp, Democrats, of Louisiana; Crowe, Campbell and Larabee, Republicans, of Indiana, and Haines, Democrat, of Pennsylvania.

Kvale Votes Dry.

Mr. Kvale, who represents the district once represented by Andrew J. Volstead, author of the enforcement act bearing his name, voted dry on the Beck-Linthicum resolution because he was convinced that the district was dry.

Since then, as a result of a Supreme Court decision on reapportionment, Kvale has learned that he will not run for reelection merely in his own district, but will have to run "at large" in the State as a whole. Minnesota as a whole is strong for beer, and as a candidate for representative-at-large so is young Mr. Kvale.

Representative Overton, of Louisiana, also has a dry district, but Overton is Huey Long's candidate for the Senate. He is soon to face Senator Edwin S. Broussard, a wet, in the Democratic primary. Louisiana as a whole is wet, and with his eye on Broussard's seat, so is Overton.

Wet Wave in Indiana.

How to explain the beer votes of the three Indiana members, in view of their opposition to the Beck-Linthicum resolution, is not quite so simple. It is a fact, though, that a wet wave seems to have swept over Indiana lately. In the last Congress the Indiana delegation was solidly dry; yesterday it voted 7 to 5 for beer.

Representatives Crowe and Canfield said that they were primarily interested in raising revenue to help take the creases out of the Treasury. And, then, after all, they said, nobody could get "tight" on 2.75 per cent beer.

But the authors of the beer bill—John J. O'Connor (Democrat), of New York, a Harvard-trained member of Tammany, and Ed Hull (Republican), of Illinois, a former distiller—welcomed these accessions as a distinct gain to the wet cause and predicted that in the next Congress the House would surely bring back beer.

Senate Is Obstacle.

The greatest obstacle is the Senate. When Senator Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, sought to tack a 2.75 beer amendment onto the tax bill last week, the Senate voted it down, 61 to 24.

While the House was debating the beer bill yesterday, the galleries were crowded to the doors and there were many waiting in the corridors outside.

Far back in the east gallery sat F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, keeping his own count of the vote.

Blanton Is Booed.

Representative Tom Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, read Robert Ingersoll's fiery philippic against liquor, and was rewarded by an outburst of boos. Then he sought to block a vote, was overruled by Speaker Garner, and was booed again.

The tension that marked the vote on the Beck-Linthicum resolution in March seemed absent yesterday. On the first occasion, many of the members seemed terrified lest they should guess wrong. By this time, however, they have heard from home, and now know whether they were right or wrong.

The case of Will Wood (Republican), of Indiana, is a case in point. After voting for the Beck-Linthicum resolution, he virtually made an apology for his action. Yesterday, however, he had no hesitancy in voting for beer.

Crusaders Accuse House Of Shameful Hypocrisy

(Associated Press.)

The following statement was made last night on the beer vote in the House by Rufus S. Lusk, of the Crusaders, antiprohibition organization:

"Today's vote was a real wet and dry test. We know that 169 members are honest-to-goodness wets. Every representative who voted for resubmission but failed to vote for legalized beer is a weaseler seeking both Crusader and Antisaloon League support. * * *

"The House has set a shameful example of hypocrisy; it taxes wort, which can be used solely for the manufacture of outlaw beer, but it refuses to speak out like a man and honestly levy a half-billion dollar tax on legal beer."

Albert J. Kummer, president of the Congressional Districts Modification League, said:

"The vote caused no surprise, it was just what was expected. However, I consider it a great victory, in that it indicates that the number of members favoring the restoration of beer as a legitimate beverage as shown by the result today is nearly double the number who had the courage to vote as they drank in the last Congress."

Large Oversubscription To 91-Day Bills Made

(Associated Press.)

Applications totaling $334,818,000 for $60,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills offered May 19, and maturing August 24, 1932, were announced last night by Secretary Mills.

The highest bid was 99.945, equivalent to an annual interest rate of about 0.22 per cent, and the lowest accepted was 99.927. The total amount accepted was $60,050,000.

34 Kurds Sentenced to Gallows.

Adana, Turkey, May 23 (A.P.).—The criminal court today sentenced 34 Kurds to be hanged for participating in the Ararat revolt which swept the eastern provinces of Turkey in the summer of 1930. Five hundred others are still to be tried. The 1930 revolt centered around Mount Ararat.

JOHNSON DEMANDS SESSION FINISH JOB

Senator Calls Upon Congress to Stay for Work, Despite Party Conventions.

(Associated Press.)

Resubmission of prohibition was added to the congressional program yesterday by Senator Johnson (Republican), California, in proposing a continuous session through the national convention to finish the job.

It was the first declaration by the Californian for resubmission and threw the issue squarely into this session of Congress on the eve of the national convention.

Senator Johnson, himself a candidate in past Republican conventions, called upon Congress to stay to work and placed resubmission behind the tax, relief and appropriation bills on his proposal program.

Johnson's Formal Statement.

In a formal statement he said:

"Practically all agree upon a referendum now. The prohibition law should be put up to the States and the people themselves given the opportunity to pass upon it."

Mr. Johnson's proposition came as Republican leaders close to President Hoover were working on a prohibition plank for the party's convention in June.

There are signs that Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, who wrote the prohibition plank in the 1928 platform of the party, and the President's advisers have split on the new prohibition proposal to be advanced. Mr. Borah is not going to the convention, and he is not saying anything just now on his prohibition views.

"Like some of my distinguished brethren," said Senator Johnson's statement, "my intense desire to go to the Republican National Convention must yield to my stern sense of duty as Senator; and devastating and desolating as it will be to miss the nomination of the Republican candidate for President, I feel the Senate must remain in session for whatever period may be necessary to enable it fully to do its work.

List of Bills Urged.

"Seriously, there should be no adjournment until the Congress has finally passed the following bills:

"1. The Tax Bill.

"2. Unemployment relief, not a makeshift gesture, but an honest and complete unemployment relief program.

"3. The various appropriation measures.

"4. The resubmission of the Eighteenth amendment. Practically all agree upon a referendum now. The prohibition law should be put to the States and the people themselves given the opportunity to pass upon it.

"5. The economy measure — a real economy measure. Not one which disputes the public service and swells the ranks of the unemployed, but one of carefully considered reduction of Governmental expenditures.

"Beyond these are many policies requiring careful and studious consideration—policies and relating to business, banking, farmers and the like; and whatever can be done, after mature deliberation and the most earnest scrutiny, should be done.

"And all these things should be done by Congress, even if it takes all summer."

Absent Accountant Held Walker Agent

Bankers Assert Sherwood Transacted Business for Mayor.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker again bore the brunt of the Hofstadter legislative investigation today when Russell T. Sherwood, absent accountant, was identified as the man who transacted his financial affairs for six years.

In the last public session before the mayor opens his defense on Wednesday the committee was also told that Walker was paid $15,028 in all for "special legal services"—$3,028 of it after he took office—by a theater corporation.

Counsel Samuel Seabury put in evidence 49 letters and ushered a file of bank officials across the platform to show that Sherwood prior to his disappearance in August, 1931, represented Mayor Walker at a New York bank and was acknowledged by the mayor as his fiscal agent.

Late in the day United States District Attorney George Z. Medalie declined to confirm or deny a report that he and Hugh McQuillan, internal revenue officer in this district, were investigating the mayor's income for the past four years of his administration, beginning in 1928 and extending through 1931.

Alabama Execution Decision Date Set

Attack on Validity of Death Sentence of 7 Men Is Filed in High Court.

(Associated Press.)

The seven Negroes under sentence of death on two white women near Scottsboro, Ala., will know on May 31 whether they must die June 24 or whether the Supreme Court will review their convictions next October.

Three cases were filed in the Supreme Court yesterday challenging the validity of the conviction on the grounds of race prejudice, inflamed public sentiment and failure to obtain a fair trial.

Attorney General Knight, of Alabama, anticipating a move in the closing hours of court—its present term ends May 31—was present when the cases were filed, and obtained permission to file by next Friday the objections of Alabama to a review by the highest court. He said the present stay of execution to enable the Negroes to appeal to the Supreme Court exhausted all possible stays by the State, and would require the execution of the men on June 24 unless the Supreme Court or one of its justices prevented.

State Faces Payless Vacations.

St. Paul, Minn., May 23 (A.P.).—Gov. Floyd B. Olson, saying he was alarmed at reduced Governmental income, today asked heads of State Departments to join in a $1,000,000 economy program. In a letter to heads of State divisions he asked approximately ten thousand employes to take vacations of two weeks this summer without pay. He estimates this would save nearly $700,000.

The President's Callers.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley.

Frederick Pope, New York, head of the Nitrogen Engineering Corporation.

Representative Dyer, of Missouri.

Joseph C. Green, of the State Department.

Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper, widow of Representative Cooper, of Wisconsin.

Guild of Prescription Opticians of America.

Americanization School Association of Washington.

Undersecretary of Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke.

MEDICAL CARE COST MEETING IS CALLED

Secretary Wilbur Announces Leaders in Several Fields Will Confer Here.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior and former president of the American Medical Association, yesterday announced a conference of leading experts in the fields of medicine, dentistry, economics, social insurance and allied fields here next Tuesday in connection with the work of the committee on the costs of medical care. Dr. A. C. Christie, of Washington, introduced the Secretary of the Interior at a luncheon at the Hotel Washington here yesterday.

In his address Dr. Wilbur reviewed the work of the committee in all its phases over the last five years. The Cabinet member himself has had a notable career in medicine, having studied abroad in Germany and having served as a practicing physician in California for many years.

Dr. Wilbur was frank in making clear the difficulties of the problem. He declared that the committee has not been able to decide on any one particular formula for such a complicated problem. However, the research of the past five years has served to emphasize the possibilities of some four or five different plans of meeting the problem. These plans have been tried on a small scale in communities, universities, unions, railroads and corporations and have seemed to present several features of general adaptability. The committee will not render its final report until next November 29. The meeting here next week will be merely in the nature of an advisory conference to help in the preparation of the final report.

Outstanding Problem.

Dr. Wilbur paraphrased the statement of Dr. Olin West, secretary of the American Medical Association, in declaring:

"The one great outstanding problem before the medical profession is the delivery of adequate, scientific medical care to all the people, rich and poor, at a cost which can be reasonably met by them in their respective stations in life."

This was the idea in the meeting of a group of physicians, economists and public health workers in 1927. The committee began its research in January, 1928.

Dr. Wilbur said:

"The purposes of the committee are, first, to ascertain the facts at present regarding the extent of disease and disability requiring medical attention and the means now available for dealing with these conditions; second, to ascertain the costs to the family of medical service and the returns to the physician of his study and practice."

Incomes of Physicians.

The total number of physicians making an annual income of $2,500 or less is more than 50 per cent of the entire medical profession, Dr. Wilbur declared.

Dr. Wilbur then said:

"This committee will analyze these facts carefully and systematically to determine the defects in the present system of medical care both to the patient as well as to the doctor and the best ways of meeting the difficulty and solving it in fairness to all."

Funds for the work of the committee have been provided by the Carnegie Corporation, Josiah Macy, jr., Foundation, Julius Rosenwald Fund, Milbank Memorial Fund, New York Foundation, Rockefeller Foundation, Russell Sage Foundation, Social Science Research Council, Twentieth Century Fund and the Vermont Commission on Country Life.

Gene Tunney Accepts Bid to Umpire Here

(Associated Press.)

Another luminary yesterday entered the list of those who will figure in the Democratic-Republican Congressional baseball game on June 4.

Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, telegraphed Representative McMillan, captain of the Democratic team, that he would be "delighted to come down to Washington to umpire baseball game." Tunney's message was sent from Stamford, Conn. Mr. McMillan said he also had asked Will Rogers, humorist, to join the umpiring staff but had not yet heard from him.

Air Mail Service At Night Expanded

Letters to Leave Here at 10 P. M. for Morning Delivery in West.

A new night air mail service, with Washington as the starting point, will be inaugurated on June 6, it was announced yesterday by Pennsylvania Airlines, Inc. The new service will operate in conjunction with the daytime schedules of passenger, mail and express planes.

With the planes operating at night there will be a total of eight trips every 24 hours connecting Washington with the West, Middle West and North.

Northbound planes on the new schedule will leave Washington-Hoover Airport at 10 o'clock each night. Washington mail on this plane will make first morning deliveries in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Detroit, Buffalo and Toledo. The service will operate from here to Pittsburgh and Cleveland. Mail on the southbound plane will also make first morning deliveries in Washington.

HAWAII DEFENDANT MAY TESTIFY TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Whether Maj. and Mrs. Granville Fortescue would be heard today by the House committee studying the Britten bill to put the Hawaiian Islands under military control last night seemed in doubt.

Representative Britten (Republican), Illinois, author of the bill, reiterated that they would be present when the territories committee meets. Representative Williams (Democrat), Texas, chairman of the committee, expressed doubt that "we could get much information from them."

Williams said he had promised Britten the hearing and that the committee had notified only the War and Navy Departments. Britten planned to call Mr. and Mrs. Fortescue, mother and father of Mrs. Thalia Massie, and Floyd Gibbons, war correspondent.

"I am not hunting a show and I don't expect this hearing to turn into one," Williams said. "The committee's job first is to hear those people who can give us some concrete information as to the necessity for putting the islands under military control.

"Because of the experience they have been through I don't see where either Mr. or Mrs. Fortescue would be in a position to add very much."

Commenting to newspapermen yesterday on his bill to establish military control, Representative Britten (Republican) said: Representative Britten said whether it would disfranchise Hawaiians—absolutely take their vote away from them—"is of no importance, in my opinion." He added:

"The Hawaiian Islands are more important to us than Gibraltar to England. No nation would bother our Western Coast until it had destroyed the fortifications and facilities in Hawaii.

"We should go ahead and strengthen our fortifications there, both for the Army and Navy, and be ready for any eventuality. The only way we can do that is to place the islands under military control."

Mr. Britten recalled that a large percentage of the islands' population is Japanese, and warned that "if we had trouble with Japan, we certainly couldn't expect much help from them."

He said Mrs. Fortescue would discuss the "mental slant of the Japanese in Hawaii toward things not Oriental."

Honolulu, May 23 (A.P.).—Continuance of the retrial of the Massie assault case will be asked, Prosecutor John C. Kelley announced today after a conference with Gov. Lawrence M. Judd and Attorney General Harry R. Hewitt.

The retrial had been set to begin Wednesday. The four young defendants of assorted races are charged with criminally assaulting Mrs. Thomas H. Massie, wife of a Navy lieutenant. Originally five were charged, but one was lynched last January, allegedly by Lieut. Massie, his mother-in-law, and two Navy enlisted men. The first trial of the five ended with the jury deadlocked, six to six.

Mr. Kelley said that although he would not ask the court to set another date for the trial at this time the case would surely be retried, "and I have definite assurance of the support of the attorney general's office."

Long to Fight Garsaud, Named to Power Board

(Associated Press.)

The nomination of Marcel Garsaud, of New Orleans, La., for reappointment to the Power Commission was sent to the Senate yesterday by President Hoover.

A few minutes later Senator Huey Long (Democrat), Louisiana, declared he would oppose the nomination. He opposed Mr. Garsaud's nomination two years ago while Governor of Louisiana.

MYSTERY MAN HELD IN '16 SHIP BOMBING

Denies He Is Capt. Duquesne, Former Boer Rebel Hunted Throughout World.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—A mystery prisoner, described by police as Capt. Fritz Joubert Duquesne and by himself as Frank De Trofford Craven, was held here today at the end of a world-wide search for a former Boer rebel wanted in England for a ship bombing.

The man, denying he is Duquesne, was taken into custody at the Quigley Publishing Co., where he was employed as a critic.

The charge against Duquesne is that he had a part in the bombing and sinking of the steamer Tennyson, off Bahia, Brazil, in February, 1916. He escaped from Bellevue Hospital in 1919, while awaiting extradition to England charged with murder in that connection.

From London, after the arrest, came cabled information that Duquesne, who recently wrote a book making the claim he was responsible for the death of Earl Kitchener in the North Sea when H. M. S. Hampshire went down mysteriously, had been reported cleared of that offense.

He had been interviewed, the message said, by Col. Norman Thwaites, former head of the British intelligence service in the United States, who stated, "My records show that in June, 1916, when the Hampshire was sunk, Duquesne was in America."

The prisoner was taken to police headquarters where he was recognized by newspapermen who had worked with him years ago. To them he insisted they were confusing him with another person.

Duquesne, records showed, also was known as Claude Storeghtos and Fritz Fordham. He blazed a trail of adventure around the world which was woven into the volume, "The Man Who Killed Kitchener," by Clement Wood.

U. S. Court Rules Against HickmanCaptureReward

San Francisco, May 23 (A.P.).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today held it would be illegal for the City of Los Angeles to pay $10,000 reward for the capture of William Edward Hickman, who was hanged for the kidnaping and murder of Marian Parker, 11.

This decision reversed the findings of the Federal Court in Los Angeles, which had held T. B. Gurdane and C. R. Lieuallen, Oregon officers who caught Hickman near Pendleton December 23, 1927, were entitled to the reward from the city. The appellate court held it was illegal under the State constitution and the Los Angeles city charter for the municipality to offer the reward.

YESTERDAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 11 a. m., and recessed at 9:28 p. m. until 11 a. m. Tuesday.

Considered tax bill, defeating proposed tariff amendments and approving lumber and copper tariffs recommended by finance committee.

Mines and mining subcommittee heard opposition of Louisville & Nashville Railroad to Davis-Kelly coal bill.

Nye subcommittee made favorable report to commerce committee on revised Shipstead bill for rivers and harbors development.

Senator Watson (Republican), of Indiana, majority leader, replying to critics, said Congres was working on nonpartisan basis.

Senator Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, minority leader, and others of both parties, replied to criticism by the President and others, including Al Smith and Nicholas Murray Butler.

Judiciary committee favorably reported Cochran bill to punish sending of threatening letters.

Senator Sheppard (Democrat), of Texas, presented water commission report urging $4,246,000 for flood-prevention work in the lower Rio Grande River Valley.

Received nomination of C. B. Denman, of Missouri, for another six-year term on Farm Board and of Marcel Garsaud, of Louisiana, for another term on Power Commission.

Senator Nye proposed farm relief program as an amendment to the tax bill. Senator Cutting, (Republican), of New Mexico, proposed a $5,000,000,000 public works program.

Senator Barbour, (Republican), of New Jersey, introduced a bill providing for $1,500,000,000 program of self-liquidating public works.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 3:50 p. m., until noon Tuesday.

Defeated Hull-O'Connor 2.75 beer bill by a vote of 228 to 169.

Representative Norton (Democrat), of New Jersey, chairman of District committee, criticized Representative Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, as obstructionist.

Speaker Garner said he would soon have ready in bill form his proposal for $1,000,000,000 bond issue for public works.

Independent members announced they would meet Thursday night to plan unemployment relief program.

EINSTEIN IMPATIENT AT DISARMING STEPS

Urges Nations to Scrap Their Weapons Inside 5 Years; Scores Delegates.

Geneva, May 23 (A.P.).—Prof. Albert Einstein expressed in the impatient of antiwar leaders with the International Disarmament Conference by urging today that pacifist peoples of the world demand direct and total disarmament within five years.

Lord Arthur Ponsonby, of Great Britain, joined the eminent German physicist in condemning to a gathering of newspapermen from all nations the current debates here of so-called experts.

They agreed with the recent statement of Viscount Cecil, British delegate, that disarmament never would be realized through the discussions of generals and admirals.

"There is plenty of intelligence at the arms conference, but little evidence of character," Prof. Einstein said.

The famous scientist and his companion came to Geneva, they explained, because of anxiety over the prospect that the disarmament conference might fail. They said they hoped to stir the people of all lands to demand total disarmament within five years.

"We think we represent a very large body of impatient public opinion," Prof. Einstein said.

"The methods used at Geneva would be amusing if they were not so tragic. No technical method evolved by experts can prevent war, but only the will of people not to have more war.

"Intelligence is not so important as character and will. There is plenty of intelligence at the arms conference, but little evidence of character."

Both urged that men and women enlist to resist war, refusing either to participate in or to support it. International arbitration was advocated for the settlement of all disputes.

Expressing sympathy for the Soviet proposals for complete and general disarmament, he and his fellow pacifist said they believed the application of all nations of restrictions now imposed on some, such as Germany, by the Versailles treaty would be a valuable advance.

They regarded the present effort at qualitiative disarmament, by eradicating or reducing certain classes of weapons, as futile.

Packing Concerns Lose Court Plea

(Associated Press.)

Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. yesterday were refused a rehearing by the Supreme Court of their petition for a modification of the consent decree.

The court, in a four-to-two decision, recently refused to allow modification of the decree to permit the companies to deal in foods other than meat products. The District of Columbia Supreme Court had authorized modification of the consent decree.

The American and the National Associations of wholesale grocers had fought any modification of the consent decree, but the packers had contended it was impossible for them to set up a food monopoly.

MRS. AUCHINCLOSS FILES SUIT AT RENO

Member of Russian Nobility Charges Capital Banker With Extreme Cruelty.

A suit for divorce, charging extreme cruelty, was filed against Hugh D. Auchincloss, Washington investment banker of 2520 Massachusetts avenue northwest, yesterday in Reno by Mrs. Maya Chrapovitsky Auchincloss, according to the Associated Press.

The couple was married in New York June 4, 1925. The suit of Mrs. Auchincloss asks the court to approve an agreement settling property rights and custody of 4-year-old Hugh, jr.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Auchincloss are internationally known in society. She is a member of a family in the Russian nobility. Her family fled to the United States at the time of the revolution and after the arrival here she became prominent in social relief work for Russia and the Far East.

She and her husband are known in society here, in New York, Newport, Palm Beach and many European centers. Mr. Auchincloss was a special agent of the Department of Commerce and is now a member of the firm of Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath, investment bankers.

Mrs. Auchincloss was seriously injured at the Naval Air Station in July, 1926, when she was struck in the head by a whirring propeller. She had just completed a flight over Washington in a Sikorsky amphibian plane and was stepping around it to thank the pilot for the ride when the blade struck her. Her skull was fractured and she lay near death at Providence Hospital for several weeks.

Presbyterians Declare War on Wet Candidates

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 23 (A.P.).—Opposition to any candidate or public measure failing to support retention and enforcement of the eighteenth amendment was pledged by the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at its annual convention here today. The vote of approximately 600 delegates was unanimous.

A report by the church's committee on prohibition and law enforcement charged a recent "straw vote" favoring repeal of the prohibition laws was a farce and a fallacy and did not represent the majority of American voters. The report also urged more church workers to serve on juries as a means of aiding law enforcement by the conviction of criminals.

Six Delaware Delegates Due to Back Roosevelt

Dover, Del., May 23 (A.P.).—Six delegates to the Democratic national convention, generally expected to favor the presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be chosen at the Democratic State convention tomorrow.

The Delaware Democratic custom of sending an unpledged delegation to the convention makes it unlikely that specific instruction will be given the delegates, but preconvention indications point to solid Roosevelt support from them.

Reign of Terror in Cuba Called Halted by Arrests

Raids Said to Have Uncovered Secret "A. B. C." Organization of Foes of Machado Regime; Plan for Revolution Believed Nipped.

Havana, Cuba, May 23 (A.P.).—The authorities tonight said they had forestalled a nation-wide campaign of terrorism by revolutionists through widespread raids and arrests, and possibly had nipped a revolution in the bud.

Alfonso Fors, chief of the judicial police, made a report that two of his agents had uncovered an extensive and mysterious secret association known only as the "A. B. C.," and had found it was led by a coalition of various forces opposed to the present government of President Gerardo Machado.

It was formed, the agents reported, after the failure of last August's revolution, with the object of secretly undermining the government by the assassination of officials. When the time was ripe, the report said, a revolution was to have taken place, probably this month.

Chief Fors said secret registrations revealed by a raid last week on Unión Athletica and at residences of conspirators had shown that the present movement was led by Gen. Mario Menocal, former president; Carlos Mendieta, accused leader of the August revolt; Alberto Mendez Penate, brother of Col. Carlos Penate, who was active in the August rebellion, and Col. Jose M. Tarafa, railway magnate.

It was indicated but not confirmed that most of the alleged revolutionaries had been arrested with the exception of former President Menocal and his sons, who, incidentally, were detained after the August revolution. It was known that Mendieta and Alberto Mendez Penate had been confined in Cabana fortress.

Senor Fors said the "A. B. C." was divided into various sections, such as treasury, espionage, propaganda, technical, enrollment and disciplinary. The members were listed by codes, and in most cases did not even know each other. They were reported to have drawn lots for the assassination of various government functionaries in the interior and in the capital.

Thus far only one death has marked the terrorist campaign. Lieut. Diego Diaz was killed by a bomb Saturday. Dozens of other such missiles were sent to other high army officials, but were opened by rifle fire before any damage was done. Several bombings have also occurred in various sections of Havana, without casualties.

POLICE GUARD SLAIN; BANK'S $23,000 GONE

New Castle, Pa., May 23 (A.P.).—Helmeted State police, city detectives and village officers of three States form a net tonight, set to trap four gunmen who killed a patrolman and robbed two bank messengers of $23,000.

Scattering roofing nails over almost 18 miles of highway, the robbers fled toward Ohio. A tip that the gang is in hiding in a West Virginia mountain hamlet sped the search to that State.

Meanwhile, New Castle police are piecing together the story of the holdup.

Patrolman Clarence Campbell, with William McComb, teller, and Ashley Hill, assistant treasurer of the Mahoning Trust Co., visited the First National Bank. They placed $23,000 in a bag and started for the Mahoning Bank, 2 miles away.

Campbell got out of the machine as it drew up to the Mahoning bank. McCombs followed him with the bag of money.

A man seated in front of the Liberty Hotel, adjoining the bank, opened a guitar case on his lap and withdrew a sawed-off shotgun. He opened fire and Campbell crumpled to the street. He died almost instantly.

Another robber stepped from the hotel doorway and, pointing a shotgun at the two bank employes, ordered them to hand over the money. As he spoke an automobile drove up to the curb from an alley.

There were two men in the machine, one armed. The slayer and his companion scrambled into the car and it roared away toward Ohio.

The trail of the gunmen's car was followed as far as Columbiana, Ohio, with the road strewn with nails that far. There the trail was lost.

Admiral Benson's Funeral Held Here

A solemn requiem mass at St. Matthew's Church and a military funeral at Arlington National Cemetery constituted the final rites for Admiral William S. Benson yesterday. The Right Rev. Edward L. Buckey officiated at the mass. The final absolution was given by Mgr. Fumisoni-Biondi, papal legate.

The services were attended by attaches of all foreign embassies. The pallbearers were headed by Admiral William V. Pratt, present chief of Naval Operations and Admiral Benson's assistant during the war, and by Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, Marine Corps commandant.

Admiral Benson was wartime chief of Naval Operations and the first officer to fill that post when the bureau was organized. He died suddenly last Saturday of cerebral hemorrhage.

Marines Command 3 Nicaragua Fights

Casualties to Insurgents in Clashes With Federal Troops Reported.

(Associated Press.)

Three recent contacts between Niccaraguan insurgents and Nicaraguan national guardsmen under command of American marines were reported to the Navy Department yesterday by Lieut. Col. Calvin B. Matthews, commanding the Nicaraguan national guard.

Matthews reported that on May 8 Lieut. Virgil Hays, of Inglewood, Calif., attacked with his force an insurgent camp in western Pinotega Province, the insurgents, with at least two wounded, dispersing. A quantity of food and ammunition was captured. Three days later, Hays' patrol again battled an insurgent group, near Quilali, killing one insurgent and wounding another.

Lieut. Earl T. Gray, of Indianapolis, Marine Corps corporal, had an encounter with 150 insurgents last Saturday in the same province, but insurgent casualties were unknown.

Mrs. Myers' Will Bequeaths $66,000

H. R. Lohmann, Brother, Receives $3,000; Home Will Get $200.

An estate of $66,000 was left by Mrs. Christina L. Myers, who died April 26, it was disclosed in the District Supreme Court yesterday when Frank C. Ebaugh, executor, filed a petition for probate of the will. Included in the estate is a home at 6 Cypress street, Chevy Chase, Md., valued at $18,000.

Mrs. Myers provided for a number of bequests, including the Methodist Home for the Aged, $200; Harry R. Lohmann, a brother, $3,000; Charles F. Myers, Silver Spring, Md., $2,500; Edward Myers, jr., Frederick, Md., $1,000; Charles Treich, Frederick, Md., $600; Melvin G. Myers, Plainfield, N. J., $1,500; Harry Lohmann, Bladensburg, Md., $1,000; Elizabeth Hammett, $500; Robert Fahrney, Hyattsville, Md., $250; Catherine Clay, $500; Melvin Anderson, $250; and Marie Reynolds, Mexico, $500.

The remainder of the estate is to be divided equally between Christina G. Ebaugh and Christina Irving, San Francisco.

MRS. SALLIE JOHNSON DIES

Retired Government Worker Will Be Buried at Oxon Hill.

Mrs. Sallie H. Johnson, 72 years old, retired Government worker, of Oxon Hill, Md., died yesterday morning at Providence Hospital after a long illness.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Ignatius' Church, at Oxon Hill, with interment in Oxon Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Johnson is survived by a brother, J. Henry Kerby, of Oxon Hill, and a sister, Mrs. Mary C. Baden, of Brandywine, Md. For the last several years she had been living on Raleigh place, Congress Heights. She retired from the Government service several years ago.

DOROTHY GOODWIN.

Children Stage "Follies of 1932"

Belasco Revue Presented by Young Pupils of Miss Hunter.

"Miniature Follies of 1932," a children's revue by pupils of Miss Virginia C. Hunter, was presented last night at the Belasco Theater before an appreciative audience. The efforts of the boys and girls were marked by a nearly professional precision, and there were no delays in the presentation of the program.

Karl Gersdorf, a vest pocket edition of Wesley Eddy, was master of ceremonies. A prime favorite with the audience was Rose Lavender. Arnold Rosey's singing attracted much attention, while Marcia Rosey and Helen Knighton teamed together in a neat number. Dorothy Havener had a good imitation of Ruth Etting singing "Ten Cents a Dance."

Others featured prominently on the program were Margaret McCathran, singing and dancing; Katherine Thomas, clowning; Frances, Mary Lee, Betty, Jean and Leo Cavanaugh and Dorothy Goodwin, a 4-year-old, who did the minuet.

New York Democrats Raise $53,000 of Fund

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—The raising within the last four days of $53,000 of a special $250,000 quota was reported today to a Democratic "victory" campaign luncheon, at which Jouett Shouse, the party's national executive chairman, spoke of his confidence in the outcome of the November elections.

Mr. Shouse detailed the work of the party's Washington headquarters during the past three years, describing recent gains in State elections as a demonstration of the value of educational and organization activity.

WAR VETERANS SEIZE TRAIN IN ILLINOIS

train which the railroad refused to move, said they would hitch-hike, either to Washington or back home. The railroad officials heaved a sigh of relief and began to roll the long-delayed freight trains out of the East St. Louis yards.

One train arrived in Caseyville, seven miles east of East St. Louis. The wheels began to slip on the soapy rails, the crew began to wonder and the veterans began to arrive.

They climbed aboard, uncoupled the cars in several places and announced that the train would remain in Caseyville until they were allowed to ride east. The trainmen said that was fine, because they had been ordered to stop any train if they found a veteran aboard.

So the train remained in Caseyville while the veterans chatted with the crew and the local police force smoked his pipe.

"We didn't have any trouble until we got here," said Waters. "Other railroads told us we couldn't travel, and then would see that there were plenty of box cars for us to ride in. We're going to go on to Washington and the B. & O. can't stop us."

Charles Calloway, vice president of the B. & O., who came here soon after the veterans arrived, said:

"I've asked Sheriff Jerome Munie to stand by. We've tried to avoid use of force, but it now seems as if we'll have to use other methods to prevent confiscation of our property."

Policemen Guard Capitol; Demonstration Not Held

Details of police guarded the Capitol yesterday against a demonstration reported planned by war veterans to urge passage of full bonus payment legislation. The demonstration did not take place.

Most of the war veterans who appeared at the Capitol yesterday left the city last night. They straggled into the Capitol grounds, and Inspector Albert J. Headley, in charge of a detail of Metropolitan police, informed them they could not parade without a permit. They announced they would seek a permit but none had been requested at a late hour last night. Inspector L. I. H. Edwards said most of the veterans had left the city.

The veterans were from Oregon, Pennsylvania and California. Eugene Trudel, of Los Angeles, said a group of several hundred would arrive here within a few days from St. Louis to ask full bonus payments. Capt. S. J. Gnash said he did not believe there were any Communists in the veterans' group.

HAWLEY LAGS BY 86 IN OREGON RECOUNT

Wet Democratic Senatorial Aspirant Leads Another Close Contest.

Portland, Oreg., May 23 (A.P.).—A recount of ballots cast in Oregon's presidential primary today gave James W Mott, State corporation commissioner, an apparent victory by 86 votes over the veteran Representative Willis C. Hawley, in a neck-and-neck contest for the Republican nomination from the First Oregon District.

In the same district, William Delzell led Harvey Starkweather in another nip-and-tuck race for the Democratic nomination to oppose the winner of the Hawley-Mott contest.

Discovery of an error, by which Hawley forged into the lead earlier in the day, in the recount of the tabulation from Lincoln County gave Mott his apparent scant victory. The Republican count stood:

Hawley 30,734. Mott 30,820.

Outcome Is Uncertain.

The count was complete in the Republican contest, but the outcome was uncertain pending the official check.

Ballots of 26 precincts were missing in the Democratic contest. They will be counted tomorrow.

In addition to these contests, another nearly as close was being waged in the State at large between Walter Gleason, a wet, and Elton Watkins, a dry, for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Gleason had a lead of 443 votes with 31 precincts unaccounted for. His total was 21,423 and Watkins had 20,980.

Not in years has an election been so closely contested, and it was assumed recounts would be demanded by those candidates who eventually go to defeat.

25 Years in Capital.

Representative Hawley, who for 25 years has represented Oregon in the National Capital, met his greatest opposition in those sections which had hoped to obtain the $2,000,000 national soldiers' home which eventually went to Roseburg.

Southern Oregon voted heavily against him, favoring Mott, State corporation commissioner and former State legislator, who is an advocate of modification of the liquor law.

Representative Hawley is a dry, he told the Oregon electorate before the election, and in the face of possible defeat today he repeated it in Washington, D. C. His supporters admit he is not a "good mixer," and he has spent but little time in Oregon in the past 20 years.

Mott, younger and extremely aggressive, gained a great following in the northwestern section of the State, in the Willamette Valley and among those seeking a change in the liquor statutes.

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, May 23 (A.P.).—The committee appointed by Parliament last February to look into the advisability of South Africa's remaining on the gold standard reported unanimously in favor of it today.

Marland Returns to Oil Business With Big Firm

Oklahoma City, May 23 (A.P.).—Beating back in the oil business, E. W. Marland, of Ponca City, today received a charter from the secretary of state for formation of a new Marland Oil Co. of Oklahoma, with authorized capital of $1,000,000.

The company is incorporated to do a general business in producing, refining and marketing of petroleum. Marland was the organizer of the Marland Oil & Refining Co., which a few years ago was taken over by the Continental Oil Co. after Marland got into financial difficulties.

Veteran Kills Child and Himself.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Roy Emery 35-year-old World War veteran, hurled his two-year-old daughter, Jean, 200 feet to her death, from the approach to the Manhattan Bridge today, and then committed suicide by jumping after her.

E. W. Martin, 77, Dies; Former House Member

Hot Springs, S. D., May 23 (A.P.).—E. W. Martin, 77, a member of Congress from South Dakota for thirteen years and pioneer attorney of the Black Hills, died at his home here last night.

Martin first entered Congress in 1901 and was elected to his final term in 1912. He studied law at the University of Michigan. His widow and five children survive.

Georgia G. O. P. Maps Congress Race.

Atlanta, May 23 (A.P.).—Republicans began an airplane survey of Georgia today to determine in what congressional district candidates will be nominated for Congress to contest Democratic nominees at the general election in November. The survey will also guide the party in its final decision whether to nominate candidates for governor and United States senator.

Clerks and Bees Very Busy As Parcel Post Hive Leaks

For a few minutes yesterday morning clerks at the City Postoffice were in as frienzied activity as an All-American backfield executing a triple pass play with a red-hot football.

The torrid pigskin had its counterpart in a leaking hive of bees, live ones, which was being transhipped to an Eastern destination.

On receipt of the buzzing hive, a transfer clerk and his assistant started to take the package, which was erupting individuals of its busy cargo, into the Postoffice from the station for repair.

An official met the pair on the bridge which separates the two buildings and asked if the bees were consigned to Washington.

When the clerk admitted that they were not, the official quoted postal regulations which virtually barred honey makers from the postoffice.

This interpretation of the rules was accepted and after taking a five-yard penalty for offside, the quarter back clerk decided that "when in doubt, punt."

He brushed a few of the bees back into the box, nailed it up and loaded it on a fast train.

PATRONAGE BATTLE BEGUN BY M'FADDEN

Reed Attacks Caucus as Wrong Way to Recover President's Favor.

(Associated Press.)

Representative McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, yesterday began a determined attempt to regain the patronage he lost early in the session, but Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, said he was on the wrong track.

McFadden was stripped of his privilege of recommending presidential appointments in his district after an attack upon President Hoover during consideration of the moratorium.

On petition of McFadden and eight other members of the Pennsylvania House delegation the State's Republican representatives yesterday held a caucus to consider the patronage question. The caucus adjourned without taking any action.

Reed, generally considered an administration spokesman in the Senate, said, however, that not even the backing of the entire Pennsylvania delegation would restore the patronage to McFadden.

"They can caucus all they want to," the senior senator from the State said, "but it's up to McFadden to make his peace with the President.

"There is nothing personal about it. Technically he is a political enemy of the President, just like a Democrat. If I were to ask that his patronage be restored, it would be just the same as if I'd ask the President to give patronage to a Democrat. The President doesn't give it to his political enemies."

McFadden recently won the Republican, Democratic, and Prohibition nominations for Congress in the April primary, assuring his reelection next fall.

Eastern High Wins In Window Contest

Three Students Get Trips to Newark in Plane From Paint Club.

Eastern High School was awarded first honors yesterday in a window-dressing contest held under the auspices of the property improvement and business committee of the Washington Paint Club.

Students representing the school in the contest, Lois Lainhait, Marjorie Litske and Elaine Zimmerman, will receive an airplane trip to Port Newark on the Ludington Line. The second award went to Central High School, represented by Harold Melnicove, Marsden Lore and Gwendolyn Magill. Armstrong High School, with a team composed of Harweda Pye, Alberta Morton and Lawrence Harris, won third honors.

Judges in the contest were Raymond Willoughby, associate editor of Nation's Business; George Walling, president of the Walling Process Co., and Edward F. Perkins, manager of the merchandising department of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Body of Miami Writer Is Ordered Disinterred

Miami, Fla., May 23 (A.P.).—Disinterment of the body of Haden Clarke and an autopsy was authorized today by Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson with a view to determining definitely if the young writer and fiance of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, the Australian flier, committed suicide or was slain.

The order was issued on motion of James M. Carson, attorney for Capt. W. N. Lancaster, former British army aviator who is in prison here on a charge of murdering Clarke in a "love triangle." State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne did not oppose the motion.

Oil Station Manager Robbed.

William Pratt, manager of a Gulf gas station at Georgia avenue and Upshur street, was held up and robbed early yesterday morning by two armed white men. They took $6 and escaped in an automobile.

LUMBER AND COPPER TARIFFS RECEIVE APPROVAL IN SENATE

he arose to reply to criticism of the Senate. He addressed himself especially to the criticism, expressed in the guise of a patriotic plea, addressed to the Senate by Republican and Democratic politicians outside the Senate, the number including former Gov. Alfred E. Smith (Democrat), of New York; Nicholas Murray Butler (Republican), of New York; Gov. Albert C. Ritchie (Democrat), of Maryland; Alanson B. Houghton (Republican), of New York, and others of both parties.

Sees Less Partisanship.

Senator Watson said that in all his long experience in the Senate there probably never before was an occasion on which there was less partisanship than at present. His gracious words cut two ways, for he reminded his Democratic friends that even on the questions of tariffs in the tax bill there were just about as many Democrats one way as there were Republicans the other.

The statement of Senator Watson, however, was taken to have a greater import than a mere effort to assuage the possibly injured feelings to those Democratic senators on whose influence and votes he must depend to get the disputed tax bill through the Senate. It was reported again that President Hoover intended to step into the fight with another statement if the tariff impasse continued. Senator Watson's statement on the Senate floor was taken as an answer to that report. Last week, it was reported, the Indianan spoke out of his experience in a conference with the President when there were reports that a presidential statement directed especially to the Senate tax bill struggle was imminent. The White House denied a statement had been contemplated.

The truth of the matter is that Senate leaders and those who number themselves among the rank and file of that body are keenly resentful of what they believe to be unjust criticism. The difficulty of answering the general run of criticism is that it is directed at the Senate, or at Congress as a whole, and there isn't any possible way of bringing the critic to definite issue on any relief program the critic might offer.

Couldn't Work Out Program.

Senator Watson, speaking for the Senate as a whole, said on the floor, that the self-appointed critics of the Senate couldn't work out a definite, well-considered and logical program, and, perforce, that deprived them of the right to be unduly critical of the Senate or the House.

If Republican leaders were happy over the rush of tariff votes, Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, wasn't. When Senator Tydings seemed suddenly to give up his fight against the tariff items proposed by the finance committee, he caught at least some of his antitariff colleagues by surprise.

After the voting was done the Massachusetts senator said the result was disheartening and discouraging and he was certain the country did not realize the magnitude and the seriousness of the tariff amendments to the tax bill.

Declares Country Misinformed.

"It has been said that there are only four tariff items in the bill," Senator Walsh said. "That is too bad. The country has been misinformed. There are hundreds of cumulative items from those four items. In the case of the lumber tariff, it will mean that the $3 per 1,000 feet will find expression in the price to the consumer of everything from coffins to pencils and airplanes."

How soon there will be a vote on the farm relief program, featured by the export debenture provision, remains to be seen. Farm relief advocates have told other senators they are determined to show to the country the Senate's disposition to help everybody but the farmer.

There are other provisions which will require some time of "legitimate" debate, as a Republican leader put it, before the "mopping up" squad can be ordered into action and the tax bill sent to conference. Among these is the proposed tax on amusement admissions. The finance committee recommended 1 cent tax on each 10 cents. Another is the special excise tax on automobiles. Another is the loss deduction provision approved by the finance committee. The proposed tax on bank checks, several of the proposed stamp taxes, the increase in postage rates, and others of the special excise sales taxes are due for debate and battle.

May Reconsider Income Rates.

Advocates of higher income tax rates have reserved the right to move reconsideration of the votes by which they were defeated. Senator Henrik Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota, changed his vote last night and voted in favor of tariff in the bill so that he, too, could move to have the votes reconsidered.

Proponents of the general manufacturers' sales tax, who were beaten in the finance committee, have refused to permit their plan to come to a test vote on the Senate floor. Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, leader of the fight on the floor, has said that he believed a vote should not be had on that proposition until after the measure had been completely gone through.

Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, the most ardent advocate of the general sales tax in the course of the committee consideration of the tax bill, said no word in advocacy of that tax on the floor, but he has been active in his advocacy of it off the floor.

Yesterday he again expressed hope the Senate would turn to it in preference to other taxes in the bill, and said the tax was gaining ground. But he probably was hopeful rather than confident, although he said a poll had shown 40 senators would be willing to vote for the general manufacturers' sales tax if food and clothing were exempted and the tax was not pyramided. Although he did not say so, it was believed the rub lay in the fact there were too many among the 40 who had attached important ifs to their concurrence.

Earlier in the day the tariff bloc had demonstrated its strength and determination to keep other tariff seekers off the tax bill grog-wagon.

Trammell Proposal Beaten.

A proposal by Senator Park Trammell (Democrat), of Florida, for a tariff of eight cents per 100 pounds on phosphate rock was beaten 61 to 15.

A proposal by Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, to exempt rough lumber from the committee proposal of $3 per 1,000 feet was beaten by a vote of 47 to 26.

The first of the 500 Tydings' tariff amendments was a proposal to reduce by 50 per cent the Smoot-Hawley tariff on aluminum. That was beaten by a vote of 48 to 24.

The second Tydings amendment was beaten a short time later by a vote of 45 to 28. It was to reduce the existing tariff on sulphate and aluminum tariff.

Tydings Again Beaten.

A third amendment offered by the Maryland senator was voted down by a vote of 43 to 21. It was to reduce the tariff on aluminum salts.

Apparently undismayed by the result of the three roll call votes, Senator Tydings then offered a fourth amendment, but apparently felt he had achieved his purpose and the votes affirming the lumber and copper tariffs quickly followed.

Approval was given to an amendment by Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, to exempt beech, birch and maple hardwood flooring from the $3 lumber tariff. Senator Walsh quoted the United States Tariff Commission to show the present tariff of $1 per 1,000 feet was adequate. His amendment was approved without a record vote.

Drama Guild Elects Dr. Hayes Yeager

Successful Year Reported, With Plays Yielding More Money.

Dr. W. Hayes Yeager, George Washington University professor, was elected president of the Drama Guild of Washington at its annual meeting last night at the Willard Hotel. He succeeds Dr. Dewitt C. Croissant, professor of English literature, George Washington University, who resigned in February for his sabbatical year in Europe. Mrs. Fulton Lewis, vice president, has since been acting president. Clifford K. Berryman was reelected to the board of trustees and George W. Offutt, former president of the Washington Board of Trade, was elected to the board, succeeding Dr. Croissant.

A successful year was reported. The guild now has 369 members, and each production this year exceeded its predecessor as a financial success. Its productions were "The Trial of Mary Dugan," "See Naples and Die," and "Berkeley Square." Its final production for the season will be "Interference" at Wardman Park Theater, June 3 and 4.

The guild has its own workshop at the theater, and has assembled enough scenery to stage nearly any play with an interior setting. Several amendments to the by-laws were adopted at the meeting, including one creating a chairman of its producing group who becomes chairman of its administrative council.

House Opens Hearings On District Deficiency

District officials again were called before the House appropriations committee yesterday, as hearings opened on District deficiency estimates totaling $397,489.77.

Appearing before the subcommittee on deficiency were Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride and Director of Public Welfare George S. Wilson. Supplemental estimates in the local deficiency total amounted to $234,920.34, while claims against the District totaled $162,169.43.

Skipper Who Saved Self Guilty.

Spezia, Italy, May 23 (A.P.).—Capt. Franco Pasqualigo was found guilty of negligence today because he failed to be the last to leave the ship when his tug Tesso sank off Sardinia, December 13 last year, with a loss of 36 lives. The military tribunal hearing the case imposed a sentence of seven months and then suspended it. The sentence will be quashed and his record cleared after five years of good conduct.

'KIDNAPERS' PARLEY DESCRIBED BY DEAN

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Ottawa, Canada, May 23 (A.P.).—How he himself negotiated with "three tough-looking customers" in a New York hotel for the return of the Lindbergh baby was related by Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, of Norfolk, Va., in a copyright interview published today by the Southam Newspapers of Canada.

These mysterious men who summoned him by telephone, Dean Peacock said, demanded $50,000 ransom, but, suspecting they were racketeers, he broke off negotiations.

He said he did this despite that he was "warned that every step I took would be watched and I was threatened if I made a false move."

The dean, who formerly had churches in Canada, said he first intended to go to Hopewell, N. J., in response to police requests, but changed his mind upon the advice of friends, in and out of his Norfolk church.

"I could give, as indeed I have given," he said, "every bit of knowledge I have of the matter to the State's attorney of Norfolk.

"He, a special agent of the Department of Justice, and two of the New Jersey authorities have interviewed me and I can think of nothing in connection with the case that I have not given them."

Dean Peacock said the conduct of John Hughes Curtis, confessed hoaxer of Norfolk, was so convincing throughout that "I would do the same thing again if a similar occasion arose."

"It is unfortunate," he added, "that all this effort, undertaken with absolute sincerity by Admiral Burrage (third of the Norfolk trio of negotiators) and myself, should have proved futile.

"I do not purpose quarreling with any one over this terrible case, nor to reply to any alleged insinuations. I have good reasons for believing that some of the statements attributed to Curtis were never uttered by him. I have no feeling except of pity for him."

Although Col. Charles A. Lindbergh doubted the value of Curtis' Norfolk clews, Dean Paddock said, he gave authority to continue negotiations. While Curtis was continuing to claim contacts a long distance call from New York came to the dean on April 21.

Dean Peacock said he was told to fly to New York and register at the Park Central in the name of James Hill. Doing so, a man came to his room. Doubtful, the dean said he got in touch with Curtis, who advised him to learn what the mysterious men had to say.

He was taken to a room in the Cumberland Hotel, "where three tough-looking customers joined us," Dean Peacock said. There a plan for return of the child was outlined. It was similar, he said, to the one Curtis' alleged go-betweens had suggested.

"It included payment of $50,000 ransom and a cash payment the next day of $500 for a special purpose," the churchman said. "I was warned that every step I took would be watched and I was threatened if I made a false move.

"By that time I suspected them as racketeers. I went back to Curtis and spent the remainder of the night at his hotel." He said nothing more was heard of the men.

thing it is possible for the State to do to bring the perpetrators of this crime to justice."

Meantime, law enforcement agencies throughout the nation were circularized with specimens of handwriting contained in two ransom notes believed to have been received from the abductors of the infant through the aged Dr. John F. Condon.

Two interesting sidelights were another strange New England dash by Dr. Condon, the ransom payer, and a detailed story from Gov Moore of how ambitious agents of Al Capone approached him personally with a proposal regarding the case.

Gov. Moore said that while walking home near midnight a short time before the finding of the baby's body, four men suddenly appeared in front of him and told him who they were.

"I had just passed a policeman whom I knew," related the governor, "and that was a bit of comfort. I stopped where I was and decided to call him if necessary."

The quartet proposed to render assistance in obtaining the baby's return provided "full credit" should accrue to their imprisoned leader. The governor said he told them he would convey the offer to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, which he did.

It had been known that the Capone gang had sought to intervene in the wide-flung search, but this was the first time the governor gave public confirmation of the direct approach made to him. Once the scarface chieftain had communicated a "guarantee" of results to Col. Lindbergh if he could be freed temporarily from jail.

Cryptic Statements.

Traveling at a high rate of speed which had characterized his motor journey into that section Saturday, Dr. Condon left his New York home in the morning and was driven to the summer home of a friend at Becket, Mass., where he said he planned to fish. He explained that he wished a short rest from the strain of recent days.

However, he found time both en route and upon his arrival for a series of cryptic statements similar to the ones which have attended many of his activities.

At one point he said he was convinced the ransom of $50,000 which he paid April 2 now was in possession of a group of fishermen at New Bedford, Mass., or Buzzard's Bay, who were afraid to attempt to get rid of it.

Possible Connection.

The only possible connection that could be seen between this view and the known facts in the case was the circumstance that the Scandinavian named "John" to whom the ransom was paid in a cemetery, falsely promised the baby could be found in a yacht off the Massachusetts coast.

An assertion that he was organizing a "Jafsie fraternity," throughout New England to aid the murder hunt apparently explained an earlier remark that excited interest as he passed through Great Barrington, Mass.

New Jersey police said they knew of no special search being made in that neighborhood.

His companion was Walter Goodwin, a Bronx, N. Y., neighbor. The Goodwin cottage at Becket bore a sign worded: "This stage protected To force entrance would result in serious injury." Crossed out were the words "or possible death."

Editor to be Witness

The district attorney of the Bronx who has been conducting a grand jury inquiry into the "Jafsie" activities said the editor of a newspaper in which Dr. Condon inserted advertisements bearing the unusual signature would be called as a witness. He also spoke of another possible witness whose name was withheld.

The formal police bulletin of the day devoted considerable space to answering inquiries regarding John Hughes Curtis, jailed at Flemington, N. J., after confessing he faked his story of negotiating with the kidnapers.

The Hunterdon County grand jury, engaged with consideration of a homicide, did not take up the case of Curtis during the day.

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck said he would confer with Col. Lindbergh at the latter's home tomorrow regarding the charge of obstructing justice and supplying false information against Curtis.

Sheriff Guards Curtis.

The grand jury completed its immediate tasks with today's sitting, but Hauck indicated it might return Thursday to hear the Curtis case, dependent upon the outcome of his conference with Col. Lindbergh tomorrow.

"Curtis," said Hauck, "is in jail and the next move is his, not ours."

It was assumed the prosecutor referred to the question of bail of $10,000 which Curtis has been unable thus far to supply.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of State police, made a formal and emphatic denial of a published story that Curtis had recanted his confession.

Entire responsibility for safeguarding Curtis, explained Schwarzkopf, rests with the sheriff of Hunterdon County since an offer of a guard of State police was refused by the sheriff.

Two Youths Arrested In Alleged Kidnap Plot

Lansford, Pa., May 23 (A.P.).—charged with sending a letter to Herman Riebe, in which a threat was made that his four-year-old daughter, Diana, would be kidnapped and killed unless $2,000 was left at a designated spot, John Dross, 17, and Albert Bybrence, 19, were arrested today.

Police said they admitted sending the letter.

Waiter Confesses Extortion Attempts

Admits Writing Threatening Letters to Rich Men in Illinois.

Taylorville, Ill., May 23 (A.P.).—State's Attorney Harry B. Grundy today announced that Peter Ferrarini, 18, a former Chicago waiter, had confessed writing extortion letters which led authorities recently to place guards about several homes in this vicinity.

Arrested Friday on a concealed weapon charge, Ferrarini, son of Mr. and Mrs. Giacomo Ferrarini, of this city, was questioned concerning boasts he made several nights before. His handwriting was compared with the extortion notes, and the full confession followed, officers said.

Grundy said Ferrarini admitted sending several notes to Maj. W. T. Vandeveer, banker, demanding amounts ranging from $5,000 to $50,000, and also sending a note to Herman Anderson, threatening to kidnap his father unless he posted $10,000.

HOOVER TO CONFER WITH PUBLISHERS

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

President Hoover has invited a number of newspaper publishers to meet with him at the White House tomorrow night to discuss suggestions for aid in both the current economic and legislative situations.

The communications went forth in the last two days.

The aim of the Chief Executive is to gain support from the publishers in shaping public opinion in their respective communities.

The make-up of the group will be strictly along nonpartisan lines. The number of invitations dispatched could not be ascertained yesterday at the White House, nor were any of the names obtainable there.

It was understood, however, that a majority of those invited have their homes within a convenient distance of the Capital.

In the view of the President, the conference will be along the same line as parleys he has held with representatives of other industries and professions.

Abductors' Arrest Is Laid to Boldness

Chicago Doctor Tells of Telephone Talks, Heard by Detectives.

Chicago, May 23 (A.P.).—A lack of caution on the part of his abductors, which led to their arrest, was described today by Dr. Max Gecht at the trial of Ward Swalwell and Edward Pinnen for kidnaping him and his wife for ransom.

A man identified by the witness as John Pingera, who has pleaded guilty, telephoned him after his release to procure ransom for Mrs. Gecht, who still was held, and was told to call later.

Investigators meanwhile tapped Dr. Gecht's telephone wire, he testified, and listened to the conversation.

Swalwell nearly precipitated a fist fight when he lunged at Dr. Gecht, his former intimate friend, when the physician testified he saw Swalwell conferring with Pingera and Neil Montague, a fugitive under indictment for the kidnaping, two days before he and Mrs. Gecht were seized on December 10.

ECONOMISTS OFFER PLAN TO AID NATION

University of Chicago Group Urges Fiscal Inflation for Quick Relief.

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A "five-year plan" for revival of business by a drastic but temporary fiscal inflation was commended to Congress today with the unanimous approval of the faculty of economics at the University of Chicago.

The twelve economists, answering the query of a House military affairs committee member concerning the wisdom of soldier bonus payments, threw aside the bonus plan as "the most objectionable of all available devices for releasing purchasing power."

"We are persuaded," they reported, "that automatic adjustments in the economic situation have already proceeded to a stage where inflationary expenditures would be handsomely rewarded in greater production, larger employment and higher tax revenues."

Advise Generous U. S. Aid.

The professors advised that prices be raised by the stimulus of generous Federal expenditures, financed without resort to taxes on commodities or transactions. They suggested heavy contribution toward relief of distress and appropriations for public improvements, provided the projects can be "started quickly and opportunely stopped."

"These expenditures would be financed by large-scale sale of Government bonds to the Federal Reserve Banks or by issuance of greenbacks."

"Inflationary measures, in whatever form," the memorandum read, "will probably accelerate for a time the export of gold; but this strain we may well be able to endure until revival of business is assured. Domestic hoarding of gold, on the other hand, might force us to suspension of our currency laws, and this possibility dictates caution as to the technique of inflation. The problem is simply that of selecting the procedure which will be least alarming."

No Fear for Standard.

The greenback issue must be ruled out, the economists said, unless the Nation was ready to abandon the gold standard if necesary, but they expressed little fear of this "remote possibility," adding: "The supposedly awful consequences of departure from gold are, as England has shown us so clearly, nothing but fantastic illusions."

The economists warned against any half-way measures, and warned alike that inflation must be stopped promptly when genuine recovery has been achieved lest another boom result.

"If we indorse inflation," they said, "we should be prepared to administer heavy doses of stimulant; if necessary, to continue them until recovery is firmly established. For the ensuing five years all Federal expenditures should be covered by tax revenues. To minimize the total necessary outlay, outlays should be very generous now; parsimonious inflation is an illusory economy. It would also be eminently wise to avoid now any new taxes which fall at the producer's or dealer's margin.

Advance Income Levies.

"The levies on income, however, should be advanced immediately. Even after recovery, additional commodity taxes should be resorted to only if more equitable levies prove inadequate to full completion of the 'five-year plan.' Indeed, by 1940, our Federal debt should stand at a figure far below that contemplated by existing legislation. We should have high income taxes when incomes are high."

As soon as increased and profitable production is evidenced, credit expansion will begin to carry on the task begun by inflation. Immediately, then, retrenchment must begin, the economists said.

Short Session Is Begun By House of Commons

London, May 23 (A.P.).—The House of Commons reassembled today for a short session chiefly to consider financial problems, the Lausanne conference on international debts, the Irish situation and the Ottawa imperial economic conference.

It is expected to remain in session only until the second week in July in order to let the British delegation to the imperial conference reach Ottawa by July 20. The Lausanne conference on war debts and reparations also is scheduled for July.

Corner Stone of Chicago Postoffice Is Placed

Chicago, May 23 (A.P.).—The corner stone of Chicago's new $22,000,000 postoffice on the west bank of the Chicago River at Van Buren street was laid today.

Chicago's first postoffice was built 101 years ago on the river bank at Lake street. The new structure, its steel skeleton already rising, was described by Postmaster General Brown as the finest, largest and most complete postal plant in the world. It will be completed in January, 1934.

Avon Overflows Banks, Routing Many Families

Stratford-on-Avon, Eng., May 23 (A.P.).—The new Shakespeare Memorial Theater was on a little island all its own today as a result of floods which caused the Avon to overflow its banks.

Numerous families living in the city had to move up to the second floors of their houses. Hundreds of acres in Stratford were covered with deep, swirling waters.

Special Police Guard High Court Session

(Associated Press.)

For the second time in as many weeks, the Supreme Court handed down opinions yesterday, while a special guard of policeman patrolled the Capitol corridors outside the courtroom to ward off a rumored Communist demonstration.

As the court met, however, there was no sign of disorder.

Rockville Autoists Caught Napping by Parking Penalty

Montgomery's County Seat Goes Metropolitan Without Warning and Many Car Owners Are Trapped in Restricted Traffic Areas.

Rockville, Md., county seat of Montgomery County, has grown up overnight from a sleepy village yesterday to a metropolis. Motorists who arrived at the courthouse yesterday found that the parking restriction ideas from Washington and other large cities had penetrated the town. Many to their sorrow found out too late.

Inconspicuous signs posted on lamp posts in front of the courthouse warned that parking was prohibited, at any time, between signs. All day long motorists who had received no previous warning of the new regulation found themselves afoul of the law. Most of them were given tickets to appear in county police court, but several were taken before the clerk of the police court and forced to deposit collateral.

The county police at headquarters were like a crowd of children with a new-found toy. All day long they delightedly shooed away parking-bent motorists or tried out the summons slips they have never before found occasion to use. The number arrested was not made public last night. Those who were forced to deposit collateral posted $5.50 each.

The new ordinance was promulgated at a meeting of the new "business men's" administration, which recently was elected to run the town's affairs. It was not published in the county newspapers, as is usual in promulgation of new parking and other traffic laws in the county. Mayor D. M. Blandford said it wasn't necessary. The mayor said that one hour parking restriction for the main street also is being considered. He said, however, that county police had been requested not to make arrests for several days in order that motorists might become educated to the new order.

insurance office, which resulted in the then superintendent being removed.

"As for the District committee, two-thirds of the bills that have come out of it in the last twenty years are bad bills. This is a bad bill. Under its terms any convict that has come out of the penitentiary for selling worthless securities can go into any State in the Union and continue to sell them."

Representative William H. Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, interjected that Mr. Blanton was not responsible for wasting the time of the House, but rather Representative Vincent L. Palmisano, Democratic Maryland member of the District committee, whose objection cut off the time of Mr. Patman in opposition to the bill.

Earlier, Mr. Stafford charged the Bowman bill was "camouflage by the committee to prevent the passage of a real blue sky bill."

Voted down, 43 to 7, in an effort to strike the enacting clause of the Bowman bill, Mr. Blanton moved to substitute the Blaine securities measure, which he said was "a real blue sky bill."

The Blaine bill, outgrowth of a year's study of local securities frauds by a Senate District subcommittee, unanimously passed the Senate. It provides drastic securities regulation, placing authority with the Public Utilities Commission.

District committee members vainly raised points of order against reading the measure, but reading until checked by Mrs. Norton's motion that the "committee of the whole arise." The House District chairman then sought to go back into the committee of the whole for consideration of bills providing a board of indeterminate sentence and parole for the District, and for exchange of the Occoquan (Va.) property between the District and the State of Virginia. Mr. Blanton objected.

Mrs. Norton moved that the House adjourn. In a vain effort to save the day, Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, asked time to address the House. He urged the importance of two bills for the industrial development of Buzzards Point. One would permit construction of a Pennsylvania Railroad spur into the area and another would allow the Potomac Electric Power Co. to proceed with construction of its new plant. He said the measures would give relief to the District's unemployed. But Mr. Blanton again raised the point of no quorum. Mrs. Norton again moved that the House adjourn.

Participating in debate on the Bowman bill were its author, Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia; Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, who succeeded in striking what he called a "joker" clause from the measure, and Representative Byron B. Harlan (Democrat), Ohio, who urged the bill as insurance "against locking the door after the horse is gone."

Mrs. Norton, leading up to her denunciation of Mr. Blanton, upbraided the House for its lack of interest in local affairs. She said there "seems to be a feeling that the District's business is not the nation's business" and voiced the hope that District residents will soon get the vote so as to relieve Congress of responsibility.

COMPROMISE RELIEF PLAN SOUGHT BY CONGRESS CHIEFS

the capitalization of the Reconstruction Corporation by $1,500,000,000 for self-liquidating loans, and a Senate commerce subcommittee approved a gigantic bond issue for river and harbor improvements.

Members of the special relief committee appointed by Senate Democrats said they expected to be ready to introduce their $2,300,000,000 bill within a day or two.

President Hoover's letter opposing a bond issue for construction also drew criticism from Senators Lewis and Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi.

After Harrison told the Senate there was no such individual as Richard S. Parker, president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, to whom the letter was addressed, Lewis criticized the President for not addressing his views to Congress.

White House officials meanwhile moved to correct a clerical error, through which the President's letter to Herbert S. Crocker had been sent to a "Richard S. Parker."

It was explained that President Hoover was at his Rapidan fishing camp when the final transcription of his dictation was made and the document was given out in mimeographed form to newspapermen before he had an opportunity to read the final printing.

Cutting charged the President's opposition to a bond issue was a reversal of his former views, saying Mr. Hoover had advocated expanding public works in time of depression for the last fifteen years.

The New Mexico senator said balancing the budget was of "purely secondary importance" to relief of the millions of unemployed. He estimated his bill would provide work directly for 2,000,000 men for a year at $5 a day and give indirect employment to 6,000,000 more.

Lewis proposed that the United States should allocate its purchases abroad among the debtor nations and credit their deliveries against the debts.

The House members were invited to the Thursday night meeting in a formal statement signed by Representatives Mead (Democrat), New York; Kelly (Republican), Pennsylvania, and LaGuardia (Republican), New York, saying Congress should not adjourn until action had been taken to give relief to the "homeless and starving."

Garner Defends His Plan.

On the House side, Speaker Garner told newspapermen, in response to queries about the Hoover letter of Sunday, that he was glad the President had indorsed "my proposal to take the bridle off the reconstruction corporation," and to provide funds for projects to spur employment.

Mr. Garner has suggested a $1,000,000,000 bond issue for public works, and he said this was the only part of his program objected to by Mr. Hoover.

The Texan said his program would be incorporated "probably into one bill this week," and that hearings would be held before the House ways and means committee before it would be brought up for action.

Appeal for Nonpartisan Work Stirs Congress' Ire

(Associated Press.)

The appeal for nonpartisan action on budget balancing, addressed to congressional leaders Sunday by eleven nationally prominent men, including Alfred E. Smith and Nicholas Murray Butler, drew sharp rejoinders in the Senate from both Watson, of Indiana, and Robinson, of Arkansas, the Republican and Democratic leaders.

Watson, in a speech closely listened to, asserted the Democrats have submerged politics in the interest of a national welfare program and accused the petitioners of indulging in "propaganda" against Congress.

"If these men knew, and they should know," he declared, "instead of criticizing they would be praising us for the progress we have made and for the nonpartisan way in which we have met the problems."

Robinson put his reply to the appeal into the Record.

"Since the nonpartisan meeting at the White House last October, from that moment to this, there has been as slight manifestation of partisanship as I've ever come in contact with," said Watson. He and Robinson cited the moratorium, the Reconstruction Corporation legislation, the Glass-Steagall bill, and the Glass bank bill as examples of nonpartisan handling of legislation.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, suggested to Watson in the Senate that the writers be asked to submit a "bill of particulars" for balancing the budget.

"If these gentlemen formulated a plan," Watson replied, "it would be one we'd pay no attention to."

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, expressed "surprise at their actions," terming the letter "gratitous and utterly uncalled for." He told his colleagues that he was being flooded with letters criticizing Congress and asking the budget be balanced and economies made.

Buried Wife Alive, Man Tells Officers

Foundry Worker Admits Sealing Her in Grave After Fight.

Muskegon, Mich., May 23 (A.P.).—John Kozun, 43, a foundry worker, in a second confession today, told sheriff's officers that he buried his wife alive in a 5-foot grave inside his chicken coop, October 31, after he had struck her over the head with a hammer during a fight the previous day. The body was recovered yesterday, after Kozun made his first confession.

Kozun today said he took his wife to her bedroom after the fight. During the night, he said, he dug the grave and then carried her out and placed her in it.

"I told her I was taking her to an ambulance, but she replied, 'I know where you are going,'" the confession reads. "I then placed her in the hole and put some quilts over her body and a dishpan over her head. Then I covered her with dirt and the next day I built a cement floor in the hen coop."

Lady Gregory, Irish Writer, Dies.

Belfast, Northern Ireland, May 23 (A.P.).—Augusta, Lady Gregory, Irish dramatist and a director of the Abbey Theater, Dublin, died today. Lady Gregory was the widow of Sir William Gregory, former Governor of Ceylon, who died in 1892. She was one of the best-known women writers in Ireland.

INDUSTRIAL CREDIT BODY BEGINS WORK

Committee, Headed by Young, Sets Wall Street Agog as to Fund Plans.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—The credit expansion committee, headed by Owen D. Young, began a series of meetings today to work out plans to aid in putting billions of dollars in bank credit to work.

The twelve members of the committee declined to comment on the status of their discussions, but it was learned they had appointed subcommittees to consider various aspects of their problem and the full committee would meet again on Wednesday.

The group—comprising six industrialists and six bankers—met with George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, for more than two hours in the bank's offices this afternoon. This was said to be the first meeting at which the committee could actually get down to work.

A preliminary meeting was held last Thursday, which was followed by Mr. Harrison's formal announcement of organization of the group.

Foundation of Tentative "Plan."

Since the Federal Reserve system began its program of pumping out credit through purchases of United States Government securities in February, it has bought some $725,000,000 worth of Government bonds. This has resulted in piling up of excess or unused reserves of member banks in the amount of approximately $800,000,000, which might form the reserve basis for the extension of a theoretical maximum of $3,000,000,000 in bank credit.

Wall street has been agog with speculation as to what might be the first move of the committee, and in some important banking quarters it has been suggested that it might be designed to rectify the almost demoralized conditions in the bond market.

One possible program which has been rumored is that the Federal Reserve might continue to buy United States Government securities in amounts equivalent to those which the large banks would put into corporate bonds. But confirmation was lacking.

Warn of Overoptimism.

Bankers were inclined to warn that too much must not be expected from the committee at the start. As one member of the group informally analyzed the situation, "It is highly improbable that any financial Moses will be found almost overnight who will have a definite workable plan which will be immediately adopted and applied and which will lead industrial and financial New York out of the fog of the depression."

BISHOP E. H. HUGHES SHIFTED TO CAPITAL

the new bishops elected by the conference last week, received the Denver assignment. Bishop J. Ralph Magee, formerly of Seattle, Wash., the other newly-elected bishop, was assigned to the St. Paul area.

The episcopate left vacant in Boston by the retirement of Bishop William F. Anderson was assigned to Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of San Francisco, who will be replaced on the Pacific Coast area by Bishop James C. Baker. Bishop Baker was the general superintendent of the Korea area until recently when the Korean central conference elected its own native bishop.

The Pittsburgh episcopal residence will lose Bishop Herbert Welch, who was ordered to Shanghai after his expressed willingness to return to the Orient, where he formerly was bishop. Bishop Welch was said to feel his past experience in that field would enable him to be of great help in the present difficulties.

Bishop Adna Leonard of Buffalo, whose area was abolished by the conference in the interest of economy, was directed to fill the Pittsburgh episcopate.

Bishop Edgar Blake, of Indianapolis, whose episcopal area also was eliminated, will move to Detroit which was left without a bishop upon retirement of Bishop Thomas Nicholson, because of ill health.

Bishop Wallace Brown, of Helena, Mont., the third whose area was abolished, was assigned to Chattanooga, Tenn., whose present bishop, H. Lester Smith, was ordered to fill the Cincinnati episcopate, which has been vacant since the death of Bishop Theodore S. Henderson.

Those Outside U. S.

Bishops outside the United States who were reassigned to their present posts were: Enen S. Johnson, Cape Town, South Africa; John W. Robertson, Bombay-Delhi, India; Edwin F. Lee, Singapore, Manila; Raymond J. Wade, Stockholm, Sweden; John P. Nuelsen, Zurich, Switzerland, and George A. Miller, Santiago, Chile.

The Shanghai episcopate was left vacant by the retirement because of ill health of Bishop Laureas J. Bipney.

A world peace program advocating a new settlement of war debts, a revision of the Versailles treaty, drastic disarmament and abolition of compulsory military training in colleges was ratified today by the general conference.

The call for revision of war debts was made after a statement that the "sole guilt of the German nation for the World War alleged in Article 231 of the Versailles treaty can not in justice be maintained."

Pointing out that Germany's war reparations were based on this article, the document stated that further reparations based upon it should not be demanded. Alteration in the reparations question, it added, would necessarily affect the question of war debts. The United States was asked to consider revision of war debts not on the basis of "legal right" of debtors for revision, but in the interest of world peace and prosperity.

ENGINEERS INDORSE PRESIDENT'S STAND

Society Committee Holds Its Note on Relief Projects Was Misinterpreted.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—A committee of the American Society of Civil Engineers tonight announced its "complete accord" with President Hoover's call for a "quick, honest balancing of the Federal budget," voiced yesterday, but said some of his statements "must have originated from other source."

The committee disclaimed suggesting "that the financial stringency can be broken by a large issue of Federal Government bonds to finance a new program of huge expansion of public works construction."

It cited other allusions of the President as not emanating from its program recently offered, adding:

Securities of States.

"The legislation necessary to effect the purpose proposed could be based on that which already has found successful application in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation—the credit of the Federal Government could be extended to reinforce the securities of States, counties and municipalities that may be issued to finance necessary and useful public works.

"It is possible that this function might be assigned directly to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or to some affiliated agency. If this is not feasible, an independent but analogous agency should be set up for the purpose."

It said also: "The American Society of Civil Engineers did not advocate a huge increase in the Federal program of public works but made the following statement in its memorandum:

"Of Remote Usefulness."

"Federal public works alone, however, expanded, cannot possibly meet the requirements of the situation The major effort must be exerted through the State, county and municipal programs, which normally provide the bulk of our public works construction. But it is the municipalities and some of the States which have found great difficulty during recent months in raising sufficient funds at reasonable rates of interest to finance their 1932 programs."

The committee also stated it did not understand a statement in the President's letter that "the proposals made by your society and others for further expansion of public work includes works of remote usefulness.

"The society submitted no list of projects but urged the enactment of the necessary legislation to extend Federal credit facilities to solvent States, counties and municipalities to enable them to carry on their programs of necessary and productive public works."

The statement was issued through John P. Hogan, chairman.

MRS. PUTNAM FLEW FOR GLORY OF SEX

he proposed a toast to her at a luncheon of the Institute of Journalists:

"I hereby retract my pet theory—that a woman never did anything really valuable."

The newspapermen gave her an ovation of hip-hip hurrahs.

"I'm having a grand time," Mrs. Putnam said. "And the nicest thing that has happened to me is having all these men stand and sing 'For She's a Jolly Good Fellow.'"

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, congratulated the smiling flier on her feat in flying alone from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to Culmore, Northern Ireland. He said she had proved by flying over in 13 hours and 30 minutes that Britain and America never were so close to each other as right now.

Mrs. Putnam responded gracefully to the toast.

"I am happy to be in London," she said. "My trip is just informal, and I hope while here to poke about the city and see some places I missed when I was here before."

She repeated the statement made in her radio broadcast to America last night that she expected to make the trip again some day in a regular transatlantic air passenger service, which she was confident would be established.

At the luncheon Miss Earhart drank a toast in water to the President of the United States and another to the king. Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon, sitting beside her, performed the ceremony with the aid of whisky and soda.

The Ambassador paid tribute to her as a courageous young woman, whose flight, "an event of major importance that grips the imagination," thrilled the world "so that for a moment, at least, all of us have something in common and can think and feel as a unit."

This unity, he continued, was largely the result of the service rendered by newspapers. He discussed the problems of the press, observing that "all our energies must be used in constructive efforts to counterbalance the forces of evil and disintegration and to restore again the economic health of the world."

G. W. U. GLEE CLUBS WILL SING TONIGHT

Annual Spring Concert to Be Held at Willard Hotel; Dance to Follow.

The annual spring concert of the George Washington University Glee Clubs will be given tonight at the Willard Hotel.

Three groups of songs by the men's club, one by the women's club, and a number of mixed choral numbers will be presented on the program. Adele Meriam, pianist, and Robert W. Cushman, barytone, are to appear as soloists.

A feature of the evening will be the presence of alumni of the university who were members of the men's glee club in 1925. This singing group of seven years ago will attend en masse and will sing one of the university songs.

The concert will be conducted by Dr. Robert Harmon, with Grace Ruble Harmon as accompanist.

The president and the deans of the university, and their wives, are serving as patrons and patronesses for the concert. Sorority and fraternity chapters will occupy boxes.

Following the concert there will be dancing. During the intermission the Men's Glee Club will sing two number with orchestral accompaniment under the baton of Leon Brusiloff, who directed the students during their appearance at a local theater last year.

Refugee Train Wreck Kills 40 in Manchuria

Knows 1,000 Girls, Davidson Admits

But Has Not Made Improper Advances, He Says; Is Applauded.

London, May 23 (U.P.).—The Rev. Harold F. Davidson, aged rector of Stiffkey who is being tried on charges of immorality, admitted today he might be acquainted with 1,000 girls, but denied ever making an improper proposal to one of them.

The rector's testimony in his own defense again stirred spectators to applause and the outburst which followed his clash with the prosecutor, Roland Oliver, led the police to clear part of the gallery.

Oliver had suggested that a "Mr. G." was a swindler and that to some extent Dr. Davidson had acted with him.

"That is untrue," the rector said. "If you dare say that out of court I will deal with you."

"Thank you," Oliver replied cooly.

The rector then explained that Mr. G. became bankrupt in 1922 and that publicity at present "might completely wreck his life's reconstructive work."

He turned angrily on Oliver.

"Am I being charged with sexual immorality or financial immorality?" he asked. The spectators howled their approval.

PUBLIC ANGER RISING.

Nearly six months ago President Hoover asked Congress to enact a new tax law and to balance the budget. If Congress had acted promptly the new taxes would have yielded at least $200,000,000 by this time. But Congress completely failed to grasp the situation. Politicians who are accustomed to petty bickering and red tape refused to treat the depression as a national emergency. They talked and fiddled while the country moved nearer and nearer to the brink of disaster.

During the World War when President Wilson asked for new revenue to meet the emergency, Congress responded immediately. The war could not have been won without prompt action. Every citizen knows that the present situation is, in many respects, worse than war. Yet President Hoover has pleaded with Congress to balance the budget and to end the uncertainty that is hanging over business, and Congress has failed to do its duty. Had the tax bill now before the Senate been in effect while Congress has been dawdling along, it would have raised as much revenue as Congress hopes to save through the economy bill. But the politicians on Capitol Hill have been blind to the national emergency.

A rising tide of public resentment at this palsy in Congress is spreading throughout the country. Industry and business are paralyzed by the impotence of men in whose hands has been entrusted the national welfare. Nothing can be accomplished toward stemming the tide of depression so long as this hopeless incompetency holds sway. Every day that the budget-balancing program is delayed adds to the nervousness and despair of those who are waiting for the Government to set its house in order so that business can advance toward normal activity. Congress has stalled all constructive effort, and by its continued procrastination is squeezing the last few drops of confidence from the public mind.

The public has long since lost track of the issues over which Congress continues to wrangle. What does it matter to the national welfare whether four tariff items are included in the tax bill? The issue at stake is the stability of the Government's finances. The public demands passage of the revenue measure, with or without the tariff items. Let the will of the majority prevail. If senators persist in their threatened filibuster they will bring the wrath of a distraught country upon their heads. Action is what the public demands—action on the tax bill, the economy bill and the relief program.

In only a few instances are the leaders, either Republican or Democratic, responsible for this deplorable situation. Individual members who have insisted on putting selfish considerations and peanut politics above the national welfare have caused most of the trouble. Apparently they have not had the intelligence to realize that they are dealing with a national emergency that ought to take precedence over all sectional or personal issues. Those stalwart leaders who have constantly pressed for the enactment of this vitally-essential legislation deserve full credit for their foresight and devotion, but unfortunately their work is discredited in the public eye because of the selfish and cowardly tactics of other lawmakers who have no sense of responsibility.

Senator Smoot's decision to hold continuous day and night sessions and to employ the cloture rule, if necessary, will be applauded everywhere. If the leaders have to browbeat the Senate into doing its duty, they ought not to hesitate. Any methods of getting the revenue and economy measures on the statute books in as short a time as possible will be commended.

Congress is in contempt of the Nation. In spite of the approaching national conventions, partisanship has been laid aside in a universal appeal to Congress to throw off its impotence. No dissenting voice can be heard against a balanced budget. Nearly every citizen is clamoring for reduced expenditures, and every one recognizes that higher taxes are necessary, even though distasteful.

It is time for the public to take a hand in this emergency. Let the public rise up and smite any one who gives aid and encouragement to the depression. Let public opinion be mobilized in such force that Congress will not dare to defy it longer.

TIME TO BE EXPLICIT.

Once more Gov. Roosevelt has proved himself a master at propounding difficult questions. His address to the graduates of Oglethorpe University would have done credit to any professor of ethics. With remarkable lucidity and force the governor outlined the paradox of depression growing out of plentitude, and demanded a redistribution of wealth on a more equitable basis. He called for "bold, persistent experimentation" and told the graduates, with a professorial flourish, that their task is "remaking the world."

The speech was the boldest defense of the "forgotten man" that Gov. Roosevelt has yet made. He came nearer to stating the issue on which his presidential campaign will be based, if he should be nominated, than he has done in any other address. Yet it must be painfully apparent, even to the students to whom the governor specifically addressed himself, that he has nothing to offer, except experimentation.

Gov. Roosevelt seems to realize that there is no element of controversy in the ideal that he seeks. "Probably few will disagree", he said, "that the goal is desirable".

The issue lies only in the governor's willingness to tear away from the established order and strike out for something better without knowing where he is going. "It is common sense", he said, "to take a method and try it; if it fails, admit it frankly and try another". Has the governor no choice, then, between capitalism, socialism or communism? Does he intend to say that every scheme, fanatical or otherwise, should be given a trial to see whether something better than the present system of individual initiative can be devised?

The public is left to infer from a number of shy phrases the direction in which Gov. Roosevelt's experiments would lead. He criticizes the haphazardness of industry, its duplication of facilities and its waste resulting from a lack of unified control. Much of this, he thinks, could be prevented by "greater foresight and a larger measure of social planning". Controlling and directive forces now "reside to a dangerous degree in groups having special interests which do not coincide with the interests of the Nation as a whole". Apparently this is the point at which the experimenting would begin.

Although he regards control of production and consumption as the most important problem confronting the country, the New York executive does not specify in whom that control should be lodged. His remarks imply considerable faith in socialistic control. Yet Gov. Roosevelt does not commit himself to socialism. He merely throws out a hint in favor of socialistic experimentation.

Gov. Roosevelt came out as strongly as he dared for sweeping changes in the economic system. His address may have a momentary appeal for discontented people throughout the country. But there is no virtue in mere change. Thinking people want to know what the proposed changes are. To hold out blind hope that something better can be realized by experimental tinkering with the industrial system can add only bitterness to the anguish of depression.

Gov. Roosevelt has put himself in a position where he must elaborate upon his plans of economic readjustment. The mere advocacy of drastic changes, with no definite indications as to what they should be, would be fatal to his candidacy. It is time for him to get out of the atmosphere of college commencement exercises and deal in concrete facts.

DISTRICT FOES REBUKED.

Representative Norton, chairman of the District committee in the House, delivered a fitting rebuke to those members of the House who fritter away the time devoted to problems of the National Capital. "We could have finished our program and made way for other important legislation," she declared, "but for the wasting of time just to please the vanity of one man."

The tactics of a few congressmen who consider themselves special dictators for Washington are well known. Without rendering any constructive service of their own, they seek to delay and frustrate measures sponsored by the District committee. Unfortunately, these tactics are frequently effective because of the limited time given to affairs of the District on the crowded calendar of the House.

On several occasions hostile congressmen have interjected themselves into District affairs that are wholly outside of their jurisdiction. Meddling with local affairs and trying to intimidate District officials is a favorite sport for a few politicians in the House. They richly deserve the rebuke that Mrs. Norton administered to them.

THE ROMAN MARSHES.

The shades of a long line of Caesars, Consuls, governors, captains and engineers salute Mussolini. Through 2,500 years they dreamed of draining the Roman marshes. Mussolini has done the thing.

The meaning of his achievement to Italy is beyond comprehension to Americans who never have visited the place. A seemingly endless flat, eight miles broad and thirty miles long, spreading from the Volcian mountains; a sea of mud, infested by mosquitoes and cursed with malarial fever, the marshes took tribute of the health and energy of a hundred generations of men.

The Duce was not the first to attempt to reclaim the land. Mighty emperors tried and failed. Private citizens had no better success. But Mussolini had 5,000 Black Shirts to help him, as well as the will-power required for the task.

A pestilential morass has been eliminated. Farms, groves, fields and parks, a golden domain have come into being. If the cost was high, it has been justified. If the labor took years, it has been rewarded.

Mussolini might have been forgotten had he been merely a political dictator. But now that all the world sees that he is an authentic builder, it is clear that he has written his name across the annals of the twentieth century in ink that time cannot fade and to a purpose that destiny must applaud.

Tom Heflin's last speech in the Senate cost the people only $1,134 to print. The public would be willing to pay as much for Huey Long's farewell address.

GENEROUS UNCLE SAM

By Gen. FRANK T. HINES, Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, in an Address at the University of Alabama.

No other country of all those engaged in the World War has dealt so generously or adequately with the disabled veterans. Commencing in 1636, the Plymouth Colony provided through their court that any man sent forth as a soldier and returning maimed should be maintained competently by the colony as long as he lived. In 1776 the Continental Congress enacted the first pension law, giving half pay for life or during disability to every officer, sailor or soldier losing a limb in any engagement, or who was so disabled in the service as to incapacitate him for earning a livelihood. Later the Congress of the United States developed military pension legislation to take care successively of the veterans of the War of 1812, the Indian Wars, the Civil War and the Spanish-American War.

For veterans of the World War Congress provided compensation for disability, death compensation to dependents of veterans whose death was due to their service, the privilege of securing up to $10,000 life insurance from the Government at moderate rates, vocational training with pay for veterans who suffered disability constituting an occupational handicap and training without pay for veterans suffering lesser disabilities. Medical care and hospitalization was also provided without cost to veterans for service-connected disabilities.

Subsequent to the original enactments, legislation has provided free hospitalization and domiciliary care for veterans of all wars without regard to the nature or origin of their disabilities. Disability allowances have also been provided for permanent disabilities of nonservice origin and retirement pay for disabled former emergency officers.

I will not weary you with a recital of the detail of effort and service which has been required to provide and administer all these benefits, but will summarize by telling you that the Veterans' Administration today is maintaining and operating 57 hospitals, 10 veterans' homes and 54 field offices, and is making monthly payments to over 1,400,000 individuals.

Disbursements for the last fiscal year were over three-quarters of a billion dollars, of which less than 5 per cent went for administrative cost or "overhead." It is difficult to think in terms of such magnitude, but a few comparisons will help to realize them. For instance, that three-quarters of a billion dollars is more than half of the salaries paid all the teachers in all the public schools of the United States for the same period. It is seven-eighths of the cost of maintenance of all our churches of every denomination, and, to turn to more material affairs, it is almost three-quarters of the value of the average cotton crop for the last ten years and more than three times that of our entire tobacco crop for the same period.

Although the increase of expenditures on account of our brothers-in-arms has been more or less gradual, the sum total had with the close of the last fiscal year reached the sum of more than $14,500,000,000.

Again to make comparisons: This sum is almost three times the total of all the appropriations made by Congress for all purposes during the eight years just preceding the war, that is, the fiscal years 1909 to 1916, inclusive. It would build four times the number of churches in the United States, nearly three times the number of buildings used for public school purposes in the United States and more than fourteen times all our college, university and technical school buildings.

SAILING ON THE SAHARA.

The Sahara was once the bed of a great ocean, according to M. Auguste Chevalier, director of research in tropical agronomy of the National Museum of Natural History, who has just returned from a four-month exploration of the desert. According to the Christian Science Monitor, he has brought back thousands of tiny shells, the largest of which are not an inch across, to support his theory. From the fact that he found various stone implements fashioned by the hands of men in the desert, M. Chevalier concludes that men must have lived on the shores of this ocean and even perhaps sailed over it. The shells which he brought back are to be sent to various European museums.

If the Foundation Makes the Building Higher, What Will Prevent Its Fall?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ONE characteristic common to us all is an inability to see the woods for the trees.

In the present travail of civilization we are witnessing the birth pangs of a new order, but our attention is caught by details and we are scarcely aware of the great forces that are making history.

In America the economic system we call Capitalism is slowly but surely destroying itself—not by its excesses and its evils, but by its success.

In this land of equality, as elsewhere, the people are divided into three classes: the wealthy capitalists, the middle class and the proletariat.

The proletariat is composed of those who own neither land nor tools, but earn their bread by the sweat of their brows. They feel no dread of change, for they have little to lose.

The capitalists are those who control and manipulate industry, commerce and government. Theirs is the power of money, not of numbers.

The middle class is the class long typical of America. It is a conservative, church-going, money-saving class. Its children are sent to college. It believes in the Government at Washington. And it believes in the sacredness of property.

It believes in the sacredness of property because it has possessions. It owns homes, farms, stores and small factories. It is a part of capitalism, and its numbers make it the shield and champion and hope of capitalism. It defends riches because it hopes some day to be rich.

And this is the class that capitalism is destroying. Great factories absorb small ones; chains overwhelm little stores; monopolies drive out the independents; heartless competition bankrupts the little fellow.

And thus the little fellow who was middle class becomes a proletarian. He no longer owns goods or tools; he lives in a rented apartment—perhaps a furnished one. He no longer has a stake in capitalism. He has little to lose by change.

Do you realize what that means? Capitalism can not survive in a free country without the numerical support of a prosperous, property-owning middle class.

When the proletariat becomes strong enough to enforce its will, the rule of capitalism is ended.

If Congress can be dominated by such organized minorities as the Antisaloon League and the American Legion, will it dare disobey an organized majority proletariat?

Property is safe only so long as the majority has a share in it.

Handicap on Business.
Kansas City Star.

Governmental extravagance, in the Nation, State, county and city, piled up costs which have proved a crushing burden on industry and farming. When business began to decline it was the general disposition of the taxing bodies to increase taxes instead of to diminish expenditures.

Today it is not too much to say that the immediate handicap on business is uncertainty as to what Government—in this case Congress—may do to unsettle conditions.

Guessing Game.
Minneapolis Journal.

A President has to be polite in his opinion of the Congress—or at least near polite. But the country can make a shrewd guess as to his "inner feelings."

Would Not Help "Masses."
Mora (Minn.) Times.

Franklin D. Roosevelt says he is for the masses and in the same breath advocates a reduction of tariffs so that foreign countries may sell more goods in this country. The masses must live by producing something that the people of this country need. If their requirements are supplied by other countries, how can it benefit the so-called "masses" of this country?

Watch the Crowd.

In a free country a great leader is a man who guesses which way the crowd is going and gets in front.

There's a Limit.

Still, our representatives and senators have a well-defined deadline over which they will not step. None of them has ever been accused of cluttering up the Federal pay rolls with relatives or in-laws under 9 years of age.

Revolt at the Grass Roots.
Kansas City Star.

It is interesting to learn from Washington that the folks back home are burning up their congressmen who have voted against economy measures in the Government. Perhaps it was natural in representatives to hang on to their $10,000 a year salaries and to vote against any measures for reduction in expenditures that looked as if they might pave the way to a reduction in congressional salaries.

Natural, but outrageous. The country is properly resenting the action of members of Congress who were ready to vote away the people's money. A public-spirited minority stood out against this treason to the public welfare. Those who acquiesced in it will hear from their constituencies in the primaries or the election.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Charlotte Fielding Says Prohibition Has Not Enriched Bootleggers. Government Gets Twice as Much Revenue From Liquor as Enforcement Costs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The repealers are saying that the dry laws have made many moonshiners and bootleggers and put into their hands huge sums of money. This statement is as untruthful as it would be to say that the laws prohibiting bank robberies have made many bank robbers and put into their hands huge sums of money from the banks.

The fact is that prohibition has enriched very few violators of the law. Of course, it is true that some wets managed to get on the prohibition enforcement pay roll in order to betray the dry cause and, when forced to resign, made money going about the country telling all who would listen that prohibition "can not be enforced." But not many others have found their lawlessness as profitable as they had expected.

The total cost of enforcement, 1920 to 1931, was $284,156,524. Collections from fines and penalties and revenues from lawful (medical and sacramental) distilled and fermented liquors, during the same period, were $548,588,884. Thus the Government had a net profit of $264,432,260. This indicates that there is a good economic argument on the dry side of the debate.

Citizens may help the Government in two ways: First, by keeping the law; second, by aiding the Government in its effort to enforce all laws. Persons who object to enriching bootleggers ought not to patronize them.

CHARLOTTE FIELDING.

Reader Appeals for Lights and Speed Limit for Union Station Plaza.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I have space in The Post to appeal to the traffic bureau of the Police Department to institute some sort of protective system of crossing signals and a speed limit in the vicinity of the Union Station?

Accidents in this neighborhood are legion in number, and many persons have been injured in crashes involving taxicabs, private motors, buses, trolley cars and pedestrians.

The crescent south of the station is too small to accommodate the floods of traffic which pour into it from eleven converging streets. The whole plan of street arrangement constitutes a death trap, and the recent development of the so-called Capitol plaza has complicated rather than relieved the problem.

Vehicles tear into and around the circle like cannon balls. The law of averages makes it certain that some of them will collide.

Fax Uses Germany as Example to Show That Beer Doesn't Bring Prosperity.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Those voting for beer in the House of Representatives today will face later several facts, of which I will mention now only three—(1) a drink with any percentage of alcohol, if used constantly, becomes a poison of the race; (2) Von Moltke said beer was more dangerous to Germany than all the guns of France; (3) Germany's beer bill annually would find food for more than 13,000,000 of her poor.

One might dilate upon Germany's "beer heart" and many other phases of the question. But the quotation you gave a few days ago, in your editorial on May 19, from Col. Davis, of the Salvation Army, would make any but a supremely selfish man, it seems to me, hesitate about wishing to bring back any legalized liquor.

One other fact Mr. Congressman will face—a lot of voters who are not being fooled by the "wet propaganda." PAX.

Junkets of Congressmen Furnish Target for L. A. R.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In reading of the various perquisites of senators and members of Congress, their mileage and the salaries grabbed for their families, I have not noticed any mention of the junketings enjoyed by them. How about the travels a few years ago of a certain Western member, still in Congress, who was sent to investigate a railroad in Alaska? He thought it would be nice to take his family along, so his wife and five children accompanied him, and all seven spent a pleasant summer among the icebergs and walruses, and sported gayly over the tundras—whatever they may be—all at the expense of Uncle Sam. YOUTH'S OPPORTUNITY.

While blows the wind and falls the rain
We sit beside the window pane,
And sigh because the storm destroys
Some brief anticipated joys.
O'er pleasures lost we long complain
And seldom count the future gain.

Because for sunshine we had planned
We look across the storm-swept land
And large our disappointments loom
Against the background gray with gloom.
Nor at the moment can we see
The benefits which are to be.

In spite of all our doubts and fears,
And all today which lost appears,
Your son and mine may find that joy
Which luxury and ease destroy,
And by the lessons hardships teach
The glorious heights of manhood reach.

For them, perhaps, 'tis better far
That they should know what burdens are,
And face life valiantly, set-lipped,
Of every softening influence stripped,
And awakened by the urge of need
At last exultantly succeed.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Byron, of New York, are passing some time at the Carlton, accompanied by their son.

Mr. Walter C. Mayer, of Detroit, is in Washington for a few days as the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Everett M. Ellison at their home in M street.

Episcopal Girls' Society Stages Garden Festival.

A scene reminiscent of the days of George Washington was presented last Saturday afternoon when 200 members from 13 branches of the Girls' Friendly Society in the Episcopal diocese of Washington, attractively gowned, many in costumes of the colonial period, assembled at a garden party held at Holiday House, the recreational home of the society, on the Potomac, near Alexandria.

Featured entertainment included a minuet by members of the St. James' Branch, Bowie, Md., and a drill by young ladies from Christ Church Branch, Washington parish. Movies taken of the festivities will be shown at the national convention of the society in Los Angeles this fall.

Mrs. George Pariseau, diocesan president of the society, and Miss Gertrude Pixton, senior club president, received the assembly in the rose garden. The Senior Club served a supper on the lawn. Miss Clara R. Nourse acted as hostess.

Additional reservations for the card party of the Woman's National Democratic Club to be held this afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock in the garden of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, at 3825 Wisconsin avenue, have been made by Mrs. Wilbur Hubbard, Mrs. Frank Hiram Snell, Mrs. Raymond A. Walsh, Mrs. Ogilvie Shumate, Mrs. P. M. Anderson, Mrs. Thomas Sidewell, Miss Emma Belle Matthews, Mrs. Mattie Wyatt Porter, Miss Cornelia Bowie, Mrs. Mary A. Buchanan, Mrs. Robert C. Howard, Mrs. B. K. Ogden, Mrs. M. A. J. Markley, Mrs. Charles L. Chambers, Mrs. South Trimble, Miss Sallie Turner, Miss Mary Badger Wilson, Mrs. B. B. Bridge Tea Is Given By Mrs. Lloyd Rae.

Mrs. Lloyd Rae entertained at bridge tea yesterday in honor of Mrs. C. E. Purnell, of Berlin, Md.

Other guests were: Mrs. W. G. Fowler, Mrs. Donald Chaney, Mrs. Edward Fowler, Mrs. Bernard J. Gallagher, Mrs. Charles Keyser, Miss Mildred C. Barnes and Mrs. Marshall Rae. Tea was served at 5 o'clock.

Judge and Mrs. Edward K. Campbell have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis Underwood, of Birmingham, Ala.

Two Washington girls who will receive degrees from Smith College at the commencement exercises on Monday morning, June 20, are Elizabeth Coyle Goodrich and Rosalie Sanderlin Reed.

Miss Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Reed, attended the Western High School.

In deference to rose fanciers the Garden Club, of Chevy Chase, Md., has arranged for the rose gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Whitman Cross to be open on both days of the club garden tour on Friday and Saturday.

Al fresco teas will be in order on both days of the tour. On Friday Mrs. Arthur Defenderfer will serve tea to the tourists at her home on East Kirke street. She will be assisted by Mrs. Leslie C. Garnett, Mrs. John T. Vance and Mrs. E. S. Kellogg. On the same afternoon Mrs. Fielder M. M. Beall will serve tea on the wide and shady lawns of her Brookville road house. She will be assisted by

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

Reads and Remembers!

DEAR Frances McDonald: Having read your sane and tolerant advice to Nanc-C I was somewhat astonished to note that any reader interpreted that counsel as a suggestion to go ahead and neck! It is incredible and justifies your frankly expressed exasperation. As I happened to cut out the clipping I hereby offer in quotes just what you said—plain as day. In the first place you state: "One need not be even unkind to discourage a man." He is therefore to be discouraged. Am I right? Secondly you stated: "The average girl either excoriates him as a brute or accepts his advances as if he were a brute." Plainly you are not advocating the accepting of his advances. But truly, Miss McDonald, I believe the more thoughtful of your readers got your meaning. A few fanatics should not make you despair of us all. I have looked forward to the column for over five years daily, as have several of my friends, and while at times we do not agree, we can always at least grant there may be something to the stand you take.

This matter of "petting" you state is a "moth-eaten subject," and I know one not to your liking. But truly at school we discuss it a lot. In fact, too much. Yet we never reach any stand that fits all occasions. Some boys fairly shrivel, Miss McDonald, when you "discourage" them. I know one boy who stayed at home a whole year rather than meet a certain girl who had "squelched" him. Of course some pride themselves on their ability to "make" any girl they meet. What I want to ask is this: Don't you believe the refined, well-bred boy who is a gentleman can be relied upon to preserve a girl's illusions despite the fact that they do resort to petting as a means of expressing their real regard? MERTA.

Merta, may we be forgiven for quoting poetry? We once registered a vow that whatever we might perpetrate upon our defenseless readers, we would stop short of quoting poetry. But this situation is becoming desperate, so here goes:

"Ah, wasteful woman! She who may
On her sweet self set her own price,
Knowing he can not choose but pay,
How she has cheapened Paradise!
How given for naught her priceless gift,
How spoiled the bread and spilled the wine,
Which spent with due reflective spirit,
Had made brutes men—and men, divine!"

That, Merta, is our idea of the answer! We conceive it as no part of woman's business to dispense kisses to the populace. We conceive it her province and her privilege to "make brutes men, and men divine." Man seeking woman's favor is merely man seeking acknowledgment from woman of his manhood. It is for her to express acknowledgment in satisfactory fashion without either "spoiling the bread or spilling the wine." It would seem to require only instinct for any woman to preserve the mystery of her womanhood and the pride of his manhood when man comes seeking her approval of him as lord of the earth. The simplest and stupidest method is at present in vogue. Which accounts for man's boredom with the whole matter. It seems incredible today that men once knelt to woman, prayed for the privilege of doing battle for her smile. Sad that the glories old as life are spent since woman "cheapened Paradise!"

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Too-Curly Hair Can Be Treated and Trained.

A LETTER of protest has just come from "Frizzy Head" who feels "in no uncertain terms that the too-curly head is being neglected by beauty authorities, what with all the emphasis being placed on permanent waves and the new feminine coiffures."

Elsie Pierce.

Strange as it may seem to straight-haired sisters, too much curl, fuzziness and that wiry frizzy texture that destroys hair beauty present a greater problem than no wave at all. Many women born with kinky hair that falls into tootiny waves resign themselves to a queer twist of fate, and to painful pulling whenever the hair is combed. Whereas a number of thinning, hot oil and rewave treatments can help tremendously to normalize matters.

Whether the hair is too fuzzy naturally, or as a result of a poor permanent wave, the program is the same. The first step is to have the hair thinned out by a hair-cutting specialist so that it falls closer to the head instead of standing up on end in very unruly fashion. Next, weekly hot-oil treatments followed by shampooing and while the hair is still damp training it in wide waves either with the hot iron (not too hot) or with waving solution. Periodic visits to a good hair dresser who knows her business can work wonders. The progress will be slow, to be sure; don't expect a single treatment to take out all the frizziness. Don't expect even a course of treatments to give you straight, or near-straight hair. But, most women do not wish straight hair as a matter of fact, and kinky hair can be transformed into soft, flattering wide waves.

One method that I have seen work well is the iorning out method which follows an oil treatment and shampoo. While the hair is still moist the fairly hot iron is used. This ironing should leave the hair quite damp. If the iron is too hot it will immediately dry the hair and this will leave the hair brittle. This ironing out process is immediately followed by waving with a good setting lotion, the waves should be quite wide apart and the ends rolled or smoothed. If possible, allow the hair to dry naturally instead of using an electric or hot air dryer.

If the hair is inclined to be dry, and this is usually the case with kinky hair, the daily use of a little pomade or vaseline rubbed between the palms and applied to the hair is recommended, before combing the hair. And several times a week, an oil rub followed by scalp massage and brushing will also help.

Remember that hair can be trained, like a child. Be patient. If you can not have the treatments in a beauty salon, follow the method outlined above.

Also, if like "Frizzy Head" you feel you have been neglected and that a number of women have beauty problems similar to your own, do not hesitate to write to me.

Culbertson on Bridge

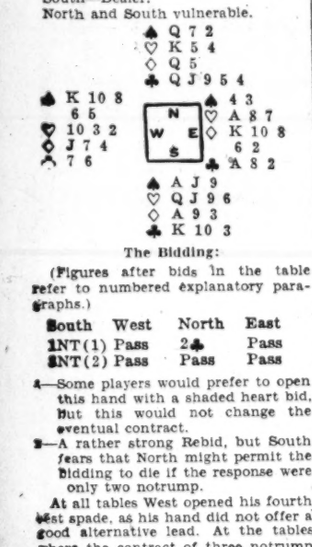
REFUSING A CHEAP TRICK.

IT is not always wise to win a trick as cheaply as possible. Hands occur at the Bridge table daily illustrative of this principle, which occurs whenever one or the other has a long suit which must be established and brought in to make the contract, but lacks entries to bring in the established long cards if the defense is adequate.

The hand below, played in a recent duplicate game in Chicago, is an example of this principle. Nine tables participated in the play of the hand, and of these only three made their contract of three notrump through a propensity to take a trick as cheaply as possible.

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in the table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1NT(1)	Pass	2♣	Pass
3NT(2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Some players would prefer to open this hand with a shaded heart bid, but this would not change the eventual contract.

2—A rather strong Rebid, but South fears that North might permit the bidding to die if the response were only two notrump.

At all tables West opened his fourth best spade, as his hand did not offer a good alternative lead. At the tables where the contract of three notrump was made, the two of spades was played from the Dummy, East played the three, and South won with the Ace. At this early point in the play, the success or failure of the hand was determined. At the tables where the contract was defeated, South won the first trick with the nine of spades, believing firmly in the principle that it is wise to buy as cheaply as possible. With the correct play of the Ace of spades, the contract of three notrump could not be defeated.

The second process in the development of the hand was the establishment of the club suit. East, noting that Dummy contained no possible entry in hearts, did not take his Ace until the third round of clubs. To the fifth trick, East, lacking a better lead, returned his partner's suit. West won with the King, and established two spades by returning the suit. The Queen and five of clubs were then played, followed by the King of hearts from Dummy, which was won by East with the Ace, and a diamond returned. The Declarer's troubles were over. On the clubs he discarded his losing diamonds, and took all the remaining tricks.

Where the first trick was won with the nine of spades, an entirely different story was told. South's nine held the first trick, and he led the King of clubs, following with the Ten. East refused to take either of these with the Ace. South, now abandoning the hope of bringing in the club suit, decided to try to make 9 tricks by winning three hearts, two clubs, two spades and two diamonds. He, therefore, led a small heart, which East won with the Ace, cashed the Ace of clubs, and returned his last spade. South played the Knave, and West won with the King and returned the suit, as he knew the Declarer's Ace must fall.

Thus played, the Declarer at the end was compelled to concede three tricks to his opponents and thereby lose his contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

It is not always wise to win a trick as cheaply as possible. The Declarer should always take stock of the combined resources and decide whether or not such play is wise, in view of the general necessity of establishing entries in one hand or the other.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

GERMAN JAKE PARALYSIS.

JAKE paralysis has been causing trouble in various parts of Europe. A letter written to the Journal of the American Medical Association from Berlin last February said it had been known to occur in Holland, Jugoslavia, France and Germany. It is reasonable to expect that other peoples have suffered from it, perhaps without knowing the nature of their trouble. With them the trouble did not result from drinking poisonous booze labeled Jamaica ginger, or other names used in the bootleg trade. However, the cause in each of the countries is using something or other in which there is triorthocresolphosphate.

It will be remembered that it was finally discovered that it was this chemical, mixed and sold as Jamaica ginger, that caused jake paralysis in this country. This substance is used in varnishes in Europe and perhaps in this country. Those persons who drank liquor that may have been recovered from varnish might do well to bear this in mind. If it can be used in so-called Jamaica ginger and in varnishes there is a possibility that it has been used, or may come to be used, in some other of the commercial products which bootleggers sometimes use as a source of alcohol.

However, the principal source of harm in these European countries is a medicine called apiol, or parsley camphor. In Germany this medicine is often found in household medicine cabinets. In other European countries apiol is prescribed more frequently by physicians and it is found in the family medicine chests as well.

Analyses show the presence of this cresyl phosphate in some of the apiol on the market. Just how it got there has not been discovered, but probably some manufacturer used it because it was cheap, without making an effort to find out whether it was poisonous.

One case of jake paralysis developed and was diagnosed in a suburb of Hamburg. The authorities traced the disease to the use of apiol. They found that the medicine was purchased in a drug store in Hamburg. They seized the supply. Every drug store in the city was required to report how much apiol it had on hand, and when it had been purchased. Meanwhile the investigation was extended to the wholesale trade, and the manufacturers and their supplies and processes came under investigation.

The symptoms of the disorder are similar to those noted in America. Now that publicity has been given doubtless many people will suspect the nature of their muscle and nerve troubles, and doctors will diagnose some cases that have perplexed them.

FACTS ABOUT SPLEEN.

Mrs. M. G. writes:

1. What is the spleen?
2. What work does it do?
3. Can it be injured and how?

REPLY.

1. The spleen is a large organ located in the abdomen under the ribs, on the left side of the body. It lies in a position on the left side corresponding to that of the liver on the right side. In the carcass of lower animals it is called the milt.

2. It is a part of the blood vessel system and acts as a reservoir for blood. This causes it to swell and shrink accordingly as the blood is principally in the internal organs or in the skin. It also has to do with changing the blood in particulars that are not well known.

3. It can. It can be fractured by blows or falls. Certain diseases, such as typhoid fever, pneumonia, and malaria cause it to swell after a fashion that suggests that the spleen is being punished. In leucemia the spleen is enormously enlarged.

SAFE TO BATHE.

Miss L. P. writes: Is it harmful to take a warm bath during the menstrual period? My mother tells me it is.

REPLY.

No.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A moire summer evening frock is developed in two colors of the same moire—the upper part is lighter, but with the same design as the lower part of the frock, both showing black, blue and rose. (Courtesy of Maggy Rouff, Paris.)

NEW YORK, May 23.—Strange how, even loving the loveliness of hands, one can forget them during the summer, and sometimes injure them beyond repair. The vogue for acquiring as dark a shade of sunburn as possible does not extend to the hands. And lovely hands are a matter of constant care!

Protect your hands as you do your face with vanishing cream on the backs of them, not the palms—and you will have no unpleasant greasy feeling at all. Use a great deal more hand lotion during your vacation than at any other time. And wear cosmetic gloves at night! Filled with a skin food that can at the same time be slightly bleaching, but must not be of the type that makes the skin tender.

You protect you face with a hat, your shoulders with a towel, your skin with coconut oil and creams—and then do you lie on the sand with your lovely hands exposed to the merciless mercies of the elements? Let's just not do that!

Repair work on your hands after vacation is important, too. Try to endure for three nights one week, rubber gloves tied at your wrists, not tightly enough to stop circulation, filled with a not too liquid paste of yellow corn meal and kerosene.

Or any equally ordinary and not very wet bran mush. Just wash your hands in the morning, then put a lot of hand lotion on them, and observe the results!

And do acquire the habit, not only for summer, but for all of the time, of rubbing cold cream or vaseline into your cuticle every morning and night; in the morning before you wash your hands, leaving just a little that does not show in the cuticle, and at night after you wash them—but don't use so much that it will come off on the bed covers. And never under any circumstances scrape the under part of nail with a sharp instrument when cleaning it, or allow the manicurist to do so. You can never get and keep the dirt out that way; whereas if this under part is as smooth as the outer part, dirt will wash out very easily. Always keep a tiny box of powdered pumice and use it when your nails are very stubborn, with an orange stick wrapped in cotton.

• • • •

Combination gowns being so-o-o-o-o popular in Paris at the moment I am sure that for the reason of economy and lovely-lady smartness you will want to know what it's all about. I'm trying to tell you that the leaflet I made for you this week consists of many Dah-ray ideas for combination dresses. For evening, sport or business—f'rinstance an evening gown of pastel satin, might have a velvet girdle and corsage to match one evening, or a tulle jacket and overshirt the next, and the next evening have those adorable new flowered shoulder-puffed sleeves. I'm warning you even your best girl friend will be grrreeeeen with envy. Dah-ray tells you how to do it in this week's leaflet, which you may send for right away. Address your envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post and be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope—that's all.

• • • •

Moire is not out of date—here and there, for the truly individual gown, it crops up and goes a-dancing. Maggy Rouff found two colors of moire in the same design, and combined them in the frock I sketched for you today—even if I couldn't show the two colors very well. The rosy moire is at the top, and the darker color below—all both show black, blue and rose, though.

• • • •

I promised to sketch them for you. Isn't it a little strange how the littlest detail, if it is well done and chic, can dominate an entire audience of elegant people? 'Tis the black velvet bracelets of which I speak, star studded as the night—no, I mean, strass studded. 'Nif you don't think that everyone's eyes were on them.

Au revoir!

Fifth Avenue Fashions

SMARTNESS FOR YOUTH.

What a marvelous feeling it is to slip into a dress that has all the earmarks of the grown-up mode. The pleasure is almost indescribable!

Take today's model for instance. It has the light topped bodice, so modish. Growing daughter with her slim young body will look so smart and sophisticated in this darling dress that snugs the waistline, has the fashionable gored skirt cut slightly circular toward the hem and the bias seamed hipline.

It is so easy to make and so attractive to wear. And its cost surprisingly small.

Here you have the popular novelty dotted design in navy blue and white linen, combined with plain white. The neckline was completed by a vivid red crepe silk bow tie, for bows are in order this season.

You can also fashion it of a flowered rayon crepe with plain crepe to tone with the print or some of the novelty cottons, particularly the new weaves that resemble woolens.

For dressier wear, this model would be very lovely carried out in crepe silk print with plain contrast, or of plain crepe silk with a contrasting tie.

Style No. 2792 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. For the 8-year size to make it of one material, it takes but 2½ yards of 39-inch material.

Our New Fashion Magazine points the way to better dress and will help you economize.

You can save $10 in patterns, materials, &c., by spending 10 cents for this book. So we hope you will send your order today.

Just write your name and address clearly on any piece of paper. Order one book. Enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin and mail your order to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth Ave. and Twenty-third street, New York City.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

PLANS A DELICIOUS MENU FOR WEDNESDAY.

FOR tomorrow we plan a chicken consomme despite the fact that chicken was not planned for last Sunday's, yesterday's or today's dinner—but the answer is so simple as to consist of a mere chicken bouilion cube! And our soup may be served either as a hot one or as a jellied soup—the latter calling only for the addition of plain gelatin added to the hot bouillon after the directions given in the gelatin container. Or, if you like a jellied soup that is more of a semiliquid, then cut down the gelatin proportions one-fourth. And now, what after our soup, for that will hardly constitute a dinner? Dried beef with cream sauce for a change, and while it's still to be enjoyed, buttered asparagus.

WEDNESDAY'S DINNER.

Chicken Consomme
Saltines
Frizzled Dried Beef with Cream Sauce
Mashed Potatoes
Buttered Asparagus
French Salad with Tomato French Dressing
Rhubarb Pudding
Coffee

Frizzled Dried Beef With Cream Sauce.

¼ pound dried beef
2 tablespoonfuls fat
1 tablespoonful flour
1 cupful milk
Seasoning to taste.

Shred the beef and remove connecting gristle. Cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes. Pour off the water. Saute the beef in the fat until thoroughly heated and curled. Sprinkle the flour over the meat and mix thoroughly. Add the milk and stir until smooth and boiling. Season to taste.

French Salad.

6 rose radishes.
French dressing.

Wash and separate leaves. Place four or five parallel on salad plate. Stalks may be held together with green pepper or cooked beet ring. Peel the prepared radishes in one-eighth inch strips from top to bottom, leaving bottom end attached to radish. Chill in ice water. Serve with French dressing.

Tomato French Dressing.

1 cupful olive oil
1-3 cupful vinegar
2 teaspoonfuls powdered sugar
½ teaspoonful salt
¼ teaspoonful pepper
1 1-3 cupfuls tomato juice

Have the oil and vinegar very cold. Mix together the sugar, salt and pepper and add the oil and vinegar alternately, a little at a time. Beat with a rotary beater until thick and creamy. Just before serving, add the tomato juice. The dressing may be kept in a covered glass jar. Shake well before using.

Rhubarb Pudding.

Cover the bottom of a buttered pudding dish with slices of bread, butter and rhubarb, cut in short pieces. Sprinkle generously with sugar and add another layer of bread, butter and rhubarb. Repeat until the dish is full. Cover and bake for half an hour. Remove the lid and bake ten minutes or until browned. Serve with hot or cold sauce.

Hot Sauce.

Add one cupful powdered sugar gradually to whites of two eggs, beaten stiff. Beat well. Add one-fourth cupful hot milk, continuing the beating, and lastly, one teaspoonful vanilla.

Cold Sauce.

Beat three-fourths cupful of cream slightly and gradually add one-third cupful powdered sugar while beating constantly. When the sauce is stiff enough to hold its shape, add a few drops of vanilla.

What Today Means

"GEMINI"

IF May 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 4:15 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:40 a. m., and from 3:50 p. m. to 5:15 p. m.

Nothing untoward is likely to confront you on May 24, and more dullness and sameness is augured than spice and variety. Those interested in spiritualistic and psychic phenomena should find atmospheric conditions unusually suitable for investigation and study. Cupid will be conspicuously absent or in a perverse mood.

The child born on this May 24 will be lively spirited, physically restless and mentally aglow. It will not be afraid to talk, and will freely voice its sentiments. Through impulse, it may often be blessed with more luck than sense, but the Fates will be unusually kind to this Gemini child.

A very conservative, kindly and cautious nature is your heritage, if born on May 24. You are so afraid of hurting some one or of being indiscreet, that your conversation and actions are too self-censored to be spontaneous and free. You are full of practical advice and assistance, but are a "wash out" for inventing stunts of promoting whoopee.

You have a passion for accurate work and need take no lessons in efficiency. You hate to try your hand at anything without careful preparation and study, and you are too self-conscious to bluff at anything. You are not careless, you do not forget things, and you are always punctual. Slovenliness in others almost unduly annoys you. You are too suspicious of new ideas to take them up before they have been investigated by other and more adventurous and pioneer-minded people. Most fashions are old fashions before you adopt them.

You are not in the least meddlesome, and are content to keep your finger out of some one else's pie. You keep your disappointments to yourself, although there are plenty of shoulders upon whom you could lean.

Successful people born on May 24:
Robert Hood Bowers, composer.
Queen Victoria of England.
Harry Emerson Fosdick, clergyman.
James Oppenheim, author.
George G. G. Barnard, sculptor.
Richard Warren Corwin, physician.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

CAN you tell me of a practical evergreen vine for covering a rough, old wall? Also a flowering, hardy vine that is a rapid grower. I want the latter vine for porch use.

MRS. HERBERT T.

The most popular evergreen climber is the English ivy. This is a wise choice for a north or northwestern exposure. If planted in a southern exposure the winter sun may burn it. Trailing euonymus, a practical evergreen vine, is also suitable for use about a rough wall. It has small, green foliage and pink fruit. The polygonum auberti (silver lace vine) bears white flowers in late summer. This rapid-growing climber is said to average 25 feet of growth in a season.

HENRY S. H.

No. Roses should be fed after they have been pruned. If the beds were mulched with manure during the winter months this should be removed and some bonemeal applied. This treatment will repay you in every way. Roses properly pruned and fed will surely bloom better and longer than will unpruned, undernourished plants.

Please tell me the best time to separate phlox. Should they be divided into a number of small pieces and planted a few inches apart?

CORA H.

Phlox are propagated by dividing the clumps. This should be done once in every three years in the fall or early spring, before growth has started. Divide a large clump into four pieces and plant these one foot apart each way.

Can a climbing rose that is two years old be transplanted and, if so, when may this be done? Should a hydrangea arborescens grandiflora be pruned in spring or fall? When is the best time to prune a syringa?

ALMA W. L.

Yes. Transplant it in the fall or early spring. The hydrangea you mention blooms on wood made the same season; therefore, it must be cut back in the spring. A syringa must be pruned immediately after it has finished flowering.

Please tell me whether a St. Bruno's lily, planted in the fall, will bloom the following summer. A friend told me I should set these bulbs in the ground in the early spring. L. T. A.

Roots planted in the fall should become well established and bloom the following summer. Spring-planted roots often fail to bloom and occasionally disappear for a year after planting. Such a condition need cause little worry, as sooner or later they will likely appear, and when they are once established they are dependable and persistent bloomers.

Is it true that when watering a gloxinia the water must not be permitted to lodge on the leaves?

MRS. JOHN L. D.

It is best never to allow water to come in contact with the foliage of a gloxinia.

Please tell me how to care for an aspidistra. MRS. THOMAS F. C.

The aspidistra requires plenty of fresh air, some sun and sufficient moisture to keep the soil from becoming dry. Spray the leaves every time you water the plant. August is a good time to transplant an aspidistra, but unless the plant is potbound there is no reason for repotting it. Keep it on your porch in summer.

Eve and Not Adam Ate The Apple, Says Doctor

By JOHN J. DALY

ONE by one, all the old beliefs are attacked.

Ever since that memorable event in the Garden of Eden, the story has gone the rounds that Adam ate the apple.

It seems now that this is the wrong version.

Eve at the apple!

Dr. H. A. Ironsides, of Chicago—"Old Ironsides" as the boys call him—comes forth with the startling news that all the world, up to this time, has been misled. The doctor has been digging in the records and he avers that it was Mrs. Adam who got away with the fruit from the Tree of Knowledge.

Further, the doctor contends that the name Eve was conferred on Mrs. Adam by Mr. Adam on the eve of their departure from Paradise. Up to that time she had been merely as The Missus.

With all this upsetting of historical and biblical records, there awaits an explanation of a sorry sight: the Adam's apple in a man's throat.

* * * *

As all good students know, Adam was supposed to have choked in his eagerness to devour the forbidden fruit. Part of its lodged in his larynx. As a penalty, all Adam's heirs and assigns forever, in the male line of descent, have been cursed with collar trouble. That is, they must, for common decency's sake, wear standing collars, highly starched, to hide the perregrinations of a bobbing bulb in the throat, a sight astounding to little children, who look and wonder.

Ever and always, the Adam's apple will be the bane of man's existence. For him, the poor creature, no lowneck garment with filigreed lacework around the edges, drop-stitch and herringbone design. For him, only the highly arched and starched linen, to keep laundries working and to torment the male of the species in the good old summer time, and all because of the Adam's apple.

* * * *

EVE'S descendants, on the distaff side, are free of this embarrassment. There is no Eve's apple to remind them ever and anon of the first false step in the race and to mar the beauty of their delicately arched throats. For them there is no ungainly cartilage bobbing up and down the windpipe like a monkey on a pole.

If it is true that Eve, and not Adam, ate the apple, the evidence is on the wrong side. It would seem that Eve, if she did this deed, got away with it; but what about poor old Adam and his long line of fellow sufferers? What happened? This is the truth that must be run down. It may be discovered that Adam got hold of a nut he couldn't crack. Otherwise, there is no accounting for an established fact—the so-called Adam's apple.

Come, come, doctor! Tell us the story.

WARFARE ATTACKED AT LUTHERAN SYNOD

Baltimore, May 23 (A.P.).—Warfare is one of the worst sins of the world in this day of intelligence and enlightenment, the Rev. Dr. William A. Wade, president of the Lutheran Synod of Maryland, United Lutheran Church of America, told the opening session tonight of the synod meeting at the Church of Our Saviour.

Attending the synod meeting are delegates from churches in Maryland, District of Columbia and several churches in Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, which belong to the Maryland Synod. The convention will close Wednesday night.

Dr. Wade said in his address that "the influence of national and international warfare is retarding the advancement of progress among the nations of the world, and, as a result, immorality threatens the integrity and higher standards of civilization. In the prayers and hopes and constructive plans of men and nations lies the possible extermination of warfare."

"While our church has always emphasized the importance of separation of church and state, and while it is not our policy to dictate to the state in such matters, as Christian citizens, we share the privilege and responsibility of using every rightful means for the bringing about of peace among the nations and for the complete extermination of the dreadful evil of warfare."

Thomas P. Hickman, of Washington, was elected president of the Maryland Synod Brotherhood at the annual meeting in the afternoon. The other officers elected were: Vice president, Virgil W. Doub, Middletown, Md.; secretary, A. M. Cooper, Washington; treasurer, Adam Snyder, Baltimore; member of executive committee, Merwyn C. Fuss, Taneytown.

Resolutions also were adopted urging organization of a brotherhood of each Lutheran congregation of the synod and also urging definite support of the Iron Mountain School for Boys at Marion, Va.

Sea Lion Found Hiking Five Miles From Ocean

San Diego, Calif., May 23 (A.P.). A husky young sea lion, found hiking in the dust of a highway 5 miles from the Pacific Ocean, reveled tonight in a bath at the San Diego zoo.

"That," said Richard M. Allen, motorist, who saw the seal waddling along on its short flippers, "was the strangest hitch-hiker I ever saw."

Zoo officials whom he notified were puzzled by its distance from the sea. They said sea lions never travel more than a few hundred feet from water voluntarily.

The sea lion got back to water and food in the outdoor tank at the zoo. Keepers said they guessed a fisherman might have captured it, brought it ashore and later turned it loose after learning of its vigorous appetite.

NEW FARM RELIEF PROGRAM BROACHED

(Associated Press.)

A group of 25 senators and representatives sat around a luncheon table yesterday and had explained to them the workings of a farm relief plan which its sponsors say will put a solid foundation under American agriculture.

The plan, only recently presented to congressional leaders, is the domestic allotment plan. Designed to give farmers tariff benefits in actual dollars and cents, it has gained wide favor in the Northwest.

W. R. Ronald, editor of the Mitchell (S. Dak.) Republican, a member of a committee of five appointed at a Chicago meeting to foster this proposal, told the senators and representatives that by enlarging on the allotment features of the three-way bill sponsored by farm organizations, it would accomplish all its aims, including those claimed for the equalization fee and the export debenture.

Chairman Jones said the House agriculture committee probably would act finally today on the three-fold farm relief plan approved last week by the Senate agriculture group. The bill embraces the allotment plan as one point.

DO YOU INHALE?

A frank discussion at last on a subject that has long been "taboo"

"LET sleeping dogs lie!" So said the cigarette trade when first we raised the subject of inhaling. But dodging an important issue is not Lucky Strike's policy!

Do you inhale? That question is vitally important . . . for every smoker inhales—knowingly or unknowingly. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette! And the delicate membranes of your throat demand that your smoke be pure, clean—free of certain impurities!

No wonder Lucky Strike dares to raise this vital question! For Luckies bring you the protection you want... because Luckies' famous purifying process removes certain impurities concealed in every tobacco leaf. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

COUNTY MANAGER'S POLICE RULE VOTED

Majority Arlington Bar Body Approves Proposed Shift in County System.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The legislative committee of the Arlington County Bar Association, composed of Bryan Gordon and John L. Green, yesterday afternoon issued a signed report to the effect that the resolution recently offered by Broadman Munson, providing that the county manager take over supervision of the county police department, was valid. Col. Charles T. Jesse, third member of the committee, refused to sign the report, stating that he would give a minority report. The resolution reads:

"That pursuant to the acts of the legislature authorizing Arlington County to provide for the county manager form of government, and in keeping with the intent of the act and the orderly administration of county government; and, whereas, it appears that the county manager has ample authority and is the proper person to have charge of the police force, therefore be it

"Resolved, That the country board be requested to place the police force of Arlington County under the full and complete control of the county manager, and adopt such ordinance or other means as to carry into effect the intent of this resolution."

The committee in its report cites: First, that Article VII, section 110, of the Constitution of Virginia, the sheriff is a constitutional officer, with the General Assembly given the power to enact general laws which would change his status; second, that by Article VII, section 110, of the Constitution of Virginia, the General Assembly was given the power to enact a general law changing the form of county government; and third, that pursuant to this authority vested in the General Assembly by the Constitution of the State, an act approved on March 20, 1930, under section 2773-G invests the county manager with all the administrative and executive powers of county government, including the power to appoint all officers and employes whose appointment or election is not otherwise provided by law.

"Exhaustive Research."

In conclusion the committee says, "That after exhaustive research and due deliberation the Munson resolution is valid and that under the law, the county manager is the superintendent and supervisor of the police force of Arlington County."

Col. Jesse stated that he had not had time to prepare his minority report, but dictated the following:

"I disagree with the conclusions reached by the two other members of the committee in their entirety.

"First, because the sheriff at common law was the conservator of the peace, and this has not been changed by statute.

"Second. The law giving to Arlington County the manager form of government, does not change this law.

Provided by Law.

"Third. The county manager act, which required the vote of the people for its adoption, expressly provides that the county manager shall appoint all officers and employes not otherwise provided by law, and section 4797 of the Code of Virginia provides that all special police officers shall be appointed by the Circuit Court judge.

"Fourth. Section 2773, of the Code defines in detail the powers and duties of the county manager, and make no reference whatever to a police force.

"I am glad to find the law to be as it is, because I believe the successful management of the fiscal affairs of the county by the County Manager would be destroyed by imposing upon him criminal duties."

The report will be submitted to the association at its June meeting.

Mrs. Sade Catherine Coles, of Cherrydale, former president and organizer of the Creative Arts Club of Arlington County, will be heard over Station WJSV tonight at 8:45 in response to a number of requests for special selections. Mrs. Coles was heard over this station last Tuesday evening at the same hour, and this second program is the result of a number of requests which she has received.

Delegates of the Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club, who attended the annual convention of the State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at Suffolk, Va., returned yesterday.

Mrs. Mellscent Willis was elected chairman of the State health committee, and Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, chairman of the State legislative committee.

GLEN ECHO PARK

Beautiful weather continues to favor Glen Echo Park, and crowds visited the popular resort over the week-end.

Office doors had no more than closed on Saturday when those seeking real recreation were on their way for an outing.

Big business was the rule on the thrillers—the roller coaster, airplane swings, whip, and old mill packing them in.

Saturday night the ballroom did a land office business, with MacWilliams and his orchestra entertaining in a highly satisfactory manner.

Sunday saw the usual influx of all-day picnic parties, and kids and grown-ups took a ride on everything that moved.

HEARD IN OPERA OFFERING

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

OVER 10,000 people were turned away from the Chicago Civic Opera House a week ago Sunday, May 15, unable to secure tickets for the special performance of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which Katharine Cornell and her company gave in order to accommodate the many playgoers who could not obtain tickets during the star's month's engagement in the Harris Theater in that city.

The proceeds of the matinee, as has been previously set forth in this space, were donated to the sick teachers' fund of the Chicago Teachers Federation.

The first person to take his place in line arrived at the opera house at 5:30 a. m. Before the box office opened there was a double line three city blocks in length. The 3,385 tickets were disposed of in one hour and three-quarters. Miss Cornell sold the first 100 seats.

The occasion stands, perhaps, as unique in theatrical history. The star was given an ovation at the end of the play; but, according to her custom, she bowed her thanks, but declined to speak.

"The Barretts of Wimpole Street" is the first spoken drama ever to be given in the Chicago Civic Opera House. The acoustics of the auditorium proved perfect for the speaking voice.

More records for this fabulous play!

Katharine Cornell, by the way, will act the role of Elizabeth Barrett in the Besier drama for the 500th time in the United States in the Shubert Theater, Kansas City, Mo., on Friday, May 27. From that city she will speed directly to Los Angeles, Calif., where she will begin an eleven-day engagement in the Biltmore Theater on Tuesday night, May 31.

It was in Los Angeles that Ray Henderson, the peregrinating publicist, dropped these messages into the mail box.

The boast of Loews, Inc., that the recent changes in policy on F street would find the Grade A pictures following each other in quick succession on the Palace screen so far is being admirably fulfilled.

Following next week's engagement of Greta Garbo in "As You Desire Me," will come Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picturization of Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable in the principal roles.

It was bruited about for a time that the film version of the first of the O'Neill melodramatic marathons would be presented under the title of "Stranger Interlude," but that project seems now to have been abandoned with no more explanation of the move than was given for the original intention of changing the title of one of the most famous and most widely discussed plays in the language to one that seemed not to mean much.

After having tried it out in a majority of the towns boasting playhouses up and down the Atlantic seaboard, Jane Cowl will take her new vehicle into the West Forties, in New York, tonight for a Metropolitan premiere. It is "A Thousand Summers," written by Merrill Rogers.

It was Miss Cowl's original intention to launch a season of Shakespearean repertoire this year, but she chose this modern play instead and surrounded herself with an imposing cast which includes Osgood Perkins, the managing editor of "The Front Page;" Franchot Tone and Josephine Hull, both of whom have played leads for the Theater Guild, and Florence Edny, one of Broadway's best known character actresses.

Presumably, the title may be construed as Miss Cowl's preconception of the length of the New York run!

Among those who scored hits at the annual frolic of the Ad Club of Washington, at the Shoreham last Saturday night, were the Three Long Brothers, formerly ushers at the Fox Theater in this city, but now vaudeville hoofers of recognized standing.

Other talent failing to put in an appearance, Manager Harry Crull discovered the boys out in front of the theater Saturday evening and asked if they were working.

"No," they replied in well rehearsed unison, "not for a week."

"You're crazy," Mr. Crull informed them. "You're working right now."

And that is how Wesley Eddy, acting as master of ceremonies, happened to put on an unprogrammed act and the Ad Club to see some of the smartest stepping it has clapped an eye on in months!

The current issue of the Motion Picture Herald, foremost of the trade journals devoted exclusively to the interests of the cinema, begins the early-summer barrage of producing company announcements by carrying a thick, multi-colored insert setting forth the year's product that may be expected from RKO-Radio Pictures. It is a formidable line-up and probably will bear added weight by virtue of being the first of its kind in the field.

Constance Bennett, Ann Harding, Leslie Howard, Leslie Banks, Gwili Andre, the Scandinavian beauty whose unique endowments made her New York's leading $50-per-hour photographic model almost overnight; Irene Dunne, of stage and "Cimarron" fame; John Barrymore, Edna May Oliver, Zita Johann, lovely leading woman of many Broadway successes; Ricardo Cortez, Richard Dix, Gregory Ratoff, Mitzi Green, Helen Twelvetrees, Lionel Barrymore, Arline Judge, Roscoe Ates, Bill Boyd, Joseph Cawthorn, Jill Esmond, Joel McCrea, Robert Armstrong, Eric Linden and a good many more are stressed in listing the stars whose talents will contribute to the preeminence of the RKO-Radio product.

It is in the acquisition of directors of the first rank, however, that RKO-Radio has really stepped out. Foremost among the ace megaphone wielders on the RKO lot this season will be such recognized leaders as Wesley Ruggles, who made "Cimarron;" King Vidor, George Fitzmaurice, William Wellman, E. H. Griffith, Rowland Brown, Gregory La Cava, Ernest E. Schoedsack, Frank Lloyd, Norman Taurog, Mervyn LeRoy, J. Walter Ruben, George Archainbaud and Fred Allen.

With Radio City rapidly coming along, Radio-Keith-Orpheum evidently realize that they must have something in the way of pictures coming also to back up all of the ballyhoo and all of the investment that has occasioned it.

What is more important, it looks as if they had it!

Well, Mr. Snider, as one cook to another, I dip the Knox to you. Your barbecue was swell. But you're not the only one.

"YEOMEN OF GUARD" WINS ACCLAIM HERE

The Washington Civic Opera, Inc., last night in the auditorium of McKinley High School presented its second operetta, staging the tuneful and colorful "The Yeomen of the Guard" with precision and surety vastly beyond their earlier and highly successful, "The Gondoliers."

In the construction of this operetta, W. S. Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan have followed a type markedly different from that used in the more frequently played "H. M. S. Pinafore" and "The Mikado." Here the masters have held more strictly to the production of a drama whose action is told and accentuated through song, but still retaining more the form of the speaking drama (occasionally becoming operatic in presentation) rather than of the frothier comic opera.

Set in Sixteenth Century.

Set in the sixteenth century, "The Yeomen of the Guard," offers a tale of love and romances that more than resembles a Shakespearean drama; in fact, much of the dialogue is written and the plot developed in such a way as to suggest a thinly veiled attempt on Gilbert's part to build an operetta "as Shakespeare might have done it." Yet the librettist and the composer could not keep the deception a secret, for when the lesson in love-making is given, the operetta lapses into genuine Gilbert-and-Sullivan treatment.

Thus, by presenting this especial opus the members of the Civic Opera have attempted a work of greater difficulty, and that they have far, far exceeded their performances in "The Gondoliers" bespeaks eloquently, not only of the abilities of the company, individually and collectively, but of the excellent direction of J. Humbird Duffey as well.

Her admirable singing of the difficult role of Elsie Maynard gives to Esther Melick Ingram uncontested honors for the evening, her splendid voice ringing clear and true, making her "'Tis Done, I Am a Bride," the solo triumph. Closely following were the solo by Phoebe (Alma Harris), "Were I Thy Bride," a comical episode; the solos by Col. Fairfax (Jesse Veitch), "Is Life a Boon?" and "Free From His Fetters," and the quartet, "Strange Adventure."

Orchestra of Twelve.

The pivotal characters were played by Mrs. Ingram and Mr. Veitch. They are ably supported by Elliott Button, as Sergeant Meryll; Ira Philip Meyer, as Jack Point, a strolling jester; Melville Veitch, as Wilfred Shadbolt, as the head jailor and assistant tormentor; Miss Marris, as Phoebe, the sergeant's daughter; Alma Bishop, as Dame Carruthers, housekeeper to London Tower; Maxine De Silvia, as the Dame's neice, and Harry Crow, jr., as Sir Richard Cholmondeley, lieutenant of the Tower. A chorus of more than 40 adds color and harmony to the entire production.

Accompanying the Civic Opera was an orchestra of twelve pieces, under direction of Alfred Manning. Not the least impressive part of the operetta is the Aderafters' excellent set, a reproduction of that used in the original Savoy Theater premiere.

"The Yeomen of the Guard" will be presented daily through Saturday, with the exception of Friday evening. All those who really enjoy the operetta are urged to attend, not only in support of a worthy organization, but more especially to witness an unusually fine production of a relatively uncommon Gilbert and Sullivan work.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

By NELSON B. BELL

NATIONAL

"THE VINEGAR TREE." Stephen E. Cochran and Clifford Brooke present the National Theater Players in a comedy in three acts, by Paul Osborn. Directed by Mr. Brooke; settings by Charles Squires.

THE CAST:

Max Lawrence .....Donald Woods
Augustus Merrick ....Raymond Bramley
Winifred Mansfield....Katherine Givney
Louis .....Karl Nielsen
Laura Merrick .....Leona Powers
Leone Merrick .....Ona Munson
Geoffry Cole .....Owen Davis, jr.

There is much the savor of Noel Coward's slightly less infectious "Hay Fever" about this frivolous comedy of an addle-pated mother and imaginative wife whose flights of romantic fancy completely bewilder her family and guests.

It dallies innocuously enough with Freudian elements of drama which, less delicately manipulated, might easily convert a delightfully and satirically amusing evening in the theater into an interval of sinister implication with the baffling complexities of sex as its basis. Mr. Osborn, the author, has seen fit to be wholly diverting and never delinquent in his observance of the more stringent of the proprieties.

It is a tale of a crochety, elderly gentleman of wealth, living on his country estate remote from the city, his wife and daughter and three sudden guests that is always agreeably, and sometimes hilariously, unfolded in the three acts of this Broadway hit, never before presented upon a Washington stage. The mother's innocent blundering all but wrecks the happiness of her daughter; the mutiple-marriages and current attachments of her sister, who bobs up after all these years, adds consternation to the other disturbing moods and emotions in which the household finds itself so precipitately caught up, and mother's final confession of an unexampled case of mistaken identity, in attempting to establish one of her daughter's more ardent suitors as her own girlhood lover, caps the climax of events that mark the high points of a breezy and deftly played bit of dramatic froth.

Only seven characters, one distinctly minor, are employed in the shaping of the play. All are excellently done, another letter-perfect first performance adding new luster to the record of achievement of this remarkably able and well-balanced group of repertoire artists.

Leona Powers, in the nervously alive and completely maladroit role of Laura Merrick, assumes the major burden of the piece and again offers a portrayal that is notable for its perfect reading, expressive "business" and brisk and impetuous tempo, admirably sustained throughout practically the entire movement of the three acts. Donald Woods, in the role of the famous artist, whom Laura mistakes for an earlier infatuation, has a considerably easier time of it as a pivotal figure in the story, but one upon whom no heavy exactments are made.

Katherine Givney and Ona Munson, on the other hand, are congenially cast in roles that afford them perhaps, the most fruitful opportunities they have had so far in the National's "little season"—Miss Givney, as Winifred Mansfield, the much-married sister, smart, sophisticated and sure of herself; Miss Munson, as Leone Merrick, the ingenuous daughter of the household, who found innocence an almost insuperable handicap in engaging the interest of the impecunious young college boy, Mr. Geoffrey Cole, excellently impersonated by Owen Davis, jr.

Raymond Bramley, as the vitriolic Augustus Merrick, who knew his wife better than she knew herself, it seemed to me, might well inject a trifle more of the tincture of wormwood into his impersonation of a caustic, self-centered and venomous old hypochondriac. He was, last night, rather more oily than ominous. Karl Nielsen completes the cast in the small role of the butler.

Charles Squires has devised one interior and one exterior set that lend midseason atmosphere to a vehicle which is played in a manner that the height of a regular midwinter season might not reasonably be expected to surpass.

GAYETY

"BON TON GIRLS." A Burlesque Revue, presented by Jimmy Lake, featuring Lillian Murray, Dorothy DeHaven, Jeannette Allabassie, Bobby Vale and Billy Fields. Reviewed by W. L. Wright.

Jimmy's latest, the "Bon Ton Girls," playing to an audience that made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in size, proved to be another hit show. Getting away to a flying start, with some fast stepping that demonstrated how exceptionally well trained these good looking chorines really are, all dull moments were banished and this revue gained pep and snap to the final speciality by the gorgeous Lillian Murray.

Lillian is guaranteed to drive your blues away. Possessing a charming personality and a pleasing voice, she put her act across in a big way, and the prolonged applause almost stopped the show.

Another who was held in high esteem was Lola Pierce, blues singer extraordinary. Jeannette Allabassie and the Reed Sisters are already well-known and their excellent work speaks for itself.

Bobby Vale, rotund comedian, takes the lion's share of the honors this week. However, no one can pass Billy Fields and "Chuck" Callahan unnoticed. Ray Parsons and Lew Denny are two of the best straight men in burlesque. Their wit goes a long way toward making this revue click.

RED SOX POUND NATS' PITCHING FOR 6-2 VICTORY

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE piece of fighting machinery that is Maxie Rosenbloom was in perfect working order last night at the opening of the Twin-City Arena at Laurel and the reddened body and Irish countenance of young Reds Barry will testify that Maxie didn't miss a beat.

Maxie kept one eye on the round indicator suspended above the arena and two fists in Barry's face for the ten rounds, judging his pace like Earl Sande at his best, and the 2,000 fistic fans who sat in on the proceedings are willing to let Maxie reign as king of the world's light heavyweights until a better man comes along. He's no cheese champion.

They say he's Broadway's playboy of the night clubs, training on the bright lights and doing his road work on the dance floors, but somewhere, somehow, Maxie has picked up a profound knowledge of pugilistic lore that either gives the lie to the stories about him or is a tribute to his native fighting ability.

Maxie has all the equipment of a champion except the numbing punch that champions are supposed to carry, but if you were to ask Barry this morning if Maxie can hit, the answer would probably be in the affirmative, a very firm affirmative.

Barry probably will be speaking as a result of the frequency rather than the potency of Maxie's punches. At no time was the Southeast redhead in serious distress throughout the ten rounds, but he was blanketed with punches from the opening gong and may be excused from thinking that he was fighting the whole Rosenbloom family in the same ring at the same time.

Maxie showed Washington fans a new variety of the one-two punch. That is, he showed them the one-two punch with the same hand. He stuck his left in Barry's face and then stuck it back in Barry's face again without a return and with great effect, and then when Barry did arouse himself to the point of striking back, Maxie had left the immediate vicinity.

Maxie deigned even to exchange wallops with the boy who outweighed him 8 pounds and in these flurries he threw so many fists that Barry's blows were landing mostly on Maxie's own flying gloves.

Withal, Barry wasn't disgraced. He was an 18-year-old lad in there against the champion of the world, who had reigned for three years and beaten every leading contender at every asking.

Staying ten rounds with the world champion at the age of 18, and keeping his feet at all times, is still quite a feat for any boy, and Barry can look back upon last night's fight with infinite satisfaction when he reaches that age when all fighters want to reminisce.

It was just another night's work for Maxie and he did a very workmanlike job of it, now punching, now boxing, now covering up and making Barry miss. It was just a gallop to a guy like Maxie and tonight he's probably fighting some other local pride and punching and boxing, and covering up according to schedule, but just galloping all the way.

Barry Given Lesson by Champion

Rosenbloom Annexes Every Round as 2,000 Watch.

Van, Essinger, Bowen, Hoe, Haverlak Win at Twin-City.

By JACK ESPEY.

CLIMAXED by the whirlwind glove-tossing of Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion, in the feature ten-round bout, open-air boxing was ushered before 2,000 Capital fans last night at Twin-City Arena, near Laurel. Rosenbloom easily won a decision from Reds Barry, 18-year-old Washington heavyweight, after giving a pleasing exhibition that topped off a satisfactory card.

There was never any doubt as to the outcome of the main event from the moment in the first round that Rosenbloom delivered a lightning one-two punch to Barry's durable chin.

Barry tried hard enough and staged a rally in the tenth round that saw Maxie backing into the ropes, but the best the Southeast pride had to offer was by comparison kindergarten stuff. The champion, displaying everything a fighter needs but the old wallop, struck his youthful opponent at will and taught him a lesson in infighting and defensive tactis.

Rosenbloom on Offensive.

In a way Rosenbloom had little use for a defense last night. He tossed so many slaps, jabs and overhand rights to all parts of Barry's anatomy that the local lad spent most of the time trying to protect himself.

For the first three rounds Barry didn't appear to be his usual aggressive self. He was perhaps, stage struck; then again it might have been a case of being on the receiving end of more punches than he had ever seen before in such a short period.

In the fourth, however, Barry let loose an attack that belted Maxie on both head and stomach, causing the champion to back away for a breathing spell. But when Rosenbloom recovered, showing greater gusto than before, Barry soon found himself in the midst of a leather shower that only the bell interrupted.

Rosenbloom staggered his foe in the sixth and seventh with lefts to the head, but this failed to discourage the Redhead, who came back in the eighth with long range blows to score cleanly on Maxie's upper structure.

In the ninth Barry appeared tired and merely busied himself with attempts to escape Maxie's relentless fire. He was not altogether successful, for the champion switched from long blows to short-arm stabs at close quarters which resounded throughout the arena.

Still undismayed, Barry carried the fight to the title holder at the beginning of the tenth, smashing lefts and rights to Maxie's head and driving him into the ropes. But this only served to anger Rosenbloom and the champion scored easily in a final burst of speed.

Haverlak Gains Decision.

The eight-round semifinal resulted in a unanimous decision for Freddy Haverlak, Rosenbloom's stablemate from New York, who did practically all of the fighting while his opponent. Don Whitlock, of North Carolina, staged a clowning act.

Young Van, undefeated Washington middleweight, registered his eighth successive victory by getting a unanimous decision over Sammy Britt, of Philadelphia. Van had some difficulty landing his powerful blows at long range, but toward the finish managed to strike solidly with a straight left to the head. Britt tried to slug it out in the sixth chapter only to catch a couple of vicious swings on the face.

Knockouts credited to Ray Bowen, Billy Hoe and Willie Essinger, all of Washington, added spice to the preliminaries. Bowen, weighing 148, stopped Pete DeAngeles, 144, of Baltimore, after hitting his opponent with everything but the turnstiles. DeAngeles, bleeding profusely from mouth and nose, failed to come out for the sixth and final round.

Hoe, weighing 138, won a technical kayo at the expense of K. O. Anderson, Quantico Marine, 132, the referee intervening in the second session to save the Gyrene further punishment. Essinger, 130, floored Pete Zingo, 133, Baltimore, for the full count in the fourth.

Critz and Hogan Star In Giants' 9-7 Victory

Philadelphia, May 23 (A.P.).—Led by Hugh Critz and Big Ben Hogan, each with four hits, the New York Giants punched three Phil pitchers for nineteen blows and won today's opener, 9 to 7.

U. S. GOLFER BEATS 1931 CHAMP

Martin Downs Smith in British Amateur Tourney

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 23 (A.P.).—Leonard Martin, trim little champion of metropolitan New York, provided the sensation of the opening day's play in the British amateur golf championship today as he rallied after being four down at the eleventh to defeat Eric Martin Smith, defending title holder, 1 up.

Martin led three other Americans into the second round of the title event as four more fell by the wayside. Three matches involving Americans were postponed until tomorrow when darkness called a halt to play. The matches were played in windless, sunny weather and on a course in ideal condition.

Winning with Martin were Ross Tompson, of Uniontown, Pa., who defeated E. C. Bowen, of the Ladbrook Park Club, 2 up; Douglas Grant, a former California champion, long resident in England, who won from W. S. Peacock, of the Kilmalcolm Club, 2 and 1, and Robert Sweeney, the Oxford student, who defeated Capt. J. R. Pelham-Burn, of the Royal and Ancient, 2 and 1.

Conqueror of Jones Wins Match.

Paul Azbill, an American expatriate, entered from Sunningdale, lost to the young Scotsman who defeated Bobby Jones here in 1926; Andrew Jamieson, 6 and 5; Clive Alvord, of Greenwich, Conn., fell before E. Watson, Scottish player, by the same score; Stuart Scheftel, now living in London, lost to Lieut. Col. P. G. M. Skene, 2 and 1, and Frank Sweeney, brother of Robert, lost to A. J. Peech, of Morpiesdon, 6 and 4.

Dave Martin, California champion; Joshua Crane, of Boston, and Charles Sweeney, captain of the Oxford Golf Team and a brother of Robert and Frank, did not play. They will tee off in their first-round matches tomorrow morning.

Leonard Martin staged a fine comeback to defeat the British title holder, Smith conceding him the match on the final hole as Martin lay 7 yards from the pin in 2, and the Englishman was still short after 3 strokes.

Mrs. Moody, Partner Win at French Nets

Auteuil, France, May 23 (A.P.).—Helen Wills Moody, making her first appearance on French courts in two years, showed the gallery in Roland Garros Stadium today that she has lost none of her court wizardry as she paired with Elizabeth Ryan and reached the quarter-finals of women's doubles in the French tennis championships.

Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan, American, now living in London, defeated Violette and Jacqueline Gallay, two French sisters, without the loss of a game, 6—0, 6—0, in the second round. They had a first-round bye.

Helen Jacobs, the other American contender, in women's play, was not so fortunate. Paired with Gregory Mangin, who is here with Sidney B. Wood, jr., as representative of the International Tennis Club, of New York, she lost to Mlle. Rosie Berthet, of France, and Pierre Grandguillot, Egyptian Davis Cup player, 6—3, 6—2, in the first round of mixed doubles.

Central Wins, 5 to 1, Over Eastern

DeBettencourt Yields Only Four Hits in Play-Off Game.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL sent a team of boys to do a man's job yesterday and, contrary to all of the proverbs in the book, the boys did it, sending Eastern High down to a 5-to-1 defeat in the first game of the play-off series which will settle the dispute between the above two schools and Western, as to which will wear the 1932 crown. The Mount Pleasant tossers accomplished the victory in such a manner as to leave no doubt in the minds of those who witnessed the fray as to their superiority over the Lincoln Parkers.

Loose-jointed Johnny DeBettencourt went to the mound for Central, and when he ambled off the hill at the end of the game glory fairly dripped from his shoulders. He twirled a beautiful game, outpitching Dick Lanahan and holding Eastern's "murderers' row" to four hits, scattered through several counties. In addition, he fanned five and issued only one walk. If nonchalance was wealth, DeBettencourt would be a modern Croesus. The diamond could have been pulled from beneath him yesterday and he would have gone right on pitching.

Thompson Hits Homer With One On.

Steve Thompson, Central's retiring center fielder, poled a home run to deep right field with Moran on base in the third inning to start his team on its march to victory. Moran had previously singled. The eventual winners fortified their position with two additional markers in the fifth when DeBettencourt and Chumbris walked in succession. Moran fanned, DeBettencourt advancing to third. Carl Mills threw badly in an attempt to catch a pair of flying bowlegs, later identified as the property of Chumbris, who had stolen second. DeBettencourt tallied, and a moment later he was joined by Chumbris when Fitzpatrick heaved a wild peg in the general direction of third base.

Eastern's lone marker came in the sixth when Nolan was hit by DeBettencourt with two out. Mills had previously singled, but Chumbris, Nau and Keyser converted Moore's grounder into their third double play of the afternoon. Fitzgerald coaxed a pass and Smith provided passage home for Nolan with a safety to left. A pass to Chumbris, another free base to Moran, who was hit by Lanahan, and an error brought Central's fifth and final run.

Had Central played through the regular series as it played yesterday it would be in possession of the title today. Western will tackle Central Thursday in the second game of the series.

San Francisco Clubs Veto Night Baseball

San Francisco, May 23 (A.P.).—Faced with dwindling attendances, largely as a result of competition from dog racing, San Francisco's Coast League clubs, the Seals and Missions, will switch back to day baseball beginning tomorrow.

K. O. FOR CANZONERI.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 23 (A.P.).—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, stopped Battling Gizzy of Donora, in the fifth round of a ten-round bout tonight. Gizzy fell through the ropes and was unable to crawl back into the ring. He claimed an injury at the base of his spine. Canzoneri was credited with a knockout. It was a nontitle affair.

BENNY LEONARD WINS.

Paterson, N. J., May 23 (A.P.).—Benny Leonard, New York welterweight, stopped Jimmy Abbott, also of New York, in the sixth round of a ten-round bout here tonight. Leonard weighed 150 pounds; Abbott, 152.

Ruffing Hero As Yankees Beat A's

Relieves Pipgras in 9th, 3 on, One Out, Saving 6-5 Game.

Mahaffey Yields Four Runs in 3d on Walk, 3 Singles, Error.

NEW YORK, May 23 (A.P.).—A bit of sparkling pinch pitching of the kind the Yankees were supposed to do without this season, beat the champion Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 5, today, helped even the first two games of the series, and kept the Yanks sailing easily along at the head of the American League.

Big Red Ruffing stepped into the breach in the ninth inning with one out, a run already in, Al Simmons perched on third with the tying run, Jimmy Fox on first, and forced Roettger to pop futilely and Williams to fly to the outfield.

Pipgras Holds A's Until Ninth.

George Pipgras held the Athletics in check up to the ninth with the exception of a three-run burst in the fifth, when Dykes walked, Leroy Mahaffey tripled and Roger Cramer doubled, but his wildness kept him in trouble. Two bases on balls, a hit batsman and Roettger's single added another in the eighth.

Ruffing came in to save the day after Cochrane walked with one out and Simmons and Foxx singled.

Mahaffey, young Athletic right-hander, held the Yanks to six hits, two less than Pipgras gave, but a walk, singles by Pipgras, Combs and Sewell in the third, coupled with Dib Williams' error, were good for four runs.

3 Walks Aid Yanks In Sixth.

Three bases on balls, singles by Lary and Sewell, counted two more in the sixth.

Neither Babe Ruth nor Lou Gehrig was able to hit safely. Tony Lazzeri, whose play at second base has been sensational for the Yanks, was forced out with a lame leg in the third inning.

Browns' 5-Run Rally Defeats Tigers, 7 to 6

Detroit, May 23 (A.P.).—A five-run rally in the seventh inning at the expense of Elon Hogsett gave the St. Louis Browns a 7-to-6 victory in the series opener today.

Bill Rogell, Tiger shortstop, contributed a pair of home runs and Dale Alexander, pinch batting in the eighth, bagged a single that scored two runs, but Chad Kimsey replaced Gray on the mound for the Browns and the Bengal attack was checked with a double play.

Word From the Kidnapers

The mysterious Three Thieves who have abducted Asbestos, junior member of The Post's comic strip racing selectors' team, have announced that pending payment of the $10,000 ransom demanded, they will continue to act as intermediaries between Asbestos and his public in the matter of giving out his daily tips.

Asbestos' message to his public yesterday brought joyful tidings in the form of Easter Time, which won at $11.54 to $2. Joe Quince, the senior member of the comic strip team, in the meantime gave out three other long-shot winners yesterday—Gold Step at $32.74 to $2, Tug o' War at 12 to 1 and Pan at $7.80.

The bookmakers who are at the bottom of the plot to kidnap Asbestos were double crossed by the kidnapers, who hope to raise the ransom money by betting on Asbestos' selections. They are communicating Asbestos' daily selection to The Public through the comic strip on The Post's racing page.

Starting with less than $10 at the beginning of the racing season, Asbestos' bankroll has now reached $58.90 through his sensational handicapping system.

BRAVES GAIN LEAD BY WIN IN 10TH, 5-4

Maranville's Single Beats Robins, 5-4, in See-Saw Game.

BOSTON, May 23 (A.P.).—Rabbit Maranville came to bat with two out in the last of the tenth inning today and came through with a scorching single that defeated Brooklyn, 5 to 4, in the series opener and planted the Braves back at the top of the National League standing.

Robert (Red) Worthington was perched on third base when the Rabbit, veteran of a score of years of big league baseball, stepped to the plate. Worthington had doubled with one away and reached third on Art Shires' outfield fly. He scored easily on Maranville's blow, the fourth of the day for the Rabbit.

Up to the winning punch, it had been a see-saw battle all the way. Brooklyn led until the sixth, when Freddie Leach's pinchhit scored a pair and put the Braves ahead.

Waite Hoyt started for Brooklyn, but was relieved in the seventh by Thurston, who was charged with the loss.

RISQUE NOSES OUT PARRY IN FEATURE AT BELMONT PARK

Fans Dispute Decision of Judges

Claim Parry Crossed the Finish Line in Front.

Sheltered Is Third, Five Lengths Behind First Two.

BELMONT PARK RACE TRACK, May 23 (A.P.).—The finish of the Milk Maid Purse, a handicap of 7 furlongs for mares 3 years old and upward, caused considerable disagreement among those who witnessed the event here this afternoon. The judges placed Mrs. J. D. Hertz's Risque, the 11-to-20 favorite, first, and the Greentree Stable's Parry second. Sheltered, from the G. D. Widener stable, was beaten five lengths for the place.

From the stand, it appeared as if Parry won beyond a doubt, by at least a head, but the official sign was hoisted without undue delay. The time for the 7 furlongs trip was 1:26 3-5.

Risque got away well in her stride and Steffen let her rate in front with daylight over Parry, which was ridden by Workman. Turning into the stretch, Parry came around the leader and headed the daughter of Stimulus in the stretch. Parry, racing well out in the middle of the track, seemed to have her rival beaten all through the last furlong. Sheltered closed well to leave Pintail well behind in the battle for third honors.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Extra — Gold Step, $32.74; Tug o'War, 12 to 1; Pan, $7.80; Easter Time, $11.54, were the winners the Wizards hit yesterday. Asbestos bet on Easter Time and added $12.32 to the roll, which is now $58.79. Joe's handicap system went over sensationally for the seventh time, his $5.00 mind bets clearing Joe's bank roll, shows a profit of $298.00 on a $5 flat bet.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EASTER TIME, $11.54, $6.88, $4.78; FERVOR, $10.94, $6.54; TOMBEREAU, $3.54.

EASTER TIME, showing speed from the start, drew into a clear command under energetic riding at the turn, greatly increased advantage after reaching the stretch, but weakened, yet lasted. FERVOR, forced to race wide almost throughout, responded well after straightening up in stretch and was wearing down the winner. TOMBEREAU began fast, was slightly shuffled back in the run to the turn, saved much ground and weakened after five-eighths, but was best of the others. TOTEM, slow to begin and far back until reaching final three-sixteenths, closed with a rush. BALDERDASH had no mishaps. ESTIN began slowly. GRAND PRINCE raced wide while close up and, under light restraint first half mile, failed to rally when urged hard. SANS COIN quit.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. Blue Island Purse. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:03½. Off at 3:04½. Winner, E. R. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BALLYGRAN, $14.46, $7.96, $2.92; MISS BRILLIANT, $8.32, $2.84; RED WISK, $2.30.

BALLYGRAN came across sharply shortly after the start, kept in closest attendance of the pacemaker under light restraint rounding the turn, easily wore down MISS BRILLIANT and won driving out. The latter, away fast, displayed keen speed, raced around and held on well, but was not good enough. RED WISK, forced back going into the turn, lost ground entering the stretch and closed resolutely, but could not get to the leaders. LE BRUYERE, given a hustling ride, had speed, dropped back at stretch turn, but closed well. PROJECTILE swerved repeatedly, particularly in the stretch, where he bore out. FLYING FLEET was outrun. OLD JUDGE was always far back.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:36½. Off at 3:40½. Winner, E. McCuan's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOBIEHA, $76.40, $29.44, $14.80; BLACK COMET, $6.44, $5.62; SEMESTER, $6.86.

SOBIEHA, away fast and having speed, followed the pacemaker under light restraint until reaching the stretch where she stood mild pressure gamely and, wearing down BLACK COMET, won drawing out. Latter displayed good speed from start, saved ground throughout and faltered slightly in final eighth. SEMESTER, fractious at post, where he was placed outside the stalls, began slowly, gradually improved his position and, getting through on the inside, outfinished UNENCUMBERED. Latter appeared to bear out at the turn and went resolutely when straightened up in the stretch. FLAG TIME, under urging from start, moved in final stretch. CALGARY KAY began slowly, was taken up when ELIZABETH BOLLA dropped back suddenly and had little chance thereafter. THE DAGO, placed on outside of stalls, got away poorly. ELIZABETH BOLLA broke down.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:14. Off at 4:15. Winner, ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—JUDGE LUEDERS, $9.18, $6.76, $5.08; EVELINE F., $12.76, $7.16; BANJO, $8.16.

JUDGE LUEDERS, never far out of it, saved ground throughout, responded with determination when urged hard and, reaching the lead on the inside in the final sixteenth, outstayed EVELINE F. The latter, away fast, but unable to keep up, began working her way up after reaching the final half mile, saved much ground the last three-eighths and was strongest of all in the final stages. BANJO had speed from the start, drew away into a long lead, fell badly lame after reaching the final quarter, where he swerved badly. PLUTARCH, under light restraint in first three-quarters, moved up slightly on the outside of BANJO in the stretch turn, but faltered in the concluding stages. BATTLING ON raced wide from the start and tired badly after seven-eighths. BLUE LAW, away slowly, was always outrun. GABBO quit. TITUS lost ground.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $5,000 added. Washington Park Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:45. Off at 4:51. Winner, Mrs. S. H. Fairbanks' ch. g. (5), by Sweep On—Golden Saints. Trained by S. H. Fairbanks. Value to winner, $5,290; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $250. Time, 0:23, 0:46 1-5, 1:12.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GOLD STEP, $32.74, $12.14, $5.66; SILVERDALE, $6.50, $4.44; LADDER, $5.32.

GOLD STEP, going in his best form and, under light weight, shook off DON LEON after a quarter, easily withstood LADDER'S bid when entering the stretch and, drawing into a long lead, won easily. SILVERDALE, a strong factor from the start, had lost ground, stood the drive gamely, but was no threat to the winner. LADDER had speed, moved up stoutly on the outside of the winner approaching the stretch, but weakened in the closing three-sixteenths, yet outpaced POLYDORUS. The latter, away slowly, raced wide throughout, steadily bettered position and was going well in the final stages. TANNERY, forced back at the end of three-eighths, never regained a contending position, but made up ground in the stretch. MANTA had no mishaps. PRINCE ATHELING was on extreme outside most of the trip. DON LEON and HYMAN had early speed.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:18½. Off at 5:18½. Winner, Mrs. H. Gaines' b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—COME ON, $6.92, $2.98, $2.68; BRASS MONKEY, $3.14, $2.56; BATHER, $3.92.

COME ON, going in his best form and under stout restraint, responded gamely when called on and, racing into lead on outside, drew away slowly in the final eighth. BRASS MONKEY met slight interference at the first turn, improved position fast at far turn and, taking a good lead, failed to withstand the winner's bid, but held second. BATHER saved much ground and weakened, but was best of others. LADY EBONY quit. ONO had no mishap. WIRT G. BOWMAN quit in the final quarter. HIS LAST was done after three-quarters.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:49. Off at 3:50. Winner, J. J. Hogan's b. g. (5), by Mad Hatter—Pantalette. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14, 1:40 2-5, 1:54 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JODHPUR, $29.48, $10.26, $5.12; TACK, $5.22, $3.08; COMSTOCKERY, $3.26.

JODHPUR, never far out of it, and under steadying restraint until reaching the final three-eighths, was brought up gradually, gave away to TACK after getting to the lead nearing the final eighth, but outstayed the latter in subsequent drive. TACK lost ground, raced to the lead with a rush after entering the stretch and held on stubbornly, but was not good enough. COMSTOCKERY, fractious at the post and away slowly, saved ground, but could not get up and weakened in the final stages. GUNFIRE, taken into the lead, had speed, but weakened in final quarter. HAL RILEY had speed, but faltered in the stretch.

BELANGER OUTPUNCHED.

Boston, May 23 (U.P.).—Joe Knight, swift punching Cairo, Ga., light-heavyweight, tonight trounced Charles Belanger, Canadian light-heavyweight champion, in a ten-round bout at Boston Arena. Knight weighed 177, Belanger, 182.

IOWA RESTORES BREAK.

Iowa City, Iowa, May 23 (A.P.).—Edward Break, University of Iowa basket ball guard, who was declared ineligible before the opening game last season, has been reinstated, Dean C. B. Williams, chairman of the athletic board, announced tonight.

TENNIS SURPRISES FEATURE

Shore, Latona Bow in Net Upsets

Considine, Hermann Victors in D. C. Title Play.

Mitchell, Yen Others to Reach Semi-final Round.

TWO of Washington's fair-haired boys in tennis fell by the wayside in the City of Washington championship at the reservoir courts. Frank Shore, seeded No. 2 in the draw, lost to Bob Considine, not seeded, in a long-drawn-out match, 1—6, 6—1, 6—4, and Anthony Latona, seeded No. 3, went out at the hands of Gene Hermann, 3—6, 12—10, 6—2.

Form held true in all other departments of play. Dooly Mitchell, favorite to retain his title, moved into the quarter-final round at the expense of Dean Judd, veteran steel-racqueter, 11—9, 6—3. He was subsequently joined in the round of eight by Yungsun Yen, crafty Chinese chopstroke player, and by Dick Mason, of whom more will be heard in District tennis this year. Yen put out Joe Rutley, of the Edgemoor Club, 6—1, 7—5, while Mason annihilated Alan Staubley, 6—3, 6—1.

Miss Davis Impresses In Debut.

Alice Davis, daughter of the famous donor of the Davis Cup, made her local tournament debut by beating Marion Butler, 6—2, 7—5. Mrs. F. Trubee Davison, another of the well-known players in the women's division, advanced to the third round by default.

Displaying a corking forehand drive, that all but emulated the speed and depth of her famous daddy's about the time he was national doubles champion, Miss Davis proved herself one of the aces of the tournament by her victory over Miss Butler, who rates high among District of Columbia netwomen.

The most savagely contested match of the day was the Latona-Herman struggle. Latona, earlier in the day defeated the veteran Hugh Trigg, 6—3, 6—3, and against advice went on to play Hermann, who is a test for any one in the tournament. The Western High School boy captured the first set, but found the strain of his Trigg match telling on him in the second, which he dropped to the volleying of Hermann by a score of 12—10. Hermann was complete master of the situation in the third, backing up his net game with steady ground strokes. The match lasted nearly three hours.

Shore might well have won easily from Considine had he not fallen into a double-faulting habit at critical stages of the match, and had not Considine been fortunate enough to score eight netcord shots. Shore was untouchable in the first set, scoring placement after placement to win 6—1. He did not seem to pay particular attention to matters in the second and dropped it easily, 6—1.

Shore pulled up gallantly from 1—5 in the third set, only to be nosed out 7—4.

MEN'S SINGLES.

Third round—Mitchell defeated Judd, 11—9, 6—3; Considine defeated Shore, 1—6, 6—1, 6—4; Yen defeated Rutley, 6—1, 7—5; Mason defeated Staubly, 6—3, 6—1; Latona defeated Trigg, 6—3, 6—3. Quarterfinal round—Hermann defeated Latona, 3—6, 12—10, 6—2.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Second round—Considine and Olhausen defeated Hoffecker and Dreschler, 6—2, 6—0; Sendel and Staubly defeated Dyas and Eshlager, 6—0, 6—0.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

Second round—Sara Moore defeated Kay Johnson, 6—2, 6—0; Reba Kirson defeated Mrs. E. K. Morris, 6—2, 6—0; Alice Davis defeated Marion Butler, 6—2, 7—5; Mrs. Trubee Davison won by default.

hopper and pegged badly to second in the hope of starting a double play. This was the first good "break" received by the home team and the cash customers suddenly awoke and began sitting on the edge of their chairs.

After Bluege popped to Olson, Manager Johnson called on Dave Harris to hit for Berg. He popped a foul to the catcher. The fans were still optimistic when Johnny Kerr took Marberry's place at the tee. He worked the count to three and two and then bounded one off the plate. Pickering fumbled the ball when it finally landed, but recovered in time to gain a close decision at first when Van Camp made a nice grab of the low throw which followed.

Washington benefited from a walk and a scratch hit in the ninth, but was able to get a runner no farther than third.

Van Camp, with his four safeties, including a triple and double, was the game's heaviest hitter, with Heinie Manush getting three of the home hits. He added two singles to his four-bagger.

DUNBAR HIGH WINS.

Baltimore, Md., May 23 (Special).—Brooks' home run in the sixth with one on base enabled Dunbar High School of Washington to down Douglas High School by a score of 8-7 in a hard-fought game played here today.

D. C. Schools Meet Plebe Nine, Trackmen Saturday

WESTERN'S upset of Eastern High last week in the high school series, which marked the first downfall of the Northeast team in nearly five years of series competition, has boosted the club into more spotlight than has attended it in nearly a decade.

Upon beating Eastern, 3-1, Western gained a first-place tie with that team and Central for the title. The board of high school advisers, forced to name a team which will represent Washington against the Naval Academy Plebes next Saturday, used the name-in-the-hat system and drew out Western's entry.

Led by Bill Payne, a big, young pitcher, with major league aspirations, the team develops a hitting punch in pinches that is admirable. The team has a good journeyman catcher in Hilleary, and a first baseman of all-high caliber in Mulloch. Martin, Wilhoite and Clark, the outfield, are three of the best in the high school business.

But it is Payne that is the leading light. Nearing the fadeout age of 21, Payne is a fully matured man with loads of speed and a generally bewildering array of hooks. His lone weakness is his failure to ignore his sideline hecklers. He pitched a no-hit, no-run game Saturday against Charlotte Hall.

Besides the baseball game Saturday at Annapolis, the Navy Plebe Track Team will engage the first all-high track team ever chosen here. The local team will be made up of the winners of first, second and third places in all events of the interhigh meet Friday at Central Stadium.

G. U. BEATEN BY TEMPLE NINE, 8-7

Hilltop Is Guilty of 8 Errors; Stars in Last Game.

IT was a sad farewell in more ways than one, as Georgetown University's nine lost an 8-to-7 decision in its final game of the season to Temple University yesterday on Hilltop Field. The game marked the last appearance in Blue and Gray uniforms of Capt. Johnny Evers, jr., and three other Hilltoppers, but lingering longer in the memory of those present was the fact that, as a whole, the fray was one of the most poorly played in recent collegiate history hereabouts.

The ludicrous details are passed over herewith very briefly.

Georgetown made eight errors, five figuring in Temple's large fifth inning, when the Owls took the lead never to be headed. Temple committed four errors, and both teams were guilty of many mental misues. Catcher Whittock, of Temple, allowed three pitches to get away from him in one inning, while Pitcher Bob Cooper unloosed a wild pitch.

Poor Support Handicaps Lindquist.

Lefty Lindquist, Georgetown sophomore pitcher, was the victim. He would have won rather easily had his mates supported him better on defense. He yielded twelve hits, several of which weer extremely scratchy, and struck out eight batters.

Georgetown hopped on Ed Cramer, starting Temple flinger, for an early lead. The Hoyas were enjoying a 5-to-1 advantage going into the fourth inning, when an error by Lione with two out started the Owls off to the decisive run-gathering. Two Temple tallies came over in this frame and four more in the next sent the visitors out in front for the balance of the route.

The Hoyas chopped away Temple's lead by scoring two runs in the sixth, tying the score at 7 to 7. The Philadelphians came back in the seventh to score the winning run. Georgetown filled the bases in the seventh to score the wininng run. Georgetown filled the bases in the ninth with one down, but Rappy's attempted squeeze play resulted in forcing out a runner at home, after which Lindquist fanned.

The result balanced Georgetown's record at six wins and as many defeats.

SANDLOT DUST

RED hot action is carded for the Congress Heights diamond Sunday when the team representing that section of the city plays host to the Union Printers in a Capital City League game. The Heights crew stepped back into the good graces of the fans by walloping Highway Department last Sunday. Their restoration to good standing following a loss to Ciro's Villagers in the inaugural.

The Printers bowed to Horning Jewelers last Sunday after apparently locking up the verdict with a seven-run rally in the sixth frame. The score was 9-7. Ed Lowery's wrecking crew is going to have an important role in the race in Section A. With the Dixie Pigs and Ciro's just ahead the team will face some of the stiffest competition it will encounter during the entire campaign. But it has the power and may provide some tough competition for its opponents.

Swift Co. and Sanico Bakers will hook up in a game to be played today at 5 p. m. on diamond No. 1

Howitzer Giants will oppose College Park today at 4 p. m. on the latter's diamond. All players are requested to report on the College Park field at 3:30 o'clock.

Smith's will play the Naval Communications nine today at 4 o'clock on diamond No. 10.

Pheonix is anxious to arrange games with strong unlimited teams for Saturdays and Sundays. Call Manager Norris at Atlantic 5013-W.

Manager Boteler wants all Hawk Insect players to return their signed contracts for the Central City League to him today, or call him at Lincoln 8367-J.

Bunker Hill Post will drill today at 3 p. m. on diamond No. 1 of the Monument grounds. All players are requested to report promptly.

St. Paul Boys' Club junior are seeking games with strong teams in its class. Call Potomac 3337-W.

Rock Creek Servicenter would like to book an out-of-town game for Saturday. Call Manager "Snitz" Nau at Potomac 6134 after 5 p. m.

The Knights of Columbus Insects will engage the Berais Insects in a game to be played at 3:30 p. m. today on the East Ellipse. All players are requested to report promptly.

The Columbia Midgets want a game for Sunday, Emerson 5662.

G. U. PREPS BEAT SAINTS.

Georgetown Prep nosed out St. Albans, 3-2, in a hard fought match played yesterday on the victors' home courts. The doubles match between Cannon and Reese, of Georgetown, and McGee and Smith, which the former won, featured play.

McGee (S. A.) defeated Cannon, 6—3, 6—4; Reese (G.), defeated O'Connor, 6—1, 6—1; Patton (S. A.) defeated Heekin, 6—3, 6—1; Cannon and Reese (G.) defeated McGee and W. Smith, 4—6, 7—5, 6—1; Heekin and Leflie (G.) defeated Patton and Craighill, 6—2, 6—4.

FRIENDS NETMEN WIN.

Friends School netmen won their eighth victory in nine starts yesterday, beating Gonzaga, 5-0, to maintain their lead in the Prep School League. Individual matches were hostly contested, but Friends were successful in every engagement.

Singles—Boyle defeated Eckert, 6—4, 6—3; Eakin defeated R. Lao, 3—6, 6—2, 6—2; Shotwell defeated J. Lao, 6—2, 6—4. Doubles—Boyle and Eakin defeated R. Lao and Eckert, 3—6, 6—4, 9—7; Shotwell and Hayes defeated J. Lao and Halloran, 6—2, 7—5.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE BOOP-OOP-A-DOOP SUIT.

"(Miss Helen Kane, musical comedy star, is suing a picture company over the use of a character called Betty Boop. She contends it is an infringement on her Boop-oop-a-doop song." —News item.)

Q. WHAT is your name?

A. Helen Kane.

Q. You are the Boop-oop-a-doop Kane, are you not?

A. Yes, sir. I am America's Boop-oop-a-doop girl.

Q. Now then, on what occasion did you first sing this song?

A. I sang it on any and all occasions.

Q. Would you mind singing it so the judge can hear it?

A. Not at all. It goes like this * * * Boop-oop-a-doop! Boop-oop-a-doop! Boop-oo-a-doop!

Judge. Let me see if I understand you clearly. You say it goes like this * * * Boop-oop-a-doop! Boop-oop-a-doop! Boop-oop-a-doop?

A. That's it your honor.

Judge. I just want to be certain of the facts. I'd hate to be overruled by the Supreme Court through an error in the exact number of boop-a-doops or their proper sequence. Only last month one of our leading jurists was overruled in a song suit involving the number of hey-nonnie-noonies in a song called 'Hot Cha-Cha.' Glozt versus Bernstein, I think it was. Proceed.

Q.—Now, Miss Kane, will you tell the court the meaning of Boop-oop-a-doop?

A.—Oh, yes, sir.

Q.—They express gayety, contempt for care, unconcern with the graver affairs of existence, and manifest a total indifference to the more serious things of life, do they not?

A.—You took the words out of my mouth.

Q.—The very combination Boop-oop-a-doop filled a yawning chasm in the vocabulary of millions and gave a power of expression to great masses of hitherto inarticulate people, did it not?

A.—Oh, yes, sir.

Q.—It made the dumb speak, did it not?

Judge.—I don't think we need go into that. I concede that Boop-oop-a-doop was spoken by the dumb everywhere.

Q.—And the expression became associated with your name and personality, Miss Kane, just as "I intend to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer," became associated with Gen. Grant, the words "Give me liberty or give me death" with Patrick Henry and "Business is fundamentally sound" with Herbert Hoover?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q. And you feel that the use of Boop-oop-a-doop or any part or fraction thereof by any other person would constitute an infringement of personality, imperil your future and cause you great financial and physical distress?

A. You said it, big boy.

The judge (talking in his sleep)—Verdict of 2,000 boop-oop-pahs with the usual doops. The application of the defendant for a bill of hot-chas is denied! Court's adjourned.

The Senate, in its inquiry into the radio pool in which insiders made $5,000,000, should inquire whether it had a theme song.

APPROXIMATELY CORRECT.

(From the Senate inquiry.)

"The only person who could tell you is Mr. Meehan. He is a very sick man and sailed for Europe the other night."

"Just when did he sail?"

"Last night."

Carrie Colburn Dead; Was Noted Actress

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Carrie Colburn, 73, actress, who played with Trixie Friganza in the latter's heydey, died today in a little three-room flat she shared in West Fourty-fourth street with another aged actress, Sarah Bird. Miss Colburn's stage career included important roles in "Over the Hill," and Barrie's "Little Minister." She also was the author of numerous playlets and skits.

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

IT is fortunate for the country that President Hoover quickly rejected Speaker Garner's suggestion regarding White House statements. Four public messages have been issued by the Chief Executive since Mr. Garner cried "enough! enough!" And each has served to clarify the legislative outlook, by way of helping Congress in its thinking.

No conception of American Government ever contemplated that the President should be required to function as a schoolmaster to muddle-headed congressmen and senators, yet the clear little a-b-c essays on economic fundamentals which Mr. Hoover has sent to the Hill from time to time during the present session have not burdened their author beynd his endurance. They have, on several occasions, deprived him of the normal week-end relaxation every official deserves, but perhaps it is better that one man should thus be deprived than that the entire Congress should wear itself out at night and on Sundays informing itself on the problems before it.

* * * *

IT is, of course, a matter of shame upon the leadership in the present session that the President of the United States should be forced to execute a formal public document explaining in detail the basic economic differences between a self-liquidating bond issue and a vast public works program. But it is also testimony to Mr. Hoover's high conception of public service that, finding himself with an utterly incompetent Congress on his hands in a time of world crisis, he devotes a Sunday now and then to the patient exposition of the fundamentals of national economy. And it is doubtless a help to congressmen, most of whom still are thinking in eighteenth century legalisms, to have some of the twentieth century's problems thus presented in lucid and incisive terms.

* * * *

ONE might argue that it is the duty of Congress, when it faces a heavy agenda of economic problems, to acquaint itself with the principles of sound economy and to be guided thereby. But that, in the end, is merely an academic point, and the national interest is as well served, perhaps, if the President does the thinking and the Congress then allows itself to be guided by reason.

Any member of the House or Senate who wished to form an honest, nonpolitical judgment on the fantastic Democratic plan to squander the country out of the depression might have found the verdict of history on such proposals in half an hour's reading. That verdict, as summarized in a report of the National Bureau of Economic Research, published on June 25, 1930, is as follows:

The increase in the volume of public works as a direct solution of the unemployment problem has historically proved a failure. This method has failed to absorb a substantial proportion of the unemployed; it has led to the undertaking of works not really required by the Government; and to great waste in the administration of the job.

Why should the President ever be required to restate such old economic axioms for the guidance of Congress? The only logical answer, as applied to the present situation, is that which begins with the premise that the Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill today still is playing politics with human misery.

World raw silk production for the current season will aggregate 90,290,000 pounds as compared with 102,397,000 last season, a decrease of 12 per cent, according to the International Statistical Bureau, Inc. For the current season to date production represents the smallest total since the 1925-26 season, the bureau reports.

END OF GOLD FLOW TO EUROPE IS SEEN

Further Decrease of Deposits Would Hit Trade; Need Is $500,000,000.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—The end of Europe's heavy drain of the gold supply placed in this country is now believed in sight.

Last week Europe withdrew $60,000,000 of gold from New York.

While no authoritative figures have been computed to show the exact amount of foreign deposits here, it is believed in well-informed Wall street quarters that Europe could draw no more than $200,000,000 of additional gold without reducing its necessary balances for ordinary banking and commercial requirements to a point too low for convenience.

America's free gold supply, representing that portion of its huge gold reserves in excess of the dollar value needed as a reserve against its paper currency, is estimated at around $1,300,000,000.

European balances in this country which could be converted into gold for shipment abroad are placed at not less than $500,000,000, and not more probably than $700,000,000.

Deposits for Trade.

To take care of its own trade requirements with this country, Europe needs to keep about $500,000,000 on hand here. Thus, the margin of around $200,000,000 is held to be all that Europe could safely withdraw without hurting her own trade.

The exact amount, bankers said, will depend largely upon the outcome of measures pending now before the Government at Washington. Any tendency to pass legislation which would point toward unbridled currency inflation, these authorities hold, would tend to increase gold shipments, while measures designed to strengthen confidence of international capital in America's future would tend to encourage the building up of gold reserves here.

Balancing of the Federal budget, it is held by bankers, would do more good in this respect than any other single achievement.

Europe Pleases Bankers.

Many bankers have expressed their pleasure at seeing Europe repatriate her own gold resources which had taken refuge in this country.

"It's a bitter pill we have to take," said one international authority, "and I feel that the sooner we get it over with, the better off we'll be. We have ample gold reserves of our own, and we don't need or want to have gold on our hands which belongs to Europe."

In the meantime, America's holdings of gold continue to rank as the world's largest. The United States now has bullion valued at nearly $4,000,000,000, or upward of 35 per cent of the world's total supply of around $11,300,000,000.

Germany Awaits Prussian Diet.

Berlin, May 23 (A.P.).—Prices on the Boerse were heavy today, due to political uncertainty in view of the opening of the Prussian Diet tomorrow.

R.G. STEWART HEADS NEW OIL COMPANY

Pan-American Foreign Unit Formed; Pan-American Oil Elects McKeever.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Organization of the newly formed Pan-American Foreign Corporation was completed today with the election of Robert G. Stewart as president.

At an earlier meeting of the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport board, Mr. Stewart presented his resignation as president and was succeeded by E. G. McKeever, a former vice president of the Mexican Petroleum Co., a Pan-American Petroleum subsidiary.

The Pan-American Foreign Corporation was formed to take over the foreign properties of Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co. purchased recently by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

Other officers of the new company elected today included Eugene Holman, D. L. Harper and G. W. Gorden, vice president; R. P. Resor, treasurer, and M. H. Eames, secretary.

The head of the company is a son of Col. Robert W. Stewart, former chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, which controls Pan-American Petroleum & Transport.

Stock Par Reduced.

At a special meeting of stockholders of the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co. today the reduction in both classes of the company's stock from $50 to $5 was approved. Stockholders also approved the distribution of shares of the Pan-American Foreign Corporation to stockholders of the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co. on the basis of one share of the new corporation for each share of stock of the corresponding class of their present holdings.

The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey will offer to acquire the outstanding minority shares of the Pan-American Foreign Corporation on a basis not less favorable than that arranged with Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, holder of approximately 97 per cent of the outstanding stock.

For each share of its holdings the Indiana company will receive $14.64 in cash and approximately one-half of a share of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, payable in five annual installments. The offer to the minority holders will provide for payment in full and not in installments.

Van Sweringen Corporation.

The Van Sweringen Corp., exclusive of subsidiaries, reports for the year ended December 31, 1931, net loss of $1,591,117 after expenses, taxes and interest. In the preceding year the company, reporting for the period from May 1, 1930, to December 31, 1930, howed a net loss of $1,058,538. The company holds real estate and securities of various enterprises controlled and directed by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen. It was organized in 1930.

The Cleveland Terminals Building Co., a subsidiary of the Van Sweringen Corp., reports for the year ended December 31, 1931, net loss of $2,433,784 after taxes, interest, depreciation and other charges. In the preceding year the company reported for the period May 1 to December 31 a consolidated net income of $93,806.

New Haven Dividend.

Action on the preferred dividend of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad is due before the end of the month, and Wall street is inclined to the belief that payments may be eliminated pending a recovery in traffic and earnings. For some time the stock has been selling on a current yield basis of more than 30 per cent.

American Cigar Co.

A dividend of $2 on the common stock of the American Cigar Co., payable June 15 to stock of record June 4, was announced today.

This is the first dividend declared on the company's common stock since November, 1929. Only a small amount of the stock is held by the public, approximately 95 per cent of the 200,000 outstanding shares being held by the American Tobacco Co.

Granite City Steel Co.

The Granite City Steel Co. reports for the quarter ended March 31 net loss of $37,896, after depreciation and taxes, compared with net income of $88,146, equal to 30 cents a share on the outstanding capital stock, in the first quarter of 1931.

Cuban Railway Passes.

Directors of the Consolidated Railroads of Cuba have taken no action on the quarterly dividend on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock due at this time, it was announced today. Three months ago the company paid 50 cents.

Associated Gas.

All of the current indebtedness of the Associated Gas & Electric Co. has been paid, and neither the company nor its direct subsidiary, the Associated Gas & Electric Corporation, has any bank loans or similar indebtedness outstanding with the public, the company announced today. The first maturity of the two companies is in 1940, when the recent issue of so-called "baby" bonds floated by the company will mature. Approximately $7,000,000 of these have been marketed.

St. Louis & San Francisco.

Net railways operating income for the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad for April was reported today at a deficit of $760,654 after taxes and charges, against a profit of $100,301 in April 1931.

Lackawanna.

Continental Diamond.

Continental Diamond Fiber Co. had first-quarter net loss of $162,374, against loss of $29,624 a year ago.

Wilcox Oil & Gas.

H. F. Wilcox & Gas Co. reports first quarter net profit of $48,372, compared with net loss of $175,475 in the first quarter of 1931.

Stocks.

The market was becalmed, awaiting the new credit policy of the Young committee, and Congress' decision on the budget. Monday's trade was nearly the smallest since October, 1924.

Bonds.

U. S. Governments continued strong, helped up by the better outlook for sound Federal financing of the essential recovery and relief projects. The rails continued down, however, on the poor showing of the April earnings thus far.

Curb.

Liquidation of the utility shares continued to depress the general list, but some of the industrials were helped appreciably by the sharp advance in wheat.

Wheat.

Chicago futures advanced buoyantly for the fourth successive day, on sensational crop damage reports and a further decrease in the American visible supply. The close was about 2 cents over Saturday's.

Cotton.

In sympathy with wheat, and with the Southern spot market ruling firm on backward growing weather, futures were firm and closed 8 points higher.

Department's New Offices in Remodeled Bank Occupied; C. & O. Net Drops.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL

Interior rearrangement of the American Security & Trust Company's remodeled main office at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was completed yesterday with the moving from the Walker building immediately north of the company's new building, of its real estate department into space originally set apart for it in the new Banking office.

The real estate department now occupies the entire rear of that part of the bank's ground floor in its new office structure, called the American Security Building, just north of the original main office building.

This wide section is partitioned by marble counters into a waiting space in the front and central portion with sections for the insurance and title division on the right of it and for the rental division on the left. To the left of the rental division are conference rooms and in the rear center are offices for the officers of the department. These are William L. Beale, real estate officer and A. H. Shillington, an assistant secretary of the company. The space for the department was profusely decorated with flowers.

Construction Approved.

It was announced from headquarters of Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Companies that construction work approved by the directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., of Baltimore City, yesterday will require approximately 1,700 man hours of labor. This work is necessary in order to keep the telephone plant in good condition and to meet service requirements.

The principal projects approved by the board are two additional sections of telephone switchboard equipped for 145 telephones at Hampstead central office to provide facilities for telephone growth, construction of underground cable in the Cockeysville central office area, extension of underground cable at Silver Spring and Takoma Park, Md.

C. & O. Income Drops.

In April, 1932, net income of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., after all charges, was $1,414,403.85, a decrease of $88,158.09 under the corresponding month of last year. For the four months' period net income was $6,164,749.77, a decline of $352,327.21 under the corresponding period of 1931.

Railway operating revenues for April were $7,499,906.77, a decrease of $1,822,949.89, and for the four months' period $31,610,072.90, a recession of $6,511,224.48.

Net railway operating income for April was $2,199,956.66, or $11,319.35 lower, and for the four months' period $9,266,771.88, an increase of $188,068.34. Operating ratio for April was 58.9 per cent, compared with 66.6 per cent in April, 1931. For the four months of 1932 operating ratio was 60.8 per cent, compared with 67.5 in 1931.

MARKET COMMENT

Westheimer & Co.—Fairly confident sentiment prevails, but the tendency still is to postpone aggressive trading operations for the present. Business indices reflect steady, although very slight, movement toward increased activity. Country still waits on Washington.

Robert C. Jones & Co.—This is not the time to be pessimistic. The seventh liquidating phase of this major bear market has lasted more than two months, with an average decline during this period of 45 per cent in values. There are constructive developments in the making, and we recommend the purchase of the very best securities at present prices, for, in our opinion, the next important movement of the market will be upward.

Waggaman, Brawner & Co.—Bank and insurance stocks are acting very steady. With no supply of stocks in the market and no pressure to sell, we feel that any moderate amount of buying could advance the market very easily. At present levels the average price of New York bank stocks is 68 per cent of book value. Many of the most prominent bank stocks are selling at a price to yield 10 per cent income.

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.—It is interesting that stock prices have made practically no net movement in eight sessions, and that the downtrend has been very slow since early in April. We see no reason to change speculative policy.

As the week begins, the position of the tax bill does not appear too satisfactory, but as convention dates approach efforts at compromise will become stronger.

Stocks and Bonds Continue New Lows in Duller Market

Trading Is Quietest, With One Exception, in Eight Years, Making Turnover of 577,280 Shares; Curb Dealing Closes Heavy.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Stocks drifted deeper into the doldrums today, floating through a session that was, with one exception, the dullest in some eight years.

Extreme fluctuations of a point or more were rare among leading common equities. Mild firmness during the late morning and early afternoon gave way to a little late selling which brought an irregularly lower close, but net changes were generally insignificant.

Until the last hour the market bade fair to set a volume smaller even than the 533,010-share day on last September 1, which was the lightest since October 7, 1924, when 437,000 shares changed hands. However, activity quickened enough to make a turnover of 577,280 shares.

Preferred Stocks Break.

A number of preferred stocks broke out of line with losses of about 2 to 5 points, but none was active. In this group were American Power & Light, Standard Gas 4 per cent, New Haven, Hershey, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit issues, Commonwealth & Southern, Westinghouse, Electric Power & Light 7 per cent, Curtis Publishing and A. M. Dyers. Consolidated Oil preferred, on the other hand, rallied 6.

A few common shares at one time sold a point net higher, following the leadership of a strong wheat market. Also, Wall street clearly hoped that budget action would be speeded and that Congress would finally evolve a program which would obviate the necessity for further large-scale Treasury borrowing. However, it was difficult to awaken buying interest beyond routine covering operations.

Such stocks as U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Standard Oil of New Jersey, General Electric, Westinghouse, Consolidated Gas and North American finished less than half a point from Saturday's final quotations. Some were unchanged. Loose-Wiles and National Biscuit took a late slide, losing 3½ and 2½, respectively. Industrial Rayon was down 3, but these were exceptions.

Government Loans Firm.

United States Government securities mended rather well and a fair representation of highest grade domestic corporation loans firmed, although among issues with lower ratings there were still plenty of soft spots. The investment market finds it difficult to shake off apprehension of voluminous Federal financing; nevertheless in recent weeks it has shown improvement whenever worries on that score have lessened.

Railroad earnings for April are beginning to appear in the aggregate. They are making a more unfavorable comparison with a year ago than did the March figures. Operating economies in some instances have probably been carried about as far as possible. The president of St. Louis Southwestern warned that receivership was in prospect unless further deposits of consolidated mortgage bonds were made under the refunding plan.

An increase in gold earmarkings suggested further exports would go forward on the next fast steamers. Foreign balances are probably being increased, it is believed, by European sales of American securities, although this liquidation is said to have been on a small scale recently.

Gold currencies closed generally firm against dollars, but trading was dull.

Corporate Loans Sag.

United States Government bonds showed new signs of life in fairly broad buying today, but most leading corporate issues failed to join the upswing. Trading volume was slightly lower, $10,924,000 face amount of bonds changing hands against $14,520,000 on Friday.

Better buying of Governments was attributed to President Hoover's announcement of his twelve-point relief plan in which he stresses the need for quick balancing of the national budget without recourse to additional Treasury financing. Gains of 8-32 to 10-32 point were made by the first and fourth Liberty 4¼s. Treasury issues moved up as much as 28-32 of a point.

Selling of railroad bonds tended to offset the beneficial influences growing out of rumors that leading banks, as a means of supporting the present Federal Reserve credit expansion program, were again considering concerted purchases of corporate bonds. Weakness of the carrier liens was ascribed to declining car loading reports which in turn have given rise to conjecture over the earning position of some of the more vulnerable roads. Selling, however, was not confined to the weaker roads alone.

B. & O. Sets New Low.

Baltimore & Ohio first 5s reacted 8 points to a new low at 65. Illinois Central collateral 4s were off 11¼ points to 36¾, also a new low. Virginia Railway 5s dropped 5 points to 75 and losses of 2 points or thereabouts were recorded by Pennsylvania 5s of 1964, Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s and Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s of 1978. A number of rail bonds, however, moved against the tide, several issues gaining a point or more.

With its six listed issues selling around record low levels, American Telephone & Telegraph bonds attracted bargain hunting which sent the entire telephone list higher. The company's debenture 5½s rallied 6½ points to 102½.

Conflicting reports over prospects of an agreement at the forthcoming Lausanne conference caused early selling of German bonds. Practically the entire list, including municipals as well as the national Government's obligations, sought lower levels, but in closing dealings the German government 7s rallied sharply to 46 for a gain of ¾ point.

Curb Market Heavy.

Selling of the utility shares imparted a somewhat heavy tone to the curb market again today, although some of the oils and industrials registered isolated gains.

Trading quickened somewhat in this market, in contrast to the stagnation of the big board. The day's turnover approximated 150,000 shares, or some 50,000 more than that of the preceding full day's trading.

Standard Oil of Indiana was again the most active issue in the list, having recently superseded Electric Bond & Share in this respect. Furthermore, its tendency has been upward, in contrast to Bond & Share. Today it rose ⅜ to 18⅞, coming within a small fraction of the year's high. Other members of the petroleum group were steady to firm. Gulf closed a fraction higher, and Humble was unchanged.

Electric Bond & Share dropped 1⅞ points to 8⅜, a new low for the present shares, and the 6 per cent preferred broke 4¼ to 28¼, a new low. United Gas, and Columbia Gas & Electric preferred issues lost 2 points, both registering new lows. American Gas & Electric common and United Light preferred sagged about a point.

In the industrials, Deere rallied a fraction, in sympathy with the fresh upturn in wheat, and Aluminum Co. advanced about a point in a small turnover. The Swift issues were steady to firm.

Pratt & Lambert sold at 10, off 2 and a new bottom, and Neumont Mining appeared a point lower at 6, reflecting further heaviness of copper prices last week.

FARM IMPLEMENTS LEAD REVIVAL HOPE

Machine Tools Also Increase Activity; Hoover Bond Stand Discussed.

New York, May 23.—Manufacturers of machine tools and farm implements are said to be feeling more cheerful at the prospect of an improved volume of orders for the next three months. In some quarters it is reported that business is showing the most substantial pick-up noted in the last few years.

In commodity markets during the past week the best action was shown by sugar, coffee, rubber and silk. Financial quarters manifested interest in reports of heavy purchases of Cuban raw sugar for European account, and firmness of prices throughout the week was attributed to this development.

The attention of financial quarters converged today upon President Hoover's statement opposing a bond issue for nonproductive public works and also the appeal of several prominent Republicans and Democrats that Congress unite to balance the budget and enact an equitable tax bill.

Wall street expects soon to have further information on the program to be followed by the Young committee in its credit extension efforts. Markets have been inclined to await the course of events in this connection, although the availability of important industrial and banking leadership in breaking down the credit jam has received much favorable comment.

Week-end trade news included reports of somewhat greater optimism among steel producers and also of a slight gain in output, due to increased orders for structural and automotive materials. The magazine, Steel, said operations had risen to 25½ per cent of capacity, the best level since the week ended March 12.

Quarters holding that the first signs of important improvement should appear in bonds, were interested in gossip that the committee of twelve selected to work the Federal Reserve Bank might consider action to support the investment market. Some bankers pointed out, however, that it would presumably be extremely difficult to enter upon any ambitious program in bonds until the governmental requirements may be gauged more accurately, or until Congress finally deals with its fiscal program.

The scattered selling that continues to flow into the market was still regarded in brokerage quarters as coming from individual accounts which for one reason or another are being liquidated.

The start of the week brought little in the way of new developments of a character to impel the market far in either direction. Slight gains in steel and further urgings upon Congress to deal promptly with the Government's fiscal affairs brought some favorable comment; but financial quarters recognized that final acceptance of taxation, Government economy, and some relief measures was still some weeks in the future.

Bond dealers heard today that the State of West Virginia will receive bids May 25 on $1,250,000 4½ per cent road bonds, due in one to 25 years.

Chase, Harris, Forbes Corp., the National City Co. and associates have purchased $750,000 New Orleans, La., 5 per cent bonds, due 1933-37 at 96 per cent of par.

Cotton Belt's Head Warns of Receiver

Telegram to Bondholders Urges Quick Action on Refunding Plan.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Declaring that receivership for the St. Louis Southwestern Railway (cotton belt system) will follow a failure of the company's refunding plan, Daniel Upthegrove, president of the road, in a telegram to the holders of the consolidated 4 per cent bonds, who have not yet assented to the plan, urged them to deposit their bonds promptly.

"Responsibility for failure of the refunding plan," which appears imminent," said Mr. Upthegrove in his telegram, "must be accepted by hol

WHEAT UP 2 CENTS ON BROADER DEMAND

Speculation and Crop Losses Back of Steady Rise; Other Grains Climb.

Chicago, May 23 (A.P.).—Wheat rose buoyantly today to about six cents a bushel over prices current last week.

For the fourth successive day the wheat market went soaring as a result of broader speculative demand, together with reported startling losses of domstic winter wheat. One authoritative summary today estimated the 1932 maximum production of the five hard winter wheat states—Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahome, Colorado and Texas—at 164,000,000 bushels, whereas the same tates last year raised 444,000,000 bushels.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1⅛ to 1¾ cents above Saturday's finish; corn, ⅜ to ⅝ cent up; oats, ½ to ⅞ cent advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Wholesale destruction of winter wheat was ascribed to the combined effects of Hessian fly damage, prolonged excessive dry weather and after effects of a severe freeze in March. Despite heavy profit taking on price bulges, the market closed not far from the day's top.

Effect of Supply Report.

Contributing to bullish sentiment was late announcement that the United States wheat visible supply had decreased 1,164,000 bushels for the week, making the total stock in sight but 169,555,000 bushels, against 191,408,000 at this time last year.

Trade experts said that the tremendous loss of winter wheat would necessitate a bumper spring crop if the country's wheat yield this season were to be more than bare domestic requirements.

New setbacks in Liverpool wheat quotations were generally ignored, and so too was an increase of 2,104,000 bushels in the amount of wheat on ocean passage.

Talk that Eastern interests were unusually active on the bull side of the market received much attention, emphasized by the fact that a widely known New York speculator was a conspicuous figure near the wheat pit much of the time today, keeping constant watch on changes in quotations.

Corn as well as wheat rose to the best level in years, but rural holders of corn took advantage of the bulge, and were free sellers of corn to arrive. Need of rain West and Southwest gave independent strength to the oats market.

Provisions averaged higher with grain, notwithstanding that hog values dropped to a new low for more than 30 years.

FAIRFAX WILL OPEN SIXTH FLOWER SHOW

Three Special Trophies Are Offered; Program Begins Tomorrow.

The sixth annual flower show of the Garden Club of Fairfax, Va., will open tomorrow morning in Willard Hall at Main and Mechanics streets, in Fairfax. The program as announced by Mrs. Harley Peyton Wilson, president of the club, contains a number of new classes. Exhibitors need not be members of any garden club, but they must have grown the flowers.

Mrs. Wilson has offered three special trophies. The winners of sweepstakes prizes, a silver bowl and a Lenox china plate, for the outstanding feature of the show, will retain possession of their prizes. In the garden club competition, open to all clubs of Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, a silver bowl for the best formal arrangement of flowers for a Bicentennial banquet, must be won three times in succession for permanent ownership.

Twelve classes have been listed, including specimen pink, yellow, red, white, blended shades, pink radiance, Frau Karl Druschki or roses of any named variety, vase of three pink roses, three of any other color, collection of twelve roses, and a 2-foot spray of climbing roses.

The peony exhibits will include a class for white, pink, red, named variety, vase of three pink, vase of three white, collection of white and any other collection.

The iris classes will include lavender, purple, pink, yellow, blended shades, light bicolor, dark bicolor, plicata, specimen of named variety, vase of three beardless iris, one variety, collection of six varieties, three stalks each; collection of six named varieties, one stalk each; collection of fifteen named varieties, one stalk each, and collection of any number of varieties.

Garden collections include columbine, pyretrum, garden pinks, delphinium, digitalis, lemon day lilies, pansies, Oriental poppies, a miscellaneous class of annuals or perennials, collection of perennials, six varieties three stems each, and a collection of garden flowers.

Flower arrangements will be one of the main attractions of this year's show. Class 46 is to be an artistic arrangement, roses predominating; arrangement of white flowers in a white container, arrangement with yellow predominating, arrangement of flowers in an antique container, old-fashioned bouquets, table set for a hunt breakfast and occasional table for living roses.

For the children's exhibits prizes will be awarded for the best wild flower collection, best arrangement of flowers and for the best miniature garden. Cash prizes or orders for gardening materials will be awarded the winners in all other classes of the show.

The committees in charge of the show have been appointed by Mrs. Wilson as follows: Arrangement of hall, Mrs. H. N. Clarke, chairman; Mrs. William Earle, Mrs. Kortright Church, Miss Mary Ambler, Mrs. Walter Tansill Oliver and Mrs. Robert Stump.

Placing entries in show, Mrs. Harry Blake, chairman; roses, Mrs. Robert D. Graham, Mrs. Frederick D. Richardson, Mrs. Joseph C. Bennett; Iris, Mrs. Samuel Cooper and Mrs. Richard R. Farr; peonies, Miss Daisy Hillyer and Mrs. M. D. Hall; garden collections, Miss Jennie Moore and Mrs. A. C. Gibbs.

Flower arrangement classes—Mrs. George Rothwell Brown, Mrs. James E. Nickell and Mrs. John S. Barbour.

Containers—Mrs. Herbert A. Donovan, Mrs. R. R. Farr and Mrs. Samuel Cooper.

Entries—Mrs. L. P. Taylor, Mrs. Francis Pickens Miller, Mrs. Amos H. Chilcott, Mrs Kortright Church and Mrs. Charles Poser.

The senior class of the Herndon High School will present its annual play this evening in the school auditorium. The members of the cast, which includes the entire senior class, will be: Archie Hummer, Henter Blevins, Jack Patton, Henry DeKay, Wilson McGlincy, Milton Murphy, Elaine Tate, Hilda Peck, Lorraine Roberts, Emily Day, Sara Jane Hutchison, Katherine Groome, Julia DeButts, Mabel McClearen, Mary McCarty, Mildred Arnold, Marie Schneider, Vera Mathews, Emlie Robb, Hazel Kirk, Graham James, Harold Lowry and John Lourin.

The play is entitled "At the End of the Rainbow" and proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of the graduating class and exercises Friday when school closes.

Shepherd to Represent Three Groups in Council

Judge J. H. Shepherd, of College Park, may not control single-handed, the meeting Saturday of the Community Council of Prince Georges County, but he has made a good start on gaining control.

For the judge, well-known in the upper part of the county, will represent three organizations and cast their votes in the deliberations of the council. He has been selected by the Berwyn Home and School Association, the Vansville Farmers' Club and the Chamber of Commerce as delegate, with full voting power from each. It is expected that 58 delegates will attend the council, which meets twice a year to discuss county affairs. It is composed of representatives of most civic and various organizations.

Power Drive Begun In Prince Georges

Citizens to Ask Potomac Electric to Take Over Territory.

The Prince Georges County Federation of Citizens Associations has launched a drive to interest the Potomac Electric Power Co. in taking over the territory in the county now served by the Chesapeake Bay Light & Power Co., according to John R. Riggles, chairman of the public utilities committee.

So far the local power company has not been approached on the project, but the Federal court in Baltimore has been asked to allow separate bids to be filed for the Chesapeake Bay Co.'s property in Anne Arundel and Prince Georges County. The Chesapeake Bay Co., a subsidiary of the Washington, Baltimore &, Annapolis Railway, went into receivership some time ago and the Baltimore court ordered its sale at auction.

Formerly the dividing line between the territories served by the two companies was located just beyond Ardwick on the Defense highway. The federation seeks to have the Potomac Co.'s rate of 4 cents a kilowatt extended all over the county. That section served by the Chesapeake Bay Co. pays 10 cents a kilowatt.

RAID TO CONVICTION TAKES 30 MINUTES

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post. 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase. Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Montgomery County police scored heavily yesterday in their war on the Demon Rum. One contingent raided a house, arrested the operator of a still and had him convicted and fined within 30 minutes, while an alleged rum runner arrested twice by the same policeman on succeeding days found fines totaling $1,360 or 22 months in the House of Correction facing him.

Following several weeks intensive investigation by Policeman E. R. Jones, of Kensington, Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley and Sergt. Roy Snyder and Policeman Jones raided a house at Lay Hill, Md., and found a 20-horsepower steam boiler still and two barrels of mash. They arrested Alfred Crum, of Kensington, and charged him with possession of paraphernalia for manufacture of intoxicants. They then took him before Judge Charles W. Woodward in county police court where he pleaded guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $150 or serve four months in the House of Correction within 30 minutes of the time the raid started.

Morris Boswell, colored, of 611 P street northwest, who was arrested twice in as many days by Montgomery County Policeman Charles Barnes after exciting chases near Silver Spring, Md., was ordered to pay fines totalling $1,300 or serve 22 months in the house of correction on charges of possession of intaxicants with intent to sell; second offense possession, and possession of a smoke screen. He intimated that he expected to take the 22 months.

The Ladies' Aid of Grace M. E. Church, South, will serve a baked chicken supper June 9 at 5 p. m. in the basement of the church, Frederick road and Watkins avenue, Gaithersburg, Md. Ice cream, strawberries and cake also will be on sale.

A benefit motion picture show, "Alice in Wonderland" will be held this afternoon at the Seco Theater in Silver Spring, under the auspices of the Woman's Improvement Club of Silver Spring. Proceeds will be divided between the Montgomery County Social Service League and the Silver Spring Public Library.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

BLISSFULLY breaking most all the rules of good care of their teeth, inhabitants of the island of Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic, have perhaps the most perfect teeth of any group of people in the world. A recent survey made by Dr. J. R. A. Moore, president of the Dental Society of Cape Providence, revealed that of 156 persons on the tiny island examined—ranging from small children to the oldest resident, 92 years old—131 had perfect teeth.

The oldest man on the island, Samuel Swain, 75 years old, was described as a "dental marvel."

In commenting on the results of his examination, Dr. Moore said: "A clean tooth never decays' is an accepted axiom, yet the islanders never clean their teeth. It is a dental maxim that hardtack is desirable for the life of the teeth, yet the food of the islanders is entirely soft. The staple diet is potatoes, fish, milk and eggs."

The island has long been known as the island of perfect health. The only causes of death are accidents and old age.

DISTRICT COMMITTEE WILL NOT HURRY VOTE

Plans to Await Board's Action on 60-40 Fiscal Bill to Determine Need.

The Mapes income tax bill, extensively revised along lines of the Federal income tax law, will be favorably reported to the Senate District committee today by the United States Bureau of Efficiency.

A report on the Capper bill for boosting local utilities taxes some $1,449,495, to make up for exemptions contained in the income tax bill, will be delayed at least a week.

Believing the income tax measure approved by the House not worked out in sufficient detail to insure equitable administration, Bureau of Efficiency experts, who served in framing the Federal income tax law, have revamped the Mapes bill with the national act as a model. Rates, however, remain lower than in the Federal scale.

Fourth of the drastic House measures for relieving Congress of "lump sum" obligations to the District by increasing local tax burdens, the income tax measure originally was designed to raise $3,500,000 in District revenues.

As the tax proposed by the House replaces the current levy on intangibles, which yields annually about $2,750,000, the income measure alone would raise $750,000 more than is now being taken from the pockets of District taxpayers.

The bureau already has revised and submitted favorable reports on the Mapes estate tax, automobile weight tax and a 2-cent increase in the local gasoline levy. These three, together with the income measure, were designed to raise $4,000,000 in new revenue and enable Congress to reduce its District contribution from $9,500,000 to $6,500,000.

Considering Corporations Tax.

The bureau still is considering the proposed Capper tax on utilities and other public corporations, in connection with section 22 of the Mapes income tax bill. This exempts from taxation these units now paying a 4 per cent gross revenue tax.

The Capper bill substitutes a 2 per cent franchise tax and the usual tax on real estate and personal tangible property. Analysis of the measure is nearly complete, Thomas F. Murphy, assistant chief of the bureau, said last night.

One of the most controversial features of the Mapes income tax bill, hitting incomes of nonresidents, who thus are made liable to double taxation, has been remedied by the bureau in the report to be made today, it was learned on good authority.

Chairman Arthur Capper, of the Senate District committee, has held hearings on the first three of the Mapes bills analyzed by the Bureau of Efficiency, and will open hearings in a few days on the measure reported today.

Vote Will Be Delayed.

The committee, however, will take no vote on the bills until the bureau has completed report on the House bill to abolish the 60-40 Federal-District fiscal relationship. Then the Mapes $4,000,000 tax plan will be considered as a unit, and a ballot had on the program.

Meanwhile the Senate District appropriations subcommittee is considering whether it will call George Lord, tax expert for the Mapes committee, before it writes its "lump sum" figure into the 1933 District bill.

Tables of figures conflicting with Lord's, showing the District has the largest per capita property assessment in the country, were laid before the committee last week by the committee on fiscal relations between the United States and the District.

HANDWRITING OF 60 SEIZED HERE TESTED IN LINDBERGH HUNT

Photos of Kidnapers' Notes, Sent to Capital, Prompt Comparisons.

MANY KNOWN CRIMINAL FIGURES TAKEN IN RAIDS

Police Will Continue Drive Against All Suspicious Characters.

After receipt of photographic copies of two notes believed to have been written by the actual Lindbergh baby kidnapers to Dr. John F. Condon, Washington police yesterday started a drive to arrest every known criminal and suspicious character in the city and the first day netted 60 men.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey State police, mailed the circular with the samples of the notes all over the country to police chiefs, wardens of penal institutions and other law enforcement agents, with a request that the handwriting be compared with that of all prisoners and suspects arrested.

Sixty Taken in Poolrooms.

Immediately upon the arrival of the circular here, the robbery and holdup squad, composed of Detective Sergts. Larry O'Dea, T. M. Wilson, Carleton Talley and O. T. Davis, raided two poolrooms in the 700 block of Seventh street northwest and arrested the 60 men. They were booked on the technical charge of investigation and thoroughly grilled last night by members of the recently created Crime Prevention Bureau and samples of their handwriting taken.

According to Sergt. O'Dea, at least 75 per cent of those arrested yesterday have police records, and it is hoped that some of the unsolved crimes now clogging the police blotter may be cleared up by the grilling or identification of some of the prisoners.

The notes, crudely and illiterately written, gave instructions for the midnight rendezvous at which Dr. Condon threw $50,000 over a cemetery wall and the other gave instructions for finding the baby. The letters are believed by experts to have been written by the same person. The letter with instructions for paying the ransom is as follows:

"Cross the street and walk to the next corner and follow Whittemore Ave. to the soud.

"I will meet you."

Drive Here to Continue.

The other letter, with directions for finding the baby, read:

"The boy is on Boad Nelly. it is a small Boad 28 feet long, two person are on the Boad. the are innosent. you will find the Boad between Horseneck Beach and Gay Head near Elizabeth Island."

Lieut. Fred Sandberg, in charge of the identification bureau here, proceeded to compare it with the handwriting of all prisoners and suspects arrested here.

According to Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, who ordered the round-up yesterday, the drive will continue until all police characters and suspects have been brought in. Several of the recent robberies and holdups here have been blamed on out-of-town gangs, and it is hoped that the drive will clean the city of them.

11-Month-Old Baby Killed And Boy, 15, Hurt in Crash

Infant's Mother and Youth Watching Dirigible at Time of Collision.

An 11-month-old baby boy was almost instantly killed, and a 15-year-old visitor is in a critical condition as the result of a crash between an automobile and a truck loaded with lumber on Military road near Rosslyn, Va., yesterday.

The mother of the infant, Mrs. May F. Cheek, was driving the car toward Lyon Park, with the boy, Carl Morton, of North Carolina, who is visiting friends at Hyattsville, Md., sitting next to the driver's seat holding the baby.

According to county police the woman and the boy were watching a dirigible, which was visible overhead, when they crashed into the lumber truck. The truck is said to have been at a standstill on the side of the road. Mrs. Cheek, who lives at 3535 T street northwest, said that the truck was moving in reverse when the accident occurred.

The infant, Eugene Edward Cheek, and the other injured boy were taken to Georgetown Hospital by a passing car, where the baby was found to be dead. An emergency operation was performed on the Morton boy by hospital physicians. He is suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries. Mrs. Cheek was not injured in the crash, although the automobile was demolished.

James Edward Cheek, father of the child, was at work when the accident occurred. He is employed as an electrician at the Washington Terminal Co.

EUGENE EDWARD CHEEK.

Arlington county police investigated the collision and found that they had no jurisdiction over the road, as it was Federal property. Controversy over the jurisdiction on the road for the last several years has caused the highway to be known as "No Man's Land."

WASHINGTON THIRD IN COST PER CAPITA FOR DRY ENFORCING

.259 Cents for Each Person or Total of $126,478 Shown for Year.

WYOMING AND NEVADA PLACED AT TOP OF LIST

Police Here Cooperate With Federal Men More Than Those Elsewhere.

There is more money spent per capita in the District for the enforcement of prohibition than in any State in the Union with the exception of Wyoming and Nevada. For the last fiscal year the cost per capita here was .259 cents, or $126,478. In Wyoming the cost was .307, and in Nevada, .361, according to statistics released yesterday by the Bureau of Prohibition.

Also, there is more cooperation given by police here to the Federal authorities in the enforcement of prohibition than in any State of possession. Of the 562 cases tried in court, 515 were investigated with the cooperation of police.

Kansas Prosecutions.

Arid Kansas does more to prosecute prohibition law violators than any other State. The State of Carrie Nation prosecuted in the local courts 77.2 per cent of the 176 indictments. Wet New Jersey, which has a State prohibition enforcement act, shows the least evidence of intent to help the Federal authorities.

No liquor law violators were prosecuted in the local courts of New Jersey, while 646 were tried in Federal courts. Dry South Carolina has all its liquor law prosecutions paid for by the Federal Government because all its cases, 454, were tried in Federal courts. Nevada and New York, which repealed their State enforcement acts, and Wisconsin, which has no State law, prosecuted no cases in local tribunals.

Maryland Is Ninth.

Maryland is high on the list of per capita cost for enforcement, ranking ninth with an average cost of .192, or $312,504 a year. Virginia is ninth from the bottom of the list in per capita cost with .067, while West Virginia is sixteenth from the lowest with a per capita cost of .076. The lowest per capita cost is in the formerly dry Ohio, which is .037.

Only 30 of the 862 cases were tried in local courts in Maryland, while Virginia courts tried 63 of the 445 prosecutions and West Virginia courts heard 105 of 408 cases prosecuted in that State. Both Virginia and West Virginia police authorities are big helps to the Federal agents, the former aiding in 39.9 per cent of the cases and the latter State in 50.5 per cent of the investigations. Maryland gave help in only 10.6 per cent of the investigations.

SALESMAN IS KILLED BY FUMES IN GARAGE

45-Minute Effort Made to Revive Victim Felled Working on Auto.

Carbon monoxide fumes were fatal late yesterday to William Ernst, 52 years old, of 3744 Oliver street northwest, when he was overcome while working on his automobile in a garage in the rear of the house. Physicians from Emergency Hospital, Dr. J. A. Logan, of 5437 Connecticut avenue northwest, and members of the Fire Rescue Squad worked over him for 45 minutes but he failed to respond.

The man was found unconscious, face down on the garage floor by Robert Kline, of 5724 Chevy Chase Parkway. The motor of the automobile was running. Mr. Kline shut the motor off and called the Fire Rescue Squad. Dr. Logan and the Emergency Hospital ambulance were summoned later. At the end of the 45-minute period the Emergency physician and Dr. Logan pronounced Mr. Ernst dead. While the garage doors were open, the man's face was directly under the exhaust pipe as he worked on the car and he apparently got a concentrated mixture of the gas.

While Mr. Ernst had lived in Washington off and on for fifteen years, Philip Parke, with whom he resided, told police little was known about him. He never discussed his personal affairs, Mr. Parks said.

He was unable to tell police of any relatives the man had, although he added that Mr. Ernst had once mentioned a sister in California. A package addressed to "Master W. Baldy," at a Los Angeles address, all ready for mailing, was found in the car. The boy is believed to be his nephew.

When the clipping of an obituary notice reading: "In loving memory of William Ernst, killed in action in France, 1918," was found among the man's effects, the coroner's office decided to withhold a death certificate until Detective Sergt. Floyd Truscott investigated the case. Ernst was a salesman for the Stanley Electrical Co.

Ring Blamed By Police for Theft of Dogs

Watch your dogs!

That is the warning police gave out yesterday when some of Washington's prize winning canines were reported stolen from their owners, leading police to believe there is an organized ring of thieves operating here and disposing of their catches in nearby cities.

Police, working to solve the theft of six high-priced dogs, reported stolen yesterday, said they are certain of the ring's operation here when it was pointed out that the dogs are missing in spite of precautions taken by their owners.

HOOVER TO REVIEW CONFEDERATE BODY

Memories of the early sixties will be recalled here June 25 when Southern veterans of the Civil War parade along Pennsylvania avenue to pass in review before President Hoover in front of the White House.

These soldiers of the Confederacy, accompanied by their sons, will come direct from Richmond, Va., where the forty-second reunion of the United Confederate Veterans will close on June 24. With them will be members of the Confederate Southern Memorial Association. The three organizations will meet simultaneously June 21-24.

Arrangements for the visit are being completed by the Sons of Confederate Veterans in Washington. The trip to the Capital was announced yesterday from the reunion headquarters in Richmond.

Following the parade and review, Commander-in-Chief De Saussure, of the Veterans, his staff, the Sons, and members of the Memorial Association will be guests at a luncheon of the Washington Board of Trade.

After the luncheon the visitors will be taken on a tour to the Manassas battlefield and later to Arlington, where a wreath will be laid on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The parade will also have units from Fort Harrison and other military posts, including bands from Washington and nearby army reservations.

THEATER TREASURER DIES IN AUTO CRASH

Mannie Levine Killed and John C. Fitzgerald Hurt as Car Quits Road.

Mannie Levine, treasurer of the Gayety Theater, was killed early yesterday when the auto in which he was riding ran off the Livingston road, near Oxon Hill, and another man, riding with him, was seriously injured.

Levine and John C. Fitzgerald, of 14 Fifth street northeast were found in their wrecked car by C. P. O'Brien, of 1520 K street northwest, who brought them to Casualty Hospital. Fitzgerald was still alive, but Levine, who lived at the Houston Hotel, was already dead. The theater man is married, but has no children.

An inquest will be held Thursday night at the Hyattsville police station into the death of Mrs. Bridget O'Connor, who died Sunday a few hours after an auto accident on the Baltimore boulevard near Beltsville.

FORCED RETIREMENT OF WORKERS SCORED

Midcity Association Also Against Dissemination of Birth-Control Data.

Compulsory retirement of Government employes, as proposed in the omnibus economy bill, was scored as unjust and against the best interest of the Federal service, in a resolution adopted last night at the meeting of the Midcity Citizens Association in Thomson Community Center.

The resolution, which favored retirement regulations now in force, was drawn up by the executive committee of the association, headed by A. J. Driscoll, president.

Declaring that it was "almost a crime" to enact such legislation, the association unanimously went on record as opposing the Hancock bill which would allow physicians to disseminate birth control information. Copies of the resolution opposing the bill will be sent to the House and to Mrs. Margaret Sanger, who appeared at the Capitol in a hearing on the measure.

Authorization was made for the drafting of letters of thanks and appreciation on the reappointment of Judge Robert E. Mattingly, a member of the association, to the municipal court bench. The letters will be addressed to President Hoover and Senator George W. Norris, chairman of the Senate judiciary committee.

A resolution condemning the practice of employing girls at barbecue stands without wages, and in violation of female and child labor laws, was adopted. In another resolution the attention of the Engineer Commissioner was brought to the condition of the sidewalk on the east side of Ninth street, between H and I streets. The group believes that this walk should be repaved.

Woman Gets Jail Term for Remark

Court Adds 48 Hours as Prisoner Held Drunk Grows Flippant.

A flippant remark by Bettie L. Gordon in Police Court yesterday cost her 48 hours in jail when Judge John P. McMahon, who had just sentenced her to 30 days for intoxication, alled her back and added two more days to the sentence.

The woman was arrested on Delaware avenue southwest by Policeman H. D. Williams, of the Fourth Precinct. She frequently broke into the officer's testimony, and at its conclusion instructed the judge to "give her plenty."

When he gave her 30 days, she retored "O. K., colonel." The limit on Police Court contempt is 48 hours.

$150 Offered for Lost Ring Valued at $1,800

The ring was lost some time during the past two months and is described as containing two black pearls and one ruby set in platinum.

Mothers' Pension Cut Plan Attacked

Trinidad Citizens Oppose Sale of Property at Seventh and K.

Asserting that the present amount of the mother's pension allowed by the Government is in many cases too small, the Trinidad Citizens Association last night voted to oppose an amendment to the District appropriations bill which would reduce the limit of these pensions to $75 per month.

The association forwaded a report of its stand to the chairman of the Senate subcommittee on appropriations. The citizens also opposed the sale of the southeast corner of Seventh and K streets northeast, which is contemplated in congressional action.

The meeting voted to ask the traffic director why traffic lights at the Fifth, Eleventh and Twelfth street intersections of I street northeast, as well as the intersection of Florida avenue and West Virginia avenue, have not been erected, as proposed.

A Fourth of July celebration in conjunction with other civic bodies in the section was planned.

Man, Taken in Gaming Raid, Asks Jury Trial

Demanding a jury trial when he was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of permitting gaming, Harry H. Lindsey, 39 years old, yesterday was released on $500 bond for a later trial.

He was arrested in a warrantless raid at 1714 Seaton street northwest, by Policemen James F. Phelps and George W. Lynn. Eighteen persons alleged to have been in the place were released on bonds of $100 each as Government witnesses.

H. R. Titlow will be the toastmaster at the meeting, which will be the last session held this season. The Southeast Washington Civic Center Glee Club will be geusts at the meeting. Members of the forum will present ten-minute speeches.

Architects Offer Prizes for Designs

The Allied Architects of Washington are offering a series of prizes for a suitable design for a memorial to be erected at the grave of Robert Mills, who designed the Washington Monument, the Patent Office, the Treasury Department and other public and private buildings in Washington. Mr. Mills' grave is at present unmarked and obscure in the Congressional Cemetery.

Competition is open only to architects and draftsmen residing in or near the District, who are at present unemployed. Eight money awards ranging from $20 to $100 are offered by the society. The character of the design is to be expressive of Mills and his work, it is stipulated.

The memorial is planned to be of stone or metal and the design submitted must be suitable for a single grave site. All drawings must be submitted at 726 Jackson place northwest before June 6 to be judged in the contest.

Francis Scott Key Home Restoring to Be Sought

A campaign to restore and preserve the home of Francis Scott Key will be undertaken by the Georgetown Citizens Association when it resumes its meetings next October. The first gun in the campaign was fired last night at the final meeting of the association before the summer adjournment. The Daughters of the War of 1812 will be asked to cooperate.

The traffic committee reported that a letter had been received from District officials stating that work on straightening the northwest corner of Wisconsin avenue and Volta place would begin in June. This is a project which has been advocated by the association.

Horses Will Take Big Part in Opera

Many Zoo Animals Also to Participate Along With Chorus in "Aida."

Thoroughbreds of local stables will parade as richly caparisoned Arabian steeds mingling in the company of elephants, camels, and other animals common to old Egypt when Verdi's "Aida" is presented at Griffith Stadium Sunday, June 5, under the direction of Maestro Alfredo Salmaggi.

In addition to local horses, the producers of the musical presentation are negotiating for the use of 50 horses from Fort Myer, as the Army steeds are trained to music. The entire orchestra, ballet and chorus of the Metropolitan Opera, in New York, will participate in the performance.

Dr. William A. Mann, director of the National Zoological Park, will furnish advice in arranging the operatic zoo required for the performance. Director Salmaggi has produced "Aida" at the foot of the pyramids in Egypt and in many foreign countries and cities in the United States.

Disabled Veterans Meet Tonight.

The membership and employment drives being conducted by Federal Chapter No 6, Disabled Veterans of the World War, will be discussed at the monthly meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The session will be held in the chapter's rooms at 1405 G street northwest.

Wife Finds Mate On Floor, Slashed

Wounds Self-Inflicted, Police Say; Victim Was Out of Work.

Alexander Pezzars, 45, of 720 Seventeenth street northwest, is in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital suffering from deep lacerations of throat and wrists said by police to have been self-inflicted yesterday afternoon.

His wife, Mrs. Ida Pezzars, found her husband on the floor of their bedroom. She called to J. A. Martin, of 508 Seventh street northeast, an iceman, who notified police of the Third Precinct. When the police arrived the injured man was holding an ice pick, a small pair of shears and a razor blade.

He was rushed to Emergency in their ambulance. Little hope is held for his recovery. Mrs. Pezzars told police her husband had been out of work for about four months and was also despondent over ill health.

Body of Benjamin Leiss Is Taken From Potomac

Harbor police recovered the body of Benjamin Leiss, 22 years old, of 515 L street northwest, yesterday afternoon, nearly 24 hours after he was drowned in the Potomac near Highway Bridge.

Leis and a companion, Irving Holober, 20 years old, of 1116 Seventh street northwest, dived from an abutment on the bridge and after swimming around for awhile, Leiss was suddenly seized with cramps and began to flounder. Holober made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue his companion.

Newly Found Securities Of Rheem to Pay Claims

George C. Shinn, receiver in bankruptcy for the personal liabilities of Edmund D. Rheem, former executive head of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., yesterday received from trustees of that firm a long list of securities that were found in Rheem's desk after the collapse of his firm.

The securities aggregate in value approximately $80,000 and they will be applied along with other Rheem assets to the payments of claims that are pending against his estate. Included in the papers turned over to Shinn were certificates of the Burning Tree, Racquet Club, Sea View Golf Club an insurance policy and several small blocks of local bank stocks.

Annual Board of Trade Cruise Starts Saturday

The Washington-Norfolk Steamship District of Columbia will leave Seventh street wharves Saturday afternoon on the second annual chartered cruise of the Washington Board of Trade. Members of the board and their families will enjoy a three-day trip along the Potomac and Patuxent Rivers, Chesapeake Bay and Hampton Roads.

An elaborate program of entertainment has been arranged aboard the ship. Stops will be made at Annapolis, Solomon's Island and Norfolk. The boat will return here Tuesday after a brief layover at Virginia Beach.

Rheem Protester Carrying Sign Held

Ernest Beelitz, 59 years old, of 1016 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was arrested yesterday for creating a disturbance at Fourteenth and F streets northwest and charged at the First Precinct Station with violation of the sign ordinance.

Beelitz has been attracting attention in the downtown section of the city for several days with a sandwich sign he has been carrying announcing that he was robbed out of his life's savings by Edmund B. Rheem.

He was arrested by Policeman A. B. Mann when his sign drew a large crowd at the corner. Collateral of $5 was asked first for his release, but when it was found he had only $3 it was reduced to that amount. He refused to post his last $3 and was held at the station to appear in Police Court this morning.

Roosevelt Shrine Architects Named

Bill for Island Memorial Signed Yesterday by President.

The development of Analostan Island as a national memorial to President Roosevelt will be planned by John Russell Pope, of New York and Frederick Law Olmstead, of Brookline, Mass. well known architects, it was announced yesterday by the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

The island, situated in the Potomac River between the Francis Scott Key Bridge and the Memorial Bridge, was purchased from the Washington Gas Light Co. by the association, and was accepted by an act of Congress last week. The congressional acceptance changed the name of the strip of land to Roosevelt Island, the bill being signed by the President late yesterday.

Studies of the development will be made in cooperation with the Commission of Fine Arts, and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks, stated that funds for the development were lacking.

Los Angeles Flies Here With Student Officers

The Navy dirigible, Los Angeles, passed over Washington yesterday at 11:45 a. m. on a one-day practice cruise. Under the command of Commander F. T. Berry, the ship circled the city and flew toward Chesapeake Bay.

A crew of 38, including five student officers, were on board. No destination was announced when the ship left Lakehurst at 7:10 a. m. yesterday. Weather conditions permitting, the ship will remain in flight until sometime this morning. The Navy Department received no special communications from Commander Berry.

Boys Band Plays for Prisoners.

The Wheeler Club Boys Band, of Holy Comforter Church, under the direction of the Rev. Joseph F. Denges, assistant rector of the church, gave a band concert last night for the inmates of the District Jail. The concert was one of the entertainments for the prisoners planned by Col. William L. Peake.

Citizens' Body Gets Recreation Outline

North Capitol Group Hears Tentative Community Center Plans.

Plans for a tentative experimental recreational program for children and adults in the community centers of the city during the summer were outlined by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, director of the community center department of the public schools of the District of Columbia, speaking before a meeting of the North Capitol Citizens Association, last night at the McKinley High School Building.

The plans which encompass athletic games and civic programs will be put into effect in the North Capitol Community Center, and, if successful, will be instituted in other community centers, Mrs. Peeples said.

During a short business session the association adopted a resolution calling for the continuance of Henry Gilligan, attorney, of 2304 First street northwest, as a member of the District Board of Education. His present term will expire in June. The resolution will be mailed to the District Supreme Court.

Will P. Kennedy, presided.

Reading Boy's Body Found in Potomac

Detective Identifies Corpse as Brother's, Missing More Than Week.

The body of Thomas Lyon Reading, 19 years old, of 610 Irving street northwest, was found in the Potomac yesterday, near the old Aqueduct Bridge, by several boys while fishing.

The body was removed to the Potomac Boat Club, where positive identification was made by Detective M. K. Reading, his brother.

A police search was started for the youth when an automobile he was driving was found deserted on the banks of the river, near Chain Bridge, on Sunday, May 15. According to Detective Reading, his brother had said something about "ending it all" before he left his home that Sunday morning. A certificate of suicide will probably be issued by the coroner.

$25 Fine for Hit-Run Driver.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt, in Police Court, yesterday fined Glenn W. Coulson, of the Marine Barracks, $25 on a charge of leaving after colliding. Leslie Abell, a taxicab driver, chased Coulson after he had seen him strike a parked car at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast and drive away. The cab driver held Coulson until a policeman arrived and arrested him.
